POEMS YOU OUGHT TO KNOW.

Whatever your occupation may be, and however crowded your hours with affairs, do not fail to secure at least a few minutes every day for refreshment of your inner life with a bit of poetry.—Prof. Charles Eliot Norton.

WEARINESS.

BY LONGFELLOW.

O, little feet, that such long years
Must wander on through hopes and fears,
Must ache and bleed beneath your load;
I, nearer to the wayside inn
Where toil shall cease and rest begin,
Am weary, thinking of your road.

O, little hands, that, weak or strong,
Have still to serve or rule so long,
Have still so long to give or ask,
I, who so much with book and pen
Have toiled among my fellow men,
Am weary, thinking of your task.

O, little hearts, that throb and beat
With such impatient, feverish heat,
Such limitless and strong desires;
Mine that so long has glowed and burned,
With passion into ashes turned,
Now covers and conceals its fires.

O, little souls, as pure and white
And crystalline as rays of light,
Direct from heaven, their source divine;
Refracted through the mist of years,
How red my setting sun appears,
How lurid looks this soul of mine!

DOMESTIC:—

Bishop Cobb notified that new architect for Chicago postoffice will be appointed if [illegible] further delay in construction; only $1,000 on hand as protection against huge penalties already accrued.

Brady Merrill, former Boston lawyer and bank president in New Mexico, who is under arrest at New York for embezzlement 30 years ago, declared to be serving as scapegoat for a relative.

Lewis Yeager, Kokomo (Ind.) murder victim, said to have been lured to death by jealous woman; Frank Burns declares he saw Yeager in company with two women and two men; suspects released on bail.

President Roosevelt took part in Manila monument dedication at San Francisco and was given doctor of laws degree at Berkeley; banquet held in his honor by University club; start made for Yosemite.

Mrs. Lizzie McCormick, Memphis, Tenn., accused of sending poisoned whisky which caused death of one and serious illness of four other Adams Express company employés at Cincinnati.

The Rev. W. H. Sheak of Peru., Ind., resigned his pastorate of United Brethren church to accept position as natural history lecturer with circus and menagerie.

Body of Agatha Reichlin, Lorain (O.) murder victim, exhumed by coroner and bruises found under eye and on wrists; authorities threatened with damage suit by her brother.

Clew to destruction of steamer Naronic, found at New York in paper scraps, indicates infernal machine was responsible.

POLITICAL:—

Chicago park bills, including those for Crerar library and Field museum, and bill for annexation of Calumet and Evanston to drainage district, signed by Gov. Yates; Mueller bill arguments heard and signature expected on Monday.

Chicago republican judicial campaign taken charge of by John M. Smyth, but William Lorimer will continue as adviser.

LOCAL:—

Peter Burg, Peter Gray, and former Constable Frank Slater arrested after receiving $75 in marked bills under pretense of "fixing" personal taxes of Junior Coal company, 1105 Old Colony building.

Decree for $50,000 lake front improvements at Illinois Central expense entered by Judge Tuley; Englewood "L" road extension bonds filed; universal transfer ordinance partly completed; total cost will be $5,000,000.

Harold C. Mills, alleged assailant of Laura Stickler, accused by St. Louis wife with absconding with $4,000 of her money; Chicago wife wants him imprisoned for life; is said to be John Lepker of Dayton, O.

Anti-policy gambling crusade probably will be indorsed by Citizens' association at its next meeting; fund to aid prosecution is available in its treasury.

New York infernal machine was made in Chicago for G. Russell, who boarded at 287 Washington boulevard; John Clark, 52 South Morgan street, who worked on it, ignorant of its object.

FOREIGN:—

Gorgeous Chinese fête given by Pierre Loti near Paris; luxurious opium den included, and entrance of empress in royal robes, with Loti attending her.

Proposal for reduction of naval armaments discussed in British commons; France suggested as likely to entertain such offer, with Russia second; Germany doubtful, and United States held neither ally nor enemy.

T. Thomas Fortune, New York negro publisher and special commissioner to Hawaii, left Manila following arrest of his secretary for petty offense, and charge by police that Fortune resisted them.

Further outbreaks against Jews in southwestern Russia feared because of economic conditions there; trade and labor in principal towns are in Jewish control; police making no effort to prevent riots.

TRADE AND INDUSTRY:—

Chicago Union Traction receivers authorized by Judge Grosscup to borrow $149,835 needed to pay West Chicago company rentals and interest on floating debt of west and north side lines.

Deering Harvester works strike ended through Chicago Federation of Labor's efforts; nine hour working day and permission to join labor unions given by company; other differences will be arbitrated.

People's Gaslight company employés told by Chicago arbitration board they should not organize labor union, because public safety would be threatened if plants were subject to dictates of some leader.

All Denver (Colo.) labor unions, including 12,500 members, will strike today because of failure by Citizens' alliance and their leaders to agree over central arbitration board, which former demands.

Settlement of dispute between Chicago and open boards of trade likely as result of Austin Howard's election as president of latter organization on anti-bucket shop platform; quotation service may be resumed.

Ashwell & Co., New York brokers, must lose $115,000 through their failure to buy 200 Northern Pacific shares under 300 for Milmine, Bodman & Co. during 1901 corner; decision given by exchange committee.

Omaha (Neb.) strike situation more serious; assaults on teamsters increasing, and governor will be asked to send troops; rioters will be refused bail on police chief's orders.

New York cotton trading totaled 750,000 bales; July opened at 11 points advance; August at 14 points; subsequent selling by D. J. Sully caused break; large receipts reported.

COBB'S HEAD IS NOW IN DANGER.

Special Architect on Chicago Postoffice Told That Further Delays Will Cause His Removal.

EXPERT MAKES REPORT.

Treasury Department Keeps Back Contents, but Those Who Have Read the Papers Declare Them Sensational.

CHICAGO POSTOFFICE.—Special Architect Henry Ives Cobb has been officially notified that if there is any more delay in the work on the new Chicago building a new architect will succeed him. Recent report by treasury department expert said to contain startling disclosures.

TRADE REPORTS.—Balance of trade for last ten months shows falling off of $226,278,238, as compared with 1901. Is due to enormous advance in imports.

[BY RAYMOND.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Special Architect Henry Ives Cobb has been officially notified that if there is any more delay in the completion of the Chicago public building a new architect will be appointed to finish the structure without further notice. Secretary Shaw today declined to discuss the matter, refusing to deny or affirm the story. Nevertheless there is reliable authority for these statements.

There is much dissatisfaction at Mr. Cobb and his conduct of affairs, and the department has grown tired of delay after delay in executing the contracts made with the government. Charges have been filed against Architect Cobb and are now in the possession of the secretary, who would not discuss them further than to admit he had received a long letter containing many charges against Cobb, who, it is alleged, has been entirely too lenient in his treatment of Peirce, the contractor.

Mr. Cobb recommended that the bond of Peirce for completing the contract for the exterior work be reduced from $500,000 to $50,000. Secretary Shaw was on the point of approving the recommendation, but his attention was called to the fact that if the bond should be reduced the government might lose a considerable amount of money on account of the penalties which may be imposed for failure to complete the work within the time specified in the contract, for alterations which may have to be made, and the work yet to be completed.

Penalties to the amount of many thousand dollars have accrued, and the government has on hand but $50,000 to offset them, and work amounting to a sum equal to the funds in hand remains to be done on the exterior contract. If the bond had been reduced to $50,000, as recommended by Mr. Cobb, there would have been no way in which the government could protect itself on account of penalties.

It is admitted that not enough money has been reserved to protect the government, and the bondsmen of Peirce will have to be called upon to make good the penalties if Secretary Shaw decides to enforce them. All disbursements on account of the Chicago building were made on recommendation of Mr. Cobb previous to the time the building was practically taken out of his hands and placed under the direction of the supervising architect of the treasury department.

***

The dissatisfaction with Mr. Cobb has been growing stronger for months, and it was shortly after his strange recommendation that the bond be reduced that Secretary Shaw directed his jurisdiction over the Chicago building be transferred from Cobb to the government architect, and that the special architect be divested of all authority, including the direction of the disbursement of funds. Under the instructions of Secretary Shaw, Mr. Cobb has no authority whatever in connection with the building, except to execute the work. No orders for a change in any work given by Mr. Cobb have any effect unless approved by the supervising architect.

Mr. Cobb cannot direct the inspection or acceptance of any work, nor can he authorize the disbursement of any funds on his own responsibility. All his recommendations must be submitted to the supervising architect and the secretary of the treasury, both of whom have authority to disapprove his suggestions. The charges made against the special architect and the investigations made by the experts of the department have badly shaken the confidence of the department in Mr. Cobb. One of the charges repeatedly made is to the effect that a sufficient reduction was not made on account of the large columns, which were cut into several pieces instead of being put in position as solid columns. Charges both definite and indefinite in character are in the hands of Secretary Shaw, but he will not disclose them. He will visit Chicago in ten days, when he will inquire into the matters relating to the building. Some elaborate plans for the interior of the building have been recommended by Mr. Cobb, but it is by no means certain they will be adopted.

He made some suggestions regarding the expenditure of a large amount of money, and was directed to prepare these plans, with all the details, and to submit them, together with the samples to be used, for the action of Secretary Shaw and Supervising Architect Taylor. His plans will not be adopted until they have been examined closely and the government will assure itself that it will pay no more for any material for the building than the price for which it can be purchased in the open market.

***

It is asserted on good authority that Secretary Shaw has more than enough cause to dismiss Mr. Cobb summarily. Some time ago an expert of the supervising architect's office visited Chicago and made a thorough examination of the new building. He made a report to his superior officer, which is now in the hands of Secretary Shaw. Those who have read this report assert the expert found a condition of affairs existing in connection with the structure which is startling. This report will not be made public, according to the treasury officials, as it is regarded as confidential. THE TRIBUNE has already published the substance of a portion of it, but that part which is so closely guarded is said to contain sensational revelations. Repeated demands for a copy of this report have been made, but have always met with refusal. It is also charged that the auditor for the treasury department has declined to approve Mr. Cobb's accounts for traveling expenses between Washington and New York, where his headquarters are now located. When he

BEARS ALL FOR ANOTHER.

MOODY MERRILL, SCAPEGOAT, SILENT AND LOYAL.

After Ten Years of Atonement Under Assumed Name He Faces Accusations of Embezzlement in New York—Made Victim of Treachery and His Fears Played Upon by Those Who Robbed Him—Claims He Has Paid All—Will Be Arraigned Today.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Ten years of suffering, ten years of bearing another's burdens, ten years of restitution for wrongs committed by the man for whom he has been the scapegoat, have not changed the loyalty of "John Brown"—Moody Merrill—Charles F. Grayson, to the man for whom he has suffered expatriation and the obloquy which comes from the confession of guilt implied by flight.

Tomorrow Merrill will be arraigned on the charge of embezzling $19,000 from Sarah Cohen of Boston, and it is believed he will remain silent and take what punishment the law may mete out to him rather than betray the identity of the individual he has shielded so long.

Once High in Financial World.

Ten years ago Merrill was a leading financier of Boston, handling in a confidential capacity money of many clients. One day, so his friends say, he discovered that a certain person, dearer to him than his own reputation, had abused his trust and the trust of his clients. Taking upon his own shoulders the onus of the whole affair, he fled.

In New Mexico he became a banker, became wealthy and respected. He began the work of restitution and sending money to Boston. When the last jot and title had been paid he started for the land of his youth, arriving in New York last week. His arrest resulted from the good memory of an old acquaintance.

Now the tragedy of the whole sad story appears:

Hard Won Money Stolen.

The money he sent from New Mexico to make whole those wronged by the affair of ten years ago has not reached its destination. The police in Boston learned today that a large portion of the money he sent has been stolen. Not only have the persons who have acted as his agents converted the money to their own uses, but have worked on the fears of Merrill to keep him not only away from Boston, where he might learn the truth, but also to keep him sending along other large sums to them by representations that they were applying the money to old debts and to getting the indictments against him dismissed.

Released on Cash Bail.

Merrill was released today on $1,000 cash bail, furnished by himself. He declares he has documents to show that he has liquidated his indebtedness.

Mrs. Cohen, the complainant, arrived in New York tonight. Her son-in-law arrived this afternoon and endeavored to have a conference with Merrill, but the latter would not consent. He wishes to have Mrs. Cohen appear in court, so that the case can be thrashed out at a hearing in this city before action is taken to remove him to Boston for trial.

Story of Grayson Career.

The old man refused to say a word of his history, but a man who knows of his career said today:

"When 'John Brown, 55 William street, New York,' was taken into custody the New York police arrested one of the biggest financiers in New Mexico. Down in that country 'John Brown' is Charles F. Grayson, president of the Silver City National bank. The bank has a capital of $50,000, a surplus of $45,000, and deposits aggregating $225,000. Its New York correspondent is the Hanover National bank, and it has correspondents in St. Louis and Kansas City. It is one of the strongest banks in New Mexico, and Mr. Grayson has been its president for more than ten years.

"In the past Grayson has handled nearly $5,000,000 for various banks and bankers in New York, and every cent has been scrupulously accounted for.

"This may seem no extraordinary thing to the average banker, but I mention it because this man for the time being is held up as a crook. If he was naturally dishonest he could in the country in which he has been living many years have gotten away with a good part of the millions he handled for New York accounts, and the New Yorkers could have whistled for the money.

"But what is perhaps more interesting than anything else is the fact that Charles F. Grayson, the New Mexico banker, never tried to conceal the fact from his friends in New York or elsewhere he was in reality Moody Merrill, a lawyer and financier of Boston. I don't mean to say he has worn placards announcing the fact, but I have reason to believe that people in New York and Boston knew Grayson and Merrill to be one and the same.

"I can see no harm in telling the incubus under which this man has lived, worked, and righted the wrongs done as Moody Merrill. Grayson is a bigger man in Boston than he is today in New Mexico.

"Property was intrusted and money was given to him to invest. One day it came out that a large part of this trust fund had been dissipated. Merrill was accused, but never lifted a finger to clear himself of the charge, but fled from the city, which in itself was a confession of guilt.

"Moody Merrill, lawyer, financier, street railway magnate, and once a candidate for mayor of Boston, was branded as a felon, and from that day to this never put in a defense, and I believe he will put in none now, even to save himself from the state prison.

Took Burden of Friend.

"Some of his friends, however, knew the story behind Moody Merrill's alleged defalcation. The man had a relative who was dear to him, whom he trusted. That relative made a misstep, and on trying to get to the straight road again helped himself to some money and property intrusted to Merrill. Money was borrowed, and thereafter it was the old story.

"When Merrill understood the situation he said, to all intents and purposes, 'I did it,' and fled. Since then he has settled with the creditors as he could, and I am told he has settled every one of the claims against him, including the one for $19,000 on which he was arrested here.

"The money, as the story has been told to me, was sent to a representative of Sarah Cohen, and if the woman did not get it it is not Merrill's fault. Merrill long ago regretted that he ever assumed the name of Grayson, and often has said it was a great mistake, but he wanted to begin all over again when he went to New Mexico and did what then seemed to be best. However great his mistake may have been, Charles F. Grayson has prospered in his new home and is highly esteemed there."

It may be that some of the old man's history may become court record at his hearing, but until then his lawyers, Wentworth, Lowenstein & Stern refuse to make any statement regarding their client, and none of his friends in town—he appears to have many of standing and wealth in the financial district—will say much about him.

TRAP THREE IN TAX FIXING DEAL.

Trio Captured Just as They Are Paid in Marked Bills for the Services They Were to Render.

DETECTIVES ON WATCH.

Gang Opens Negotiations with the Junior Coal Company and Assessor's Office Is Notified.

After accepting $75 in marked bills under the pretense of fixing the personal property taxes of the Junior Coal company, 1105 Old Colony building, Peter Burg, Peter Gray, and former Constable Frank Slater, alias George Collins, were arrested in the offices of the coal company yesterday afternoon.

The arrests were made as the result of a well laid trap devised by L. W. Ferguson, manager of the coal company, to catch the men, who represented themselves as a "committee from the assessor's office."

The prisoners were charged with conspiring to obtain money under false pretenses, and after being locked up at the Harrison street police station were released on bonds of $300 each. They will have a hearing before Justice Prindiville today.

Chance to "Save Money."

The scheme by which the prisoners sought to defraud the coal company began with a visit of Burg and Gray to the offices of the concern last Tuesday. While Manager Ferguson was talking with Z. W. Davis, the bookkeeper of the company, the two men afterwards identified as Burg and Gray walked in. They asked an interview with the manager.

On being shown into the private office of Mr. Ferguson they said they came to collect the personal property taxes of the company.

"Who are you?" asked Mr. Ferguson.

"We represent the county assessors, and are ready to fix up your taxes," was the reply. "We can save you money."

First Demand Is for $100.

"Now, here," he continued, "how much coal have you in your yards at Fifty-seventh and Halsted streets?"

"Fifteen hundred tons," was the answer.

"Well, you will have 50,000 tons by fall, will you not?"

"Yes."

"Now, we can fix this so your taxes will be $56 a year for the next four years," said Burg. "You give us $100 and it will be O. K."

Mr. Ferguson at once became suspicious, and put the two men off. Then they offered to take $75 and fix the matter up, but were again turned down.

"I am too busy today," interrupted Mr. Ferguson. "Come back in a day or two."

Anxious to Close Deal.

On Wednesday Burg called up the coal office on the telephone and asked Mr. Ferguson if he was ready to do business. He was told to come around the following day.

Mr. Ferguson at once communicated with John J. Dedrick of the assessor's office, who declared the men had no authority to collect taxes, and he entered into the plan to catch them in the act of receiving money in the transaction.

Detectives Keefe and Cudmore were summoned to the Old Colony office yesterday morning, and while they were there Burg called Mr. Ferguson up on the telephone again. As soon as he recognized the voice Detective Keefe was stationed at the telephone switchboard of the company, where he could hear the conversation that took place over the wire.

Couldn't Wait Till Today.

"Are you ready to close up that deal?" asked the man at the other end of the wire.

"Well, I am pretty busy," replied Mr. Ferguson.

"Jump into a cab and bring the money over to 55 Fifth avenue right away," again came the voice.

"No; we will have to postpone it, for I am too busy," answered Mr. Ferguson. "Come around tomorrow."

Confident that the "tax fixers" would go over to the office at once, seven $10 bills and one $5 bill were secured and carefully marked. Before the details of the trap were fully completed in walked Burg, Gray, and Slater.

Marked Money Paid Over.

Mr. Ferguson gave the money to Bookkeeper Davis and instructed him to step out into the main office and give it to the "committee." Detective Keefe was stationed at the door, where he could see the transaction. The bookkeeper handed the money to Gray, who counted it and passed it to Slater. Then the trio was arrested.

All three were loud in their protest against what they called "an outrage." They admitted to Detectives Cudmore and Keefe that the money had been received, but declared it represented a "campaign assessment" or payment for "some advertising" in a program of the Cook County democracy.

Money Strangely Disappears.

Detectives Keefe and Cudmore neglected to search the men, and on their arrival with their prisoners at detective headquarters the marked money could not be found. Slater is thought to have passed the bills to a confederate in the elevator of the Old Colony building.

Burg and Gray are known as the "two Dromios," also as the "two Petes," and are always seen together. They have solicited subscriptions to political entertainments and balls and have been active in ward politics.

When Slater was arrested he gave the name of Frank Collins, but as soon as he was taken to detective headquarters he was recognized as Slater. He recently figured in a shooting affair with former Deputy Sheriff Sam O'Neill in the Opera saloon in Clark street and was dangerously wounded. He only recently recovered from the wound.

The prisoners were released on bonds signed by M. J. Quirk, owner of the saloon in which Slater was shot, and by M. H. Rogers, a saloonkeeper of the west side.

Offer to Return Money.

"A man named Burke, to whom Burg telephoned," said Manager Ferguson, "came to my office and asked for the men's release, but I refused. When we reached the station Burke had disappeared, and Burg said he gave him the money. Burg told Lieut. Rohan he would have the money returned if I promised to drop the case. I refused and told them that I would fight the case to a finish, and I certainly will."

FLAT FIRE KILLS THREE.

WESTCHESTER BUILDING IN COTTAGE GROVE AVENUE GUTTED.

Little Girl Suffocated and Two Unidentified Men Buried in Basement—One Legged Man Jumps and Is Fatally Hurt—Several Others Carried Away in Ambulances.

Three lives at least were lost and a score of persons were hurt, some of them fatally, in the burning of the three story Westchester flat building, Fiftieth street and Cottage Grove avenue at 5 o'clock this morning.

The Dead.

RHASA, MINNIE, 7 years old, died of suffocation.
TWO UNKNOWN MEN, buried in basement.

Fatally Hurt.

Hubbard, Louis, jumped from third story window; taken to Chicago hospital.
Huffman, Mrs., 35 years old, thrown from upper window by her husband.

In addition to the foregoing nearly a dozen more or less seriously hurt were removed in police ambulances or cared for in nearby buildings.

The fire started just before 5 o'clock, while many occupants of the three story structure were still asleep. A first alarm was followed almost immediately by a "4-11" call, and then by another for special engines. Before the first of these arrived the entire building was on fire.

The first floor of the building was occupied by stores, and thirty-five families are said to have resided in the two upper floors. The structure had a frontage of about 150 feet and was located where the slight wind had a good sweep at it.

Almost the first of the occupants to appear was a one legged man named Hubbard, who started to climb from an upper window and either jumped or lost his balance. He was picked up unconscious on the sidewalk and carried to the Chicago hospital, which is located close by. The doctors who attended him declared that he probably would die from his hurts.

A 7 year old girl named Rhasa was the next victim. She was carried unconscious from the building to Sisson's drug store, where she died soon after.

Building Quickly Destroyed.

The engines arrived at the scene late and the building was a mass of flames at the time.

On the top floor Mrs. Rhasa, a daughter, 7 years old, and a baby lived. They were all taken from their apartment unconscious.

Hubbard jumped from the top floor, landing on his shoulder and head. His ear was torn off.

Lieut. Healy of the Hyde Park police station stated that two men whose names are unknown were buried in the basement of the building, but owing to the heat the firemen were unable to get to the place where their bodies are supposed to be located.

The total loss to the building is over $50,000, and contents over $10,000.

PARIS IS GIVEN NEW THRILL.

Pierre Loti Transforms His Studio into Oriental Court, in Which Japanese Princess Is Central Figure

PARIS, May 14.—Pierre Loti, the writer of romances, the sailor, and the author of "Mademoiselle Crysanthememe," and other narratives of Japan and the orient has given a Chinese fête at Rochefort, which will mark a red letter day in the annals of entertaining for those in search of novel and exotic sensations. There was an opium den luxuriously fitted up where the dangerous delights of opium smoking could be tried.

The invitation cards bore a mysterious request that all guests arrive before 10 o'clock, for at that hour her imperial majesty, Ou Tse Tsien, the empress of China, was to appear and receive the homage of the novelist's friends.

The "Raphael saloon" was upholstered in red velvet. Mme. Pierre Loti, clad in a sumptuous Chinese court dress of green and orange, embroidered with gold, received the guests. With her were her two nieces, also in Chinese costume.

The host was invisible, and whispers said etiquette required that he should remain in attendance on the empress.

LANDLORD GETS INJUNCTION STOPPING A WOMAN'S TALK.

Plaintiff Charges Tenant with Causing Occupants of Apartment Building to Leave and Judge Sides with Him.

Omaha, Neb., May 14.—[Special.]—The latest in restraining orders was issued by Judge Baxter in the District court this morning, when he enjoined a woman from talking. The complainant was L. Oliphant Dodge, the owner of an apartment house, and the defendant was Mrs. E. Berge, a tenant, who refuses to vacate until her lease expires.

The allegations are that the defendant has upon numerous occasions by talking to the other occupants caused some of them to announce their intention of leaving the apartments; that she has interfered with the property in different ways, all to the injury of the plaintiff.

The defendant is forbidden to enter the apartments of the other occupants, and from talking to any of the tenants about the plaintiff in any manner.

MYSTERY IN NEW DAMAGE SUIT.

Jennie McIlroy Wants $25,000 from J. W. Evans—Her Attorneys Will Not Talk.

Court attachés are wondering what is back of the filing of a suit for $25,000 damages on Wednesday by Jennie McIlroy against James W. Evans. J. W. Byam and Thomas S. Hogan appear as attorneys for the plaintiff, but neither would reveal the cause of the action.

"It is an unwritten law and the ethics of the legal profession not to discuss the affairs of a client," declared Attorney Byam.

"See Mr. Byam. He has the most to say about the case," said Attorney Hogan.

To a dozen questions put to the attorneys the reply was: "I cannot say." The directions given the sheriff to serve a summons was that Mr. Evans' business address was 804 National Life building. He is said to be out of the city. Nothing has been filed in the case beyond a precipe.

LAST WORD SAID ON MUELLER LAW

Governor Hears Final Arguments by Friends of the Municipal Ownership Measure.

YATES HAS A BUSY DAY.

Chicago Men and Interests Take His Time—Signs Ten Park Bills and Drainage District Act.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—This was Chicago day at the state capitol, and the governor put in a series of strenuous hours to affairs vital to the big city, as follows:

Heard arguments from Mayor Harrison, Graeme Stewart, John M. Harlan, Edwin Burritt Smith, and Walter L. Fisher in favor of the Mueller bill.
Signed ten bills providing for Chicago parks, including provisions for Field museum and Crerar library.
Heard arguments from Chicago delegation for and against the Torrens bill.
Received a delegation of fifty members of the State Dental society and announced he would veto the Clark dental bill.
Heard arguments from delegation for and against bill repealing indeterminate sentence law.
Vetoed the bill increasing salaries of judges of the Circuit and Superior courts outside of Cook county.
Received delegation who argued for and against the telephone bill.
Signed twenty-three house bills and ten senate bills.

Friends of Mueller Bill Hopeful.

The Chicago delegation which appeared before the governor to argue in behalf of the Mueller bill left Springfield, encouraged by the belief that all the objections to the measure had been met and answered, and that the governor will sign the bill next Monday. The hearing began at the executive office at 9 o'clock. The men who addressed the governor were Graeme Stewart, John M. Harlan, Mayor Harrison, Edwin Burritt Smith, and Walter L. Fisher. John H. Hamline was not present.

Mayor Harrison said at the opening of the meeting: "You will recall that when we were here at the last hearing you were kind enough to give us, just before we adjourned, a paper which was presented and prepared by a Mr. Foote, I believe (Yes, sir.), setting forth objections, as he conceived them, to the Mueller bill, and at that time the suggestion was made that later on, either in writing or orally, a committee representing the city of Chicago would like to be heard in answer to those objections. That is primarily the purpose, I believe, of this meeting today. Mr. Smith, attorney for the city in this matter, will take up the paper of Mr. Foote and answer the arguments he has adduced."

Stewart Tells Political History.

Mr. Stewart spoke of politics entering into the bill by indirection in describing how the Mueller bill came to be framed, saying:

"In January of this year I was engaged in an active primary contest with Mr. Harlan for the republican nomination for mayor of the city of Chicago. At that time, or prior to that time, the common council of the city of Chicago had, under direction of the mayor, taken up this subject, and the transportation committee and the mayor had favored what is known as the Finn municipal ownership bill. The local transportatinon committee favored or brought into existence another bill, known as the Jackson bill, so that partisan lines were drawn. The majority of the common council of the city of Chicago is republican. The Finn bill was drawn by Ald. Finn. The Jackson bill was approved by the council, sent to Springfield, and indorsed by them. The contest then was as to what kind of legislation we could get in Springfield.

"Mr. Walter Fisher drafted a bill on the lines of the Finn bill and the Jackson bill and submitted it to Senator Carl Mueller, who brought it to me. After examination I told Senator Mueller to introduce it. I urged the reporting of the Mueller bill out of committee to the senate. Amendments were made to the bill."

All Chicago for Measure.

After speaking of the part the traction question had played in the campaign Mr. Stewart said:

"I will say, and I am safe in saying, that the people of the city of Chicago are practically unanimous, or were at that time, and are now, I believe, for this legislation. I was urged by thousands of men personally and by letters to give this bill all the support I could on the platform during the campaign."

Harlan Answers Questions.

The concluding argument made by John M. Harlan probably was the most interesting of the day, because it took up the line of the actual operation of the bill. Frequently Gov. Yates interrupted the speaker to ask questions, all of which were answered by Mr. Harlan. Other members of the Chicago delegation, in their anxiety, frequently broke into the argument with responses in addition to those given by Mr. Harlan.

Mr. Harlan began by saying that he did not expect to present anything new, but that he might be of service in expounding a few new ideas from matters previously presented.

"After all," said Mr. Harlan, "the sum and substance of the matter come down to this: We have had wretchedly poor service and we want good service. If there is a demand for municipal ownership it is because, having had private ownership for a series of years and having suffered from poor service for six or seven years without relief, the association of ideas has induced the thought that the way to have good service, which is the opposite of bad service, is to have public ownership, which is the opposite of private ownership.

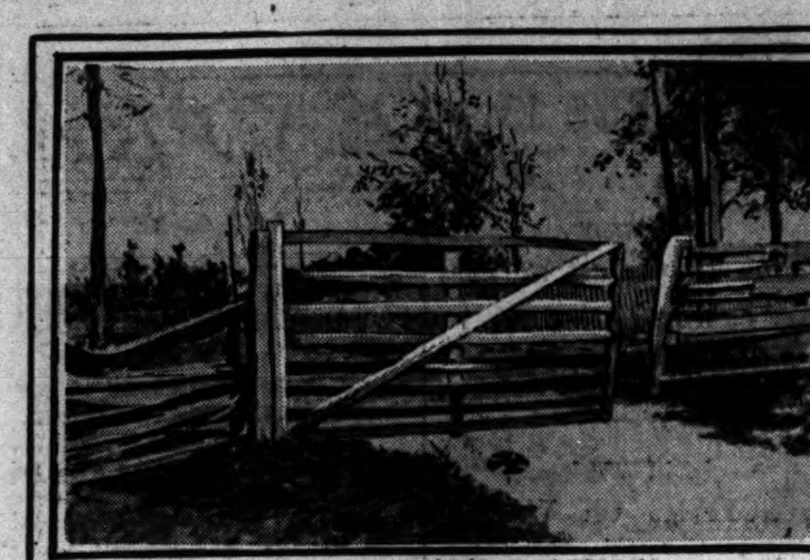

"I venture to predict that five years of good service under private ownership would make serious inroads upon the ranks of those who now believe municipal ownership is the thing we must have."

What Bill Makes Possible.

"Now, the policy of this enabling legislation is this: To give the city of Chicago not only a legal right to own and operate street railway lines, or to lease them if it choose, but to give it that legal right and give it also effective power to exercise that right by the best financial provisions that are possible to be framed, to enable the city having such legislation to put a reservation into the franchises of those companies that shall be granted in the settlement of this question, the reservation of the right to purchase.

"What, then, will be the incentive of the company? To please the public, to make the service so good up to the end of the franchise that the public will not want to exercise the right of purchase, but will be content to have a private company operate."

It was at this point that Mr. Harlan came to what proves to be the keynote of the situation in the governor's mind. John H. Hamline's argument before him and opinions rendered to the governor have left the impression with the latter that the city council of 1903 can in some way bind the city council of 1923 with conditions so onerous that neither the city nor the new grantees could afford to take the property, and therefore the present grantee of 1903, not having a longer franchise than twenty years, would remain in an indefinite occupancy of the streets.

Governor's Main Objection.

In an interview given nearly a week ago the governor for the first time split hairs between franchise and occupancy. From the question put by him this morning it is evident that the governor's action on the bill will be based upon this point alone. Mr. Harlan denied emphatically that the grantees of 1903 can by any crook or turn have a longer occupancy of the streets than twenty years under this measure.

"What is the present idea," asked Gov. Yates of Mr. Harlan, "with reference to burdens or terms under which, say in 1923, the whole transaction would be governed or burdened? Is it the idea to provide in the ordinance not exact terms upon which property shall be taken over, but for some system of appraisal or something of that kind?"

Here Mayor Harrison interposed a reply: "The appraisement of the tangible property and physical property."

Continuing, the governor asked: "Occurring at termination of grant?"

Here Walter Fisher responded to the last question put by the executive, saying: "There is no division on that question and hasn't been for five years."

"After getting a better understanding of the question," Mr. Harlan replied, "that is, what the city can pay for the tangible property, it is limited by the Rinaker amendment and the securities that may be issued. There is always that limit as a safeguard against improper, improvident, or corrupt purchase."

Governor Asks Question.

"Then, as I understand it," asked Gov. Yates, "you deny the contention made so earnestly the other day that the council of 1903 could tie the hands of the men in 1923?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Harlan, "if by tying the hands of the company so as to secure privileges for the generation in 1923 it could not, either through lack of foresight or collusion or any other cause, tie the hands of the next generation so that generation would be at the mercy of those companies."

Gov. Yates—Would an ordinance made in 1903, or, for example, in 1905, under a bad council be repealable?"

Mr. Harlan—Not if accepted by the companies and so far as it was contractual. It would be irrepealable, I should take it, if the company had accepted it and spent money upon the faith of it, except under such conditions as might come fairly within the police power of the state, which cannot be contracted off. But if any improvident bargain were made, which is preposterous, the city would be absolute master of the situation and could buy the property upon its own terms, for all it would have to do would be to elect not to make the purchase, to elect not to make a new grant to the old company or to a new, and to say: "We are going in the street car business ourselves, and, Mr. Company, we give you this fair notice: If you want to save money, if you want to have some salvage out of your properties, make a fair price on it, because we give you notice that in thirty days we are going to build a line in every street you are in."

Asks Effect of Bad Bargain.

Gov. Yates—You think that would be the worst possible result of an improvident bargain?

Mr. Harlan—Yes, sir. I think under no circumstances could anything worse than that possibly result.

Here Mr. Fisher interposed a statement: "In the meantime the company could not run a car on its own tracks. Hamline concedes that."

Mr. Harlan—It could even grant a new franchise to a new company to occupy some of the streets of the old company and new streets if it so chose. It is a reservation of the right to purchase. The city is not bound to purchase.

Continuing his argument, Mr. Harlan said that the Trautmann amendment had improved the bill; that it insured the existing company fair treatment on its investment in tangible property.

"So it will not let its property run down?" asked Gov. Yates.

"Yes," replied Mr. Harlan.

Points Governor's Duty.

At this point Mr. Harlan took up a different line of argument, which before he had concluded brought a couple of caustic questions from the governor.

Mr. Harlan said: "I want to leave the bill itself now and say something along a little different line. The whole theory of our institutions and our government, as I understand it, is that we have no rulers in this country. We have no caretakers. The public officers are not guardians of the people, in the sense in which a minor has a guardian to be the judgment and the will and thinker for the minor. Public officers are, as I understand it, public servants, and it is no derogation from the dignity of the exalted position you hold to say, sir, that in the last analysis you are, what I know you regard yourself as governor, a servant of the people.

"Now, if that is true, what does it mean? It means that your duty and your pleasure are always, if you can, to ascertain what the will of the people is, and then to perform the will of the people, even though perchance you may think the people will not act wisely for themselves.

"If you are clear that it is the will of the people and you are the servant of the people, then your duty and your pleasure will alike lead you to do what the people want done, not as the result of a spasmodic outburst, but as the result of six or seven years of travail, contention, heat, and earnest discussion, and patient suffering of an intolerable condition.

Speaks for Entire City.

"It is not often that a speaker is able to come and say with absolute confidence that he is speaking for the people of an entire city like Chicago, even though he may think he is and may desire to. Public opinion favored so strongly the Mueller bill that in the heat of the mayoralty campaign Mayor Harrison relinquished his own bill for this bill.

"Public opinion also caused newspapers to change front on the bill.

"I say deliberately, of all those who have publicly opposed this bill in the legislature or the signing of the bill, there is not a single man who has ever been the authorized spokesman of the people of Chicago with respect to any matter the people of that city had at heart—there is not a man who has urged you to veto this bill——"

Mr. Harlan's last statement brought a quick response from the governor.

"Nobody has urged me to veto this bill," indignantly said the governor. "Not a soul, except Mr. Hamline."

Mr. Harlan explained: "My remark includes Mr. Hamline. In intended it to include everybody that I knew of who might have urged the vetoing of this bill.

"In our number are men who from time to time have received distinct evidences that they stood close to the people and understood what the people wanted, and were trusted by the people to be their spokesmen on occasions like this when the people's interests were at stake. I think this is a circumstance clearly to be considered in this matter when you are looking for evidence as to what the people really wish, which, after all, is what your excellency is looking for, isn't it?"

Thinks Public May Go Wrong.

Gov. Yates took exception to the imputation that public opinion would furnish the reason to sign the bill, saying: "Not entirely. That cannot be said to be true. The objection here, the objection by Mr. Hamline, is that this bill is seriously objectionable; that it will do a great injustice to this generation and the next, that it has been passed under a misapprehension, that it has been passed at the whip and spur of newspapers, that is his contention. He denies, as I understand it, that the people want this bill, and points to the fact that on this question there has never been anything but a partial indication of the fact upon the part of the people as such.

"Then he takes the high ground, or did the other day, that it makes no difference if the whole people of the state of Illinois are for the bill, if that bill provides what he claims it does, it ought to be vetoed. In other words, if the bill is bad, I don't agree that it is the duty of the executive to sit here like a slave and sign a bill simply because for the time being popular support may be in favor of the measure. As to whether the people want it, that is not entirely the question. If the people want it that is a great point in favor of any bill, but if the bill will work a great injustice and work to the interests of the corporations having franchises and against the interests of the people, it is the duty of the executive under his oath to consider that seriously before he will sign it. That is what I am doing."

Insists on Right of Veto.

Mr. Harlan's statement, "The city ought to have a right to deal with this business question with the same latitude of treatment as an individual," again aroused the governor, who responded:

"I don't pretend for one minute to any superior wisdom in regard to this matter; but you might just as well abolish the constitutional privilege of veto if a man has got to act upon bills in accordance with the majority."

Harrison Points to Safeguards.

At the conclusion of Mr. Harlan's remarks Mr. Harrison said: "Mr. Harlan spoke of the fact that this bill would not become effective until submitted to the referendum of the people. In fact, all features of the bill require a referendum and affirmative vote of the people, in some instances three-fifths of the voters, before the provisions become effective.

"The rights of the public really are safeguarded further than that because of this fact: It is now the settled policy of the administration and the city council of Chicago that no ordinance shall be passed granting an extension of franchise to existing street railway companies, or new companies, without first being submitted to the people and receiving the approval of a majority of the voters.

"These burdens Mr. Hamline speaks of could not well be placed in an ordinance granted to a street railway company, because the ordinance, to become effective, must first be submitted to the approval of the citizens and receive an affirmative vote of the people of Chicago.

"I add my thanks to those of Mr. Harlan. We appreciate the time you have given us today."

Validity of Bill Unquestioned.

"Now I am coming to the point. I never understood Mr. Hamline to say in his argument that he thought this bill would be invalid. I understand this proposition, simply expressed, is this: That by virtue of what is called the Trautmann amendment the city council of 1903, or, for that matter, any bad city council succeeding, say the council of 1905 or 1907, would, under that amendment, include and provide in its grant, in other words, in its ordinance, terms under which the city or grantee in 1923 must take over that property. Now, his point was that it conferred upon the city council of 1903, good or bad, or on any bad city council that might succeed that council, absolute power to put into that ordinance terms which would be onerous, that neither the city of 1923 nor the grantee of 1923 could take it over. Now, the result of that is, as I understand his argument, that under this bill there would be no perpetual franchise but a perpetual occupancy under a legal twenty year grant. This was what I tried to state to the attorney general, that Hamline's contention was that this bill gave perpetual occupancy and that this was not cured by the provisions of section 6, which prohibited only a grant of more than twenty years, and did not prohibit perpetual occupancy under a perfectly legal grant of twenty years."

Arguments advanced by Edwin Burritt Smith, Graeme Stewart, and Walter Fisher were more along the line that has been presented previously. In effect, Mr. Smith charged that a little paper operated by Ripley Allen Foote existed largely from contributions made to it by corporations, and from this fact he suggested the reason for the argument presented by Foote, urging the veto of the bill.

Yates Hits at Attorney General.

At the outset this morning Gov. Yates took it upon himself to make a preliminary statement, in which he said things about Attorney General Hamlin which had been on his mind for some days. Severe criticism was given the opinion furnished the governor at his request by the attorney general on the street car bill. The governor's preliminary statement is as follows:

"On the 7th of May, in view of the pending adjournment of the legislature, I addressed a communication to the attorney general and also wired to Mr. Hamline. I asked the attorney general to give a legal opinion as to the legal effect of each section of the Mueller bill. I undertook to convey certain objections made by Mr. Hamline. I don't think I expressed them clearly. The result was an opinion from the attorney general in which he stated that the legal effect and operation of the bill would include the wisdom or policy of the bill, which I do not understand to be true at all. I asked him nothing about the wisdom or policy of the bill. I asked him the legal effect of each section of the bill. Instead of doing that he answered my questions, which I think were obscure, and at the close of his letter stated: 'That all things considered, he thought there was no provision of the bill which rendered it invalid.'"

In the opinion of the members of the Chicago delegation which returned from Springfield last night, Gov. Yates is likely to sign the Mueller bill or allow it to become a law without his signature. Mayor Harrison, Graeme Stewart, John M. Harlan, and other members of the committee expressed themselves as more hopeful than they had been before.

"The governor's most persistent inquiry," said Mayor Harrison, "was relative to the effect of the Trautmann amendment, and I believe he was answered completely. He wanted to know what would be the situation if the city council of today were to place such a figure on the traction properties that the city council of the next generation could not meet it. This was the point raised by Mr. Hamline. He wanted to know if this meant practically an indeterminate, if not perpetual franchise, for the companies.

"He was shown conclusively that the franchise in any event was limited to twenty years, and that if the city council of the next generation could not meet the figures set by the present council nothing prevented it from laying out a new system. I am hopeful of the result of the conference. The governor said he would take Saturday and Monday for consideration of the bill."

"Some time had to be used in refuting the argument that politics was involved in the matter," said Mr. Stewart. "After that the time was devoted to discussion of the Trautmann amendment."

"I believe the governor will sign the bill," said Mr. Harlan.

"It is difficult to see how Gov. Yates can do anything else than sign the measure," said Walter L. Fisher of the Municipal Voters' league.

GOVERNOR SIGNS PARK BILLS.

Consideration of Chicago Measures Takes Up Entire Day of the Executive's Time.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—Late tonight Gov. Yates signed the Chicago park bills, ten in number. They include the measures providing for the Crerar library, the Field museum, the Lincoln park extension, and several others, as follows:

Merchants' club bill for the building of a boulevard out in the lake over submerged lands east of the Illinois Central railroad right of way, and connecting Lincoln and Jackson parks.

The tax levy bill for the improvement and maintenance of Grant park, adding a large acreage of land out to the harbor line, east of the Illinois Central tracks.

The bill correcting the title of Grant park.

The bill reclaiming the strip of submerged lands from the southern limit of Jackson park south to Windsor beach.

The bill conferring authority for a $1,000,000 bond issue by the town of Lake View for the purpose of reclaiming from the lake 215 acres as an addition to Lincoln park, extending from Fullerton avenue north to Cornelia street.

The Lincoln park bill, giving the Circuit courts the right to determine the shore line and to condemn riparian rights. The purpose of the bill is to give to the park board power to clear up some disputed claims along Sheridan road, north of Lincoln park, bordering on the lake.

Drainage Bill Signed.

Gov. Yates today signed the legislative committee bill providing for the annexation of Calumet and Evanston to the Chicago sanitary district. Although the bill had a stormy passage through the two houses of the legislature, there has been no question of its approval by the governor.

Vetoes Judges' Salary Bill.

Gov. Yates this morning vetoed the bill increasing the salaries of judges of the Circuit courts and Superior court from $3,500 to $5,000 per annum. He said it would mean an increase of $115,500 per annum, as there were seventy-seven judges in the state, and that in two years the amount would be $213,000 and in the six years during which the judges to be elected in June would hold office $693,000. He disapproved this bill on the ground of economy and to save expense, just as he had disapproved the legislators' salary bill and items in the general appropriation bill.

The governor calls attention to the fact the total appropriation made by the last general assembly, exclusive of members' and judges' salary, amounted to $15,900,000, or $1,500,000 more than should have been appropriated, while the last general assembly appropriated for the same purposes the sum of $13,650,000. The two items, judges' and legislators' salary, would make an increase of $435,000, or a grand total of expenditures of $16,435,000—an increase of $2,785,000. The governor announced his intention of decreasing the appropriations by an additional million to bring them down to $15,500,000.

He said that judges of the Circuit and Superior courts of Cook county would suffer no diminution as they got $10,000 per annum regardless of the amount paid by the state.

Contest Over Torrens Bill.

Arguments for and against the Torrens bill began late in the afternoon, the first speaker being E. G. Keith, president of the Chicago Title and Trust company. Mr. Keith spoke briefly, denying the statement frequently made during the legislative session that the company was an octopus. He said his company was properly organized under the laws of Illinois and abundantly able to care for itself in the courts.

Theodore Sheldon, title examiner of Cook county, and framer of the original Torrens law, offered a written argument in favor of the bill. He was followed by W. A. Bond of the Chicago real estate board, who also favored the bill. In support of the claims for the bill he cited the estate of David Davis, handled by the firm to which he belonged. It had 400 lots in Cook county. The cost of the abstracts, not including attorney's fees, was $8,000. Under the Torrens law it would have been $2,224.

Favors the Telephone Bill.

Senators Evans and Humphrey and M. Slusser of Chicago appeared before Gov. Yates today in favor of the bill giving telephone companies the same rights of eminent domain enjoyed by telegraph companies. Objections had been made that the bill would give telephone companies the right to attach wires to houses and to deprive property owners of vested rights. Its friends claimed the bill gave no such privileges. The governor has the bill under advisement.

Indeterminate Sentence Law.

Gov. Yates has taken under advisement the bill for the repeal of the indeterminate sentence law, which is advocated by State's Attorney Deneen, Judge McEwen, and Senator Haas of Cook and opposed by E. A. Snively and Andrew Russell, members of the state board of pardons. The governor says he was not acquainted with the importance of the measure until the hearing this afternoon, which consumed about three hours' time, and that he must give the matter careful consideration.

Among the speeches made for the bill today was one by Mr. Deneen, which he has embodied in a letter and addressed to the board of pardons. That board will answer it, and both letters will be filed with Gov. Yates before he takes final action on the bill.

Objections to the Law.

The ideas advanced by Messrs. McEwen and Deneen and R. H. Crosby of the Federation of Labor were to the effect that when a man was sent to the penitentiary he ought to know how long he would be compelled to stay there, and that people were sent up for trivial offenses under indeterminate sentences. If they had friends having position and money they could get out on parole, while poor men might be compelled to stay in prison for years in excess of the time they ought to have served under the old maximum punishment law. For this reason, Mr. Deneen said, men were using every subterfuge to get into the bridewell, and he claimed that great hardship was worked in many cases from indeterminate sentences.

All this was combated by Messrs. Snively and Russell, who made the point that indeterminate sentence worked well and that they were giving every case that came before them proper consideration and if this law be amended Illinois would fill up with habitual criminals to prey upon the public.

The argument drifted by easy stages into a lengthy discussion of sociological affairs, in which Snively, Deneen, and McEwen joined. The question of the reformation of criminals was discussed at great length, Mr. Snively denying indignantly the statement that a man with money had a better chance to get out on parole than a man who had none.

All the speakers said they did not intend to cast any reflections on the pardon board, but contended that the parole board did its business by correspondence, and virtually held men in prison on the strength of information received by letter, while the jury that tried the case ought to be better able to judge how much punishment the man should have.

Mr. Crosby insisted on a maximum sentence and said that every time a banker got into the penitentiary he was released in short order by reason of the fact he had influential friends. This brought Mr. Snively to his feet again, and a detailed history of all the Illinois bankers who have gone to prison during the last ten years was gone into, after which Gov. Yates took the bill under advisement.

Rebuff for the Dentists.

When Gov. Yates reached his office this morning he found among other people awaiting him fifty members of the State Dental society, who wanted him to approve what is known as the Clark dental bill. Without a minute's hesitation the governor summoned the dentists and told them plainly he would veto the bill, and he gave them his reasons in short order. He said that when he became governor he made up his mind that he would never approve a bill which provided for the selection of public officers from a list selected by societies or associations.

Yates Signs Many Bills.

Gov. Yates today signed twenty-three house and ten senate bills, as follows:

Walter—Known as Moline Inalda insurance bill.

Parker—Providing for voting machines after the appointment of a commission.

Mueller—Providing that under contingencies agents may be licensed to write insurance in companies outside of Illinois.

STOCK VALUES HERALD A VETO.

Politicians Say Abstract Shares Reflect Coming Rejection of Torrens Amendment by Gov. Yates.

Politicians familiar with the inner workings of the state administration at Springfield were openly expressing the opinion yesterday that Gov. Yates would veto the Torrens amendment. They even went so far as to charge the administration with having assured the opponents of the measure that it would be unfavorably passed upon.

The same authority cited the stock of the Chicago Title and Trust company as indicating the pulse of the governor on the measure. The stock fell to 91 at the time the bill passed the general assembly. But here is the "thermometer":

Date.	Value of stock.	Date.	Value of stock.
April 29	91	May 6	101½
April 30	95	May 8	102
May 5	97	May 14	103

Either the governor's "pulse" was incorrectly taken, says this authority, or some one is making a grave mistake in the stock market, the officials of the Chicago Title and Trust company having been the leaders of the opposition to the Torrens amendment.

YATES CRITICISED FOR VETO.

Governor's Action on Two Per Cent Bill Resented by the County Commissioners.

Members of the county board were emphatic yesterday in their disapproval of Gov. Yates' veto of the 2 per cent bill for the maintenance of the board of assessors and board of review.

"It is like taking a crutch away from a cripple," said President Foreman. "The bill was for the best interests of the county."

An effort will be made to induce Gov. Yates to reconsider the veto.

YEAGER KILLED BY OR FOR WOMAN

Startling Development in the Indiana Feud, in Which Two Men Lost Lives.

MAY BE MORE ARRESTS.

Three of the Accused Released on Bonds—Important Witnesses Fail to Appear.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Kokomo, Ind., May 14.—[Special.]—A woman lured Lewis Yeager to his death. He was killed by a woman or for a woman.

This became known late this evening, when the coroner left hurriedly for Sharpsville after a conference with the prosecutor. The men charged with the crime, released on bail at the hearing this afternoon, may be taken into custody again tomorrow. It is alleged they committed the murder at the request of a jealous, angered, or revengeful woman, who lured Yeager from his sweetheart's home last Sunday night in order that he might be slain.

Seen with Two Women.

It was learned late tonight that Yeager was seen in company with two women and two men about midnight, after he left his sweetheart, and four hours before his dead body was found in the carriage at his home.

Frank Burns, a farmer who lives near Sharpsville, spoke to Yeager as the four passed him in the one carriage. They were going in a direction away from Yeager's residence in Oakford, although the victim of the murder had told his sweetheart, Miss Myrtle Finley, that he must leave for home earlier than she desired. "Because," he said, "it is getting late."

Women to Be Arrested.

Yeager is known to have paid attentions to several young women, and arrests will be made as soon as the identity of the two with him on Sunday is established. One of these, say the authorities, knew of the enmity existing between Yeager and Logan Ingalls, Frank Eades, and Charles Eades, the prisoners.

One rode with Yeager in the carriage, while the other woman was left at her home. When Yeager turned about he was killed, the woman or the man beside him in the carriage firing the fatal shot. The bullet was in his left temple, where the pistol would have been presented had the assailant fired the shot when his victim was driving.

Saw Yeager Turn Back.

Oscar Pickering saw Yeager turn back when out of sight of the girl's home and go from the Sharpsville road. He did this by appointment with the woman who killed him or lured him to his death, for when next seen in front of the farm of Evans Pickering further south and farther away from his home he was in the party of four.

A mile further south Fred Johnson, whose absence caused the hearing of the prisoners to be postponed, heard a shot fired at midnight, or about the time Yeager would have reached the spot. Johnson did not investigate, and a shower would have destroyed trace of the crime.

The body was then braced in the carriage and the faithful horse went home, arriving at 4 o'clock.

Woman Will Be Arrested.

Coroner Harrison returned late tonight from the place now believed to have been the real scene of the murder. He said:

"There is a woman in the case. An arrest will be made as soon as we consider it justified. The facts brought out by the farmers along Yeager's course are startling, and may lead to the conviction of the men arrested or to the punishment of some not yet mentioned."

The identity of the girl who was with Yeager will be learned tomorrow, it is expected. More witnesses will be summoned for the inquest, which will begin tomorrow. A number of young women to whom Yeager had been paying attention will be considered in the new phase of the mystery.

Men Released on Bond.

Only three of the men arrested yesterday on the charge of murdering Lewis Yeager were arraigned before Justice Moreland this afternoon. Lewis Eades was arrested by mistake and was released this morning. Richard Eades has satisfied the officials he had nothing to do with the crime and he will not be arrested.

The prisoners arraigned this afternoon were Frank and Dillard Eades and Logan Ingalls. After their preliminary hearing they were released under $3,000 bonds each, that for Logan Ingalls being signed by his father, John Ingalls, former court reporter, while Charles Eades, father, and friends signed the bond for the Eades boys.

Three of the most important witnesses summoned by the state failed to put in an appearance.

Two More Are Suspected.

Two more young men will be asked to explain what they know of the case. Birch L. Green, who told the coroner that he heard Ingalls, or one of the Eades boys, say: "If Yeager comes over ere again he will have his block knocked off," will be questioned regarding his whereabouts on the night of the crime. Lawrence Smith, a youth of Hemlock, will be closely questioned. The discovery today that he was away from home until 4 o'clock on the night of the tragedy is regarded as important evidence which may involve others in the case. When Smith returned he refused to tell where he had been, and his relations with the dead man will be the subject of investigation. County Prosecutor Cooper said tonight: "More arrests may be made tomorrow if other men under suspicion fail to make an explanation."

Birch Green heard the threat of death, yet he was the guest of the Eades boys on the day Yeager met his death. He had trouble with Eades a year ago over the purchase of a buggy, the note he gave being irregular, said Dillard Eades.

"Green took dinner at our place, and we attended the Baptist church in Hemlock," said Dillard. "He claims he saw us with Ingalls after church, but we did not speak to Ingalls there. I have proof that we were at home from 10 o'clock Sunday night until the next morning. Let Green show where he was. He may have had a grudge against us."

The authorities are certain that the three men were concerned in the murder of Yeager. They are the three men who are alleged to have made threats. They were seen in a buggy not far from the home of Myrtle Finley about the time Yeager left there.

May Have a Bearing.

C. F. Leschner, an employé at the Threasher livery stable in Kokomo, told the coroner today that three men of about the same age as the prisoners came to his barn early on the night of the crime, stabled their horse, and returned to the front of the barn. They drew two half pint flasks of whisky from their pockets and were about to empty them, when one said:

"Don't drink it. We will have work to do tonight."

If the work was the killing of Lewis Yeager they used the whisky, for a quantity had been poured upon the clothing of the dead man, which caused the belief that he had been drinking. The men in the barn referred to the fact that they were going to Oakford, where Yeager was killed.

Leschner and the county prosecutor visited the jail this morning to identify the prisoners, and after a long scrutiny the former failed to do so, saying, "They are about the same in size and general appearance as those who came to the barn."

"Will you swear they are the men?"

"No, and I will not say they are not the ones."

The prosecutor looks upon this as favorable to the state, but would not say whether he had evidence to overthrow the alibi the accused men set up. It is asserted they could have left the city and reached Hemlock before services were over.

UNION LABOR AS A TRUST.

NEW VIEWS ADVANCED AT SOCIAL SCIENCE DEBATE.

Speakers at Annual Session of the American Association at Boston Discuss Duties and Responsibilities of Organized Workingmen—Their Necessity Is Admitted and Their Faults Commented Upon—Remedy Not in Incorporation, Says Eliot.

Boston, Mass., May 14.—[Special.]—Labor unions, their responsibilities, shortcomings, and achievements were elaborately discussed at today's session of the American Social Science association.

The principal speakers were George H. Anderson and Lewis D. Brandeis, members of the Suffolk county bar; Prof. Wambaugh of the Harvard Law school, John F. Tobin, president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union; Prof. D. L. Dewey of the Boston institute of technology, and President Eliot of Harvard University.

Criticism for Labor Unions.

Mr. Anderson spoke on "Some Responsibilities of Capitalistic Organization." Some of the leading points made in his address were:

"It is not to be overlooked that the career of the labor organizations has not been marked by any such love of wisdom, justice, and fair dealing as to evoke our moral enthusiasm.

"Labor organizations have no moral standing to denounce trusts, for their movement is as distinctly a combination or trust as is the capitalistic movement. The two movements are like in motive and object.

"The organization of labor is an absolute condition precedent under present conditions to any sound social and industrial progress. To oppose that organization, to attempt to prevent it by legislation, or to denounce it in terms recently used at the manufacturers' association at New Orleans is both futile and foolish.

What Unions Have Done.

The subject of Mr. Brandeis' address was "The Responsibilities of Labor Organization; Trade Union Incorporation." He said labor unions have been largely instrumental in securing reasonable hours of labor and proper conditions of work, and in raising materially the scale of wages. He pointed out, however, that the struggle of workingmen to attain these ends has been attended at times by acts of intolerable violence.

"While the rules of legal liability apply fully to the unions, though unincorporated, it is, as a practical matter, more difficult for the plaintiff to conduct the litigation and it is particularly difficult to reach the funds of the union with which to satisfy any judgment that may be recovered.

"This practical immunity of the labor unions from suit or legal liability is, in my opinion, largely responsible for the existence of the greatest grievances which labor unions consider they have suffered at the hands of the courts, that is, the so-called 'government by injunction.'"

Opposed to Incorporation.

Prof. Wambaugh, who followed, also discussed trades union incorporation. He held that trade unions are legally responsible for committing a wrong, though unincorporated. He held that "the incorporation of trades unions, though attended with a few conveniences, is unnecessary, inappropriate, and dangerous."

John F. Tobin, president of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, referring to Prof. Wambaugh's remarks, said: "The principal argument in favor of the incorporation of trades unions is that it will give security to contracts made with labor unions and make them liable for damages to the same extent as the employers."

Prof. Davis L. Dewey of the Institute of Technology said: "The proposition to incorporate trades unions is to attempt to sidetrack the main issue in the discussion which is before the country. It is not asked for by trades unions. It is suggested as a method of imposing financial obligation upon trades unions and its members."

President Eliot summarized the question of the incorporation of the trades unions in the following statement:

"The positions of the unions is virtually that of 2,000,000 men who systematically permit moral and physical violence in the attainment of their ends. Unskilled laborers cannot gain their aims in a labor struggle without permitting violence, but this is a moral question and not one of damages. To attempt to get at them vindictively by inducing or compelling incorporation and making them financially liable is not at all the way to settle the problem."

WHIRLED ON BIG FLY WHEEL: OILER PROBABLY WILL DIE.

Inexperienced Man, Said to Have Taken Striker's Place, Crushed in Accident at Swift & Co.'s Plant.

Whirled around three times on a big fly wheel in Swift & Co.'s plant at the stockyards, Herbert Rosenthal, an oiler, received injuries last night from which he will die.

Rosenthal's hips were crushed, the left hand and arm fractured in ten places, and he sustained internal injuries. He was still conscious when taken to Wesley hospital, but the doctors said there was little chance for his recovery.

Rosenthal, who is 21 years old, lives at 458 East Forty-fourth street. He is an inexperienced man who was employed, it is said, to take the place of a striker. He began work at 6 p. m., and was oiling the parts of a driving bar when his "jumper" was caught in the belt.

Unable to extricate himself, his feet were lifted from the floor and his body carried upward toward the top of the fast revolving thirty foot wheel. He cried for help, and Watchman Frank Smith hurried to the engine room and saw the oiler's body crushed between the rim of the wheel and the ceiling.

Before Smith had time to act, Rosenthal's clothing became loosened on the third revolution of the wheel and he fell to the floor.

CAR BURNS: LOSE CLOTHES.

Three Chicagoans Forced to Flee from Sleeper in New Haven, Conn., in Scanty Attire.

New Haven, Conn., May 14.—[Special.]—A score of passengers on a sleeping car, including three Chicagoans, lost their valuables and nearly all their clothing when fire destroyed their car at the station here last night. The Chicagoans were Mrs. M. Longpre of 983 North Clark street, Mrs. E. R. Stroufe of 4758 Evans avenue, and A. Freschl of 263 Dearborn street. Mrs. Stroufe managed to save her own and Mrs. Longpre's waists and skirts. They were traveling to Canada and lost all their money. Mr. Freschl saved only his trousers and his loss includes $85 and a gold watch and chain.

ARBITRATORS FOR VENEZUELA.

State Department Selects Gen. Duffield, Jackson H. Ralston, and Frank C. Partridge to Act on Claims.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—The state department has given notice of the appointment of Gen. H. M. Duffield of Detroit, Mich., as umpire in the arbitration at Caracas between Germany and Venezuela. Gen. Duffield led one of the volunteer regiments in the Spanish war and is a prominent lawyer in Detroit. Jackson H. Ralston of the District of Columbia has been appointed umpire in the arbitration at Caracas of the Italian claims against Venezuela and Frank C. Partridge has been charged with the double duty of umpire in the English-Venezuela and the Netherlands-Venezuela arbitration.

TO PAY RENTAL; ATTACK YERKES.

Traction Receivers' Court Petition Shows More Trickery in Sale of the Property.

EARNINGS WERE 'SALTED'

Court Authorizes the Turning Over of $149,835 to West Chicago Stockholders.

Judge Grosscup yesterday authorized the receivers of the Union Traction company to borrow the money necessary to pay the rentals due the West Chicago Street Car company today. He also gave the receivers permission to provide similarly for the interest on the floating indebtedness of the North and West Chicago companies as it may accrue. The rentals due the North Chicago company on July 15 were not referred to, but the understanding is that they will be provided for in due time. Receivers' certificates will be issued and the earnings of the company pledged to pay them.

The money necessary to pay the rentals due the West Chicago stockholders, exclusive of the stock owned by the Union Traction company itself, amounts to $149,835. The floating indebtedness of the two underlying companies amounts to, in the West Chicago, $1,090,000, and North Chicago, $2,316,000, a total of $3,406,000.

The petition on which the permission to borrow money was based is an exhaustive review of the history not only of the Union Traction company but of the underlying ones as well, and contains some sensational statements and inferences.

More Charges Against Yerkes.

It is directly charged that Yerkes was paying dividends on West and North Chicago stock out of other moneys than earnings when he sold the properties to the Union Traction company.

While acknowledging the obligation of the Union Traction company to care for all the indebtedness of the north and west side companies, the obligation to make good the interest on the Chicago consolidated bonds is questioned, and the statement is made that it will be tested in court.

It is intimated, too, that the receivers will ask Judge Grosscup to aid in securing an extension of expiring franchises, as well as a decision as to the validity of the "ninety-nine year act," and his opinion will be asked as to the advisability of appealing to the federal courts the recent decision of the state courts as to universal transfers.

While admitting that the coming year will show a deficit, the receivers say they have reason to believe this can all be changed and a substantial surplus shown when existing troubles are straightened out.

Slap at the Tunnel Company.

Incidentally, a side slap is taken at Mr. Yerkes in connection with the $1,500,000 stock and an equal amount of bonds of the Van Buren Street Tunnel company, it being styled "a mere construction company, created at the instance and for the benefit of the West Chicago Street railway company," and, while the receivers acknowledge their liability to care for the bonds, they say "the said stock is of no value, as the value of the tunnel does not exceed the bonded debt of the tunnel company."

A broad hint is given the North Chicago stockholders who have been threatening to try and break the existing leases that the attempt would probably be met with the claim by the Union Traction company that it has bought all their property and could draw down the guarantee fund now in the Illinois Trust and Savings bank.

The bonds for which the receivers acknowledge the Union Traction company is responsible are as follows:

North Chicago Street railway Co.	[illegible]
North Chicago City railway Co.	[illegible]
West Chicago Street railway Co.	[illegible]
Chicago Passenger railway Co.	[illegible]
Chicago West Division railway Co.	[illegible]
West Chicago Tunnel Co.	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]

The fixed charges of the traction company, including interest on these bonds, rentals to the underlying companies, and demands due the city in the way of car licenses, compensation for trolley privileges, for use of bridges, and other items, are:

Rental charges	[illegible]
Interest on bonds	[illegible]
Due the city annually	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]

Find Earnings Were "Salted."

The receivers set up that when the Union Traction company entered into these obligations it was of the belief, "induced by representations made by or for the North Chicago Street railway company and the West Chicago Street railway company, that the incomes of said companies were sufficient" to pay all charges, including 12 per cent on North Chicago stock and 6 per cent on West Chicago, and then leave a surplus of [illegible].

They go on to say, however, that while during the three years previous to the Union Traction company taking over the properties 12 per cent was paid on North Chicago and 6 on West, yet they are prepared to show: "That during said fiscal years the North Chicago Street railway company did not earn a dividend upon its capital stock exceeding 8¾ per cent per annum and the West Chicago Street railway company did not earn a dividend exceeding 3 85-100 per cent per annum."

In other words, in the language of the mining country, "the mine had been salted" by the payment of dividends not earned.

In spite of all this the receivers say the traction company was able to meet fixed charges and even leave a small surplus until 1901, when hard luck struck it as follows:

Increase in tax bill	$ 2[illegible]
Loss by competition of Northwestern "L"	[illegible]
Increased wages paid employés	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]

Transfers Prove a Heavy Blow.

What universal transfers have cost the company the receivers say has not yet been ascertained further than that 2,000,000 transfers are issued every month. That they do not yet regard the matter as settled is indicated by the statement in the petition that as soon as the loss can be figured out "they probably will report to the court the results of their investigations and then ask for instructions in reference thereto." The instructions, of course, would be as to carrying the case to a higher court.

In the matter of franchise renewals the receivers state that there is a dispute between the city and the company as to what franchises expire next July (the dispute is over the ninety-nine year act), and also a disposition on the part of the city to negotiate as to these matters as soon as the Mueller bill becomes a law.

As to the construction of the lease of the north and west side companies, the receivers say that is a question they have not gone into yet, but will refer to counsel for an opinion.

Winter Cars to Be Kept On.

The Union Traction company will improve its service as ordered by Judge Grosscup by retaining its winter cars for summer use. This, it was said yesterday by officials of the company, would be the way in which the company would comply with the request of the court. The improvement in service will be confined to the electric lines, probably a number of the long cars being kept in use. It was said that no attempt would be made to increase the number of cars within the next few days.

Mr. Yerkes Issues a Statement.

In New York yesterday Mr. Yerkes gave out the following statement:

"There is no truth in the reports that I am a stockholder in or interested in any way in Chicago traction companies, or that I returned to this country on account of the financial troubles of the Chicago Union Traction company. I sold my stock in the Chicago Union Traction some years ago, and at present have no interest in it. I came here on business connected with my London underground roads, and I do not know how long I shall remain."

VAST PLANS WIN FOR BETTER CITY

"L" Road to Englewood Certain and Grade Crossings Will Be Abolished.

LAKE FRONT WALL TO GO.

Universal Transfer Law Nearly Ready for Passage by the City Council.

Three enterprises looking to the convenience of the people or the improvement of the city were materially advanced yesterday. In outline they are:

Filing of bonds to guarantee the scheme of rapid transit on the south side, involving the expenditure of $5,000,000. Englewood will get its elevated road, the stockyards its elevated loop, Fortieth street the raising of dangerous grade tracks, and the south side an elevated express service.

Practical completion of universal transfer ordinance aimed to enable travel from the farthest southern point of the city to the farthest northern or western for one fare. Ordinance soon to be introduced in the city council.

Entering of a decree by Judge Tuley providing for improvements on the lake shore between Randolph street and Park row, to cost more than $50,000, to be made at the expense of the Illinois Central railroad. The road agrees, among other things, to remove all the parapet along its right of way.

South Side's $5,000,000 Improvement.

The acceptance of the south side "L" and general elevation ordinance was accompanied with a deposit of 110 $1,000 first mortgage bonds of the south side elevated road guaranteeing that the Englewood extension of the road south of Fifty-fifth street west to Ashland avenue will be built within four years. These bonds were filed with the city clerk. Today is the last day for the acceptance to be entered, and the south side elevated and the Chicago Junction, the two roads which held out the longest, sent in their consents a day within the limit.

The various improvements thus assured, and the estimated cost of making each, are as follows:

Englewood Elevated road	$1,750,000
Elevated extension, Lake avenue, to stockyards	1,250,000
Elevation of the Chicago Junction tracks.	1,000,000
Third track, South Side elevated	1,000,000

Means an "L" Express Service.

The laying of the third tracks on the elevated will give an express service from Forty-third to Twelfth street. It will necessitate the widening of the elevated structure, and the estimated cost includes the laying of an asphalt street underneath—the compensation which the city receives for the grant. This street, it is asserted, will relieve Wabash avenue and State street of much of their traffic.

President Leslie Carter of the elevated company said that engineers are working now on plans for the improvement which the road contemplates and that under favorable conditions the actual work will be begun in August. Maj. James Miles, secretary of the Chicago Junction company, said that his company might not be able to begin work until next year on account of the scarcity of steel, but that all work would be done probably by December, 1906.

Dangerous Grade Crossings to Go.

The track elevation feature of the ordinance will remove some especially dangerous grade crossings along Fortieth street, affecting a number of boulevards and the Cottage Grove avenue and State street cables, the Indiana avenue and the electric lines using Clark street as a downtown terminus.

As an addition to rapid transit on the south side the ordinance is especially advantageous to the city. The South Side elevated will build an extension along Fortieth street from Lake avenue to the stockyards, where an elevated loop will be built in Center avenue, Packers avenue, Forty-fourth street, and Exchange avenue.

Englewood will be given elevated road service by an extension connecting with the South Side elevated between Fifty-fifth and Sixtieth street and running west and south to Ashland avenue, a spur running south to Seventy-second street, between Wallace street and Center avenue.

The engineering plans for the elevation of the Chicago Junction tracks call for a double deck elevation. The upper deck is to carry the elevated cars of the south side company. The lower deck is for the freight of the Union Stockyards and Transit company and the Junction railway.

All Acceptances Are Filed.

The acceptances of the ordinance, binding the railways to complete the work, were filed as follows:

South Side elevated, by Leslie Carter, president; John H. Glade, secretary.

Union Stockyards and Transit company, John A. Spoor, president; C. D. Moyer, secretary.

Chicago Junction railroad company, Frederick B. Babcock, president; James Miles, secretary.

Englewood Elevated railroad company, Marcellus Hopkins, president; Annie Conley, secretary.

Pennsylvania railway company and its lessee, the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railway company, by J. J. Turner, president; S. B. Liggett, secretary.

Chicago and Western Indiana railroad company, Benjamin Thomas, president; M. J. Clark, secretary.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific and the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern railways are required to make changes which may be costly, but their consent to the ordinance is not required by its terms.

Transfer Ordinance Nearly Ready.

The measure for universal transfers has been in course of preparation for some time in the city hall, but has been held back by other traction developments, but it is announced now that the council will be asked to pass it within a short time.

While this new ordinance will cover the entire situation and act as a practical working agreement between the two traction companies there is no hope that it can be enforced speedily after its passage. As there are several specific matters in the transfer situation which demand attention Corporation Counsel Walker has arranged for a conference between the Chicago City railway and the city to take up the question of transfers from the Chicago General railway company on its Twenty-second street line.

Twenty-second Street a Problem.

Ald. Zimmer and Cerveny had the question under discussion with Mr. Walker yesterday. A decision by Judge Baker requires the City railway to accept transfers from the Chicago General at Twenty-second street intersections east of the river, and the two aldermen wanted the ruling made applicable at all intersections.

"In our ward there are over 50,000 citizens who are interested in securing this transfer privilege," said Ald. Zimmer, "and it affects also the people of the Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, and Thirty-fourth wards."

The city officials know that the passage of the universal transfer ordinance will mean a long contest in the courts similar to that which preceded the acceptance of the ordinance requiring the companies to give transfers over all their connecting lines. For this reason the process of drafting the measure has been slow.

Lake Front Wall Must Go.

The decree entered by Judge Tuley regarding the Illinois Central lake front imperviously ends litigation attacking the validity of the Swift ordinance passed in 1895. It is provided in the decree that the Illinois Central shall, at its own expense, remove the parapet wall from Randolph street to Park row by Oct. 1 and in its place erect a picket fence.

No building, the decree provides, shall be erected east of the tracks between Madison street and Park row except switch shanties, waiting rooms, shelters at suburban depots, and switch and signal towers where necessary. They shall not be higher, however, than the retaining wall, except the waiting room and shelter at Park row.

The company is also required to build at Monroe street a viaduct similar to that at Van Buren street. Another wall, the decree sets forth, shall be built on the east side of the tracks from Randolph street to Park row and shall not be higher than the retaining wall on the west side of the right of way. It is ordered that this wall be constructed from Randolph to Monroe street by Oct. 1 next and to be completed not later than July 1, 1904.

Ordinance of 1895 Valid.

The ordinance passed on Oct. 21, 1895, providing for the transfer of certain lands by the city to the railway company in exchange for its lands and the construction of a parapet from Randolph street to Park row is also declared valid.

The decree was entered by consent and without argument in court. It was signed by Attorney George P. Merrick, counsel for the complainants; Assistant Corporation Counsel Sexton, and Attorney John G. Brennan on behalf of the company. The suit in which the decree was entered was filed in 1895, the complainants being Byron L. Smith, Clarence W. Marks, and Montgomery Ward & Co. It was filed for the purpose of attacking the validity of the ordinance of 1895, and charged that the city in passing the ordinance and making the concessions and grants that it did acted beyond its powers.

INJUNCTIONS KEEP CITY DIRTY.

Commissioner Blocki Says He Is Powerless to Drive Away Unsightly Street Stands.

Thirty injunctions restraining the city from enforcing the ordinance ordering fruit stands off the sidewalks are preventing Commissioner Blocki from proceeding on his "clean city crusade." As rapidly as the city endeavors to drive out one of the fruit stands, Mr. Blocki complains, an injunction is granted by some judge, which gives the stand a tenure on the sidewalk site in spite of the city law to the contrary.

"I don't see what we can do," said Mr. Blocki yesterday. "As soon as we serve notice on one of these proprietors to get the stand off the sidewalk some attorney gets an injunction and, with the delay in hearing cases, ties us up for months. It is impossible to keep the city clean downtown with these stands doing business."

The old city council was much more generous than the new one is likely to be in the matter of ordering the issuance of permits. Reading Clerk McGaffey has compiled the record of the council of 1902-'03, with the following results:

Permits for electric signs ordered	530
Orders of all kinds passed	2,850
General ordinances passed	212
Vacations of streets and alleys	21

The general ordinances and the orders passed are partly in the line of constructive legislation. On this side are the following:

Sidewalk ordinances passed	447
Sewer ordinances passed	66
Streets and alleys opened	19
Streets ordered, to connect new sewers	40
Street paving ordinances passed	295
Ordinances for water mains passed	117

STOP A TRAIN: ARREST MAN.

Detectives Take Italian Who Is Charged with Shooting a Youth Last Monday.

With drawn revolvers Detectives Duffy and Doran of the Twenty-second street police station stopped the work train of the Western Indiana railroad company last night and held it long enough for George Long, the young man who was shot from that train by an Italian last Monday night, to identify Peter Spando as the one who did the shooting. Spando was locked up on charge of assault with intent to kill. The train was stopped at Twenty-third place and the tracks. Long lives at 353 East Twenty-fourth street, and Spando at 2100 Clark street.

POLICEMEN UNDER CHARGES.

Accused of Unbecoming Conduct as the Result of a Fight and Must Face the Trial Board.

Charges of conduct unbecoming an officer were filed last evening against Detective Thomas Flynn and Policeman Joseph Smith by Capt. P. D. O'Brien and Lieut. Walsh of the Cottage Grove avenue station. Both of the accused men are attached to the Cottage Grove avenue station, and are said to have been the principals in an encounter last Sunday evening at Twenty-eighth and State streets, in which Flynn's eye was blackened. They will appear before the trial board.

FINED $25 FOR LOVEMAKING.

Tony Chick of South Chicago Held to Be Too Persistent in His Attentions to a Young Woman.

Tony Chick was styled a "masher" in Justice Callahan's court yesterday, and for his alleged attempt to force his attentions on Miss Emma Peters, 10723 Buffalo avenue, he was fined $25. Chick was a boarder at the Peters residence, and the young woman asserted she had become weary of his persistent love making.

WOMAN AN ASSISTANT U. S. ATTORNEY GENERAL

MISS FLOY GILMORE.

The war department on Wednesday announced that Miss Floy Gilmore has been appointed assistant attorney general for the government in the Philippine islands. Miss Gilmore is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Gilmore of Elwood, Ind., and is 24 years old. She was graduated from the law school of the University of Michigan and admitted to the bar of Indiana two years ago. She went to the Philippines as stenographer, and by good work has won a distinction never before attained by a woman.

NOW A BUTCHERS' STRIKE.

CLERKS' DEMANDS REFUSED AND WALKOUT IS THREATENED.

Employes, Including Grocery Men, Insist That Shops Close at 6 P. M. Every Day and Owners' Organization Answers That It Would Work a Hardship on the People—Compromise Terms Are Rejected — Union May Fail to Reach Many Stores.

The latest form of labor difficulties arose last night when the Butchers' union of Chicago refused to accept offers of the Butchers' and Grocers' association for a compromise on hours of work.

The union held a meeting in Aurora Turner hall and set forth its demands as follows:

"A ten hour day, opening at 7 a. m. and closing at 6 p. m., with an hour's time for lunch.

"Employers not to be allowed to keep their shops open after hours even if they should do the late work themselves or pay extra wages for overtime."

President S. Westfield of the association replied to these demands and made a counter proposition as follows:

"We agree to absolute Sunday opening throughout the year.

"Hours for keeping shops open from May 1 to Nov. 1, 6:30 a. m. to 6:30 p. m.

"Hours from Nov. 1 to May 1, 7 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Mr. Westerfield explained that to close at 6 would work a hardship on customers in general, many of whom were unable to do their marketing before 6 p. m. He said that in many shops there was more business done between 6 and 7 p. m. than in any other two hours of the day.

The clerks listened to the reasoning of the association's officials with interest, but in the end voted to stand by their original demands. They declared the next step would be a general strike.

It is not certain how widespread will be the effect of such action. It is estimated that there are 7,500 butcher and grocery shops in Chicago, in 5,000 of which the proprietor employs no clerks. How these small shops are to be affected is not clear. The butchers' union, moreover, has a membership at present of only a minority of the clerks employed in the shops.

They hope, however, to increase their rolls, and the employers are waiting to see the outcome.

MEN STRIKE: WOMEN FOR PEACE

Biscuit Company Clerks to Go Out—Girl Cracker Packers Quit Their International Union.

By the action of two unions last night the labor situation at the plants of the National Biscuit company becomes more complicated. The shipping clerks voted to strike this morning at the Schmidt & Aldrich bakeries, while the women cracker packers took a stand which will materially smooth the way toward a settlement of their differences with their employers. They decided to cut loose from the Bakers and Confectioners' International union in so far as that organization is endeavoring to wage a national fight against the cracker company.

For several years the international union has made it its business to oppose the National company with every weapon at its disposal, and the brunt of the struggle has always fallen on the Chicago unions. The bakers have grown tired of this, and now the cracker packers have joined issue with the bakers.

Attempts will be made to reach some understanding in the strike and lockout situation tomorrow night.

FREIGHT MEN ASK MORE PAY.

Wage Demands Made on All the Railroads in the City—Present and Proposed Scales.

Demands for an increase in wages were made on every railroad in the city yesterday by the members of the Freight Handlers' union, who never have been satisfied with the wage scale granted them at the close of their strike last year. The union with treat with each road separately. The present and proposed scales are as follows:

	Present.	Proposed.
Checkers, per month	$60.00	75.00
Stevedores, per day	1.85	2.31
Delivery men, per month	65.00	68.77
Callers, per day	1.80	2.25
Truckers, per day	1.70	2.12½

The agreement asks for a ten hour day, time and a half for overtime, double time for Sundays and holidays, and no discrimination against members of the union. The railroads are given until June 1 to consider the matter, and after that date conferences will be held.

HARRIMAN FEARS APPENDICITIS.

Railway Man Reaches Omaha, Where He Is in Consultation with Union Pacific Surgeon.

Omaha, Neb., May 14.—[Special.]—E. H. Harriman passed through here tonight. He thinks he has appendicitis. Dr. Summers of the Union Pacific medical staff met the train on telegraph orders for a consultation.

DENVER FACES A GENERAL STRIKE

Midnight Action Taken by Unions Calling Out All Organized Labor.

SPLIT OVER ARBITRATION

Omaha Police Are Kept Busy with Teamsters' Riots, and Militia May Be Asked For.

DENVER.—General order issued at midnight to all union men and women in Denver to go on strike this morning. Will involve 10,000 workers and paralyze industry. Dispute over method of arbitration the cause.

OMAHA.—Many attacks on nonunion teamsters keep police busy and entire force is kept in reserve. Attorneys of Business Men's association say governor will be asked to send troops.

GREAT NORTHERN—Strike of trainmen on Great Northern system is averted. Company grants increase in wages averaging 15 per cent, dating from March 1 last, and concessions on "double headers," which was chief trouble.

Denver, Colo., May 15, 2 a. m.—[Special.]—Ten thousand men and women will respond to the call of the labor executive committee and go on strike tomorrow morning before the Business Men's alliance can secure an injunction from the United States court.

This was decided at midnight tonight, and emissaries were dispatched to every quarter of the city with notices to the unions that they were not to report for work in the morning. It is expected by labor leaders that all will obey. Twenty-five hundred men are already out. This will tie up the business of the city and further paralyze industry by shutting off electric light and power. Most of the large office buildings rely upon the city electric energy for elevator service.

Strife Over Method of Arbitration.

The call for the general strike is a result of the failure of the citizens' alliance committee and the labor leaders to reach an agreement. The alliance committee holds to its original proposition for the creation of one general arbitration board to which all disputes shall be referred. The proposal of the labor unions' executive committee to refer each difference to a committee of the employers and employes directly interested for arbitration was rejected.

Charges Alliance with Insincerity.

Former Lieut. Gov. Coates, chairman of the joint executive committee of organized labor, tonight submitted to the fire and police board the committee's response to this morning's communication from the Citizens' alliance. It charges the alliance with insincerity, and declares that it will receive no further recognition from the labor committee.

Labor Gets Injunction.

The first injunction in the struggle was secured by the unions today from John I. Mullins, in the District court, who two years ago was employed in the composing room of a local newspaper and is identified with the labor movement. The injunction restrains the alliance from threatening or intimidating members of labor unions or its own members, imposing fines for violation of any agreement not to employ union labor, collecting or paying out money in pursuance of a plan to break up labor unions, attempting to bribe union officers or members, importing nonunion labor, bringing injunction suits against union members in an effort to break up unions, and influencing landlords to evict unions from their meetings places.

Alliance Will Follow Suit.

The alliance will go into the federal court in the morning and they hope by the superior authority and the wider scope of their application with relation to the interstate law to more than offset the jurisdiction of the state court.

The Transfer Men's association gave notice this afternoon that it will apply to the United States court tomorrow for an injunction against the strikers from interfering with their business.

Riots Are Numerous.

Traffic by team in the lower part of the city was conducted under police guard, and in spite of this protection there were many encounters that left broken heads. Assaults of women in small restaurants were of common occurrence, and on Sixteenth street this evening, a small waffle house conducted by a woman was looted.

At the freightyards the sheds are being congested with the accumulation of freight and many of the business blocks which rely upon a daily supply of fuel had to call upon the police for escorts to haul their coal. The greatest embarrassment arises from the dearth of restaurants. Householders are unable to secure provisions except in small quantities.

Riots Engage Omaha Police.

Omaha, Neb., May 14.—[Special.]—Assaults on team drivers by strike sympathizers continued today and the situation seems more serious than at any time since the trouble began, and further trouble is feared. Attorneys for the Business Men's association say that the governor will again be asked to take a hand and send troops to Omaha.

Chief of Police Donahue says a meeting of teamsters was held last night at which it was decided to adopt forcible measures. This President Crews of the teamsters' union denies absolutely and says union men have been warned that they will not receive protection when arrested for violence.

Refuse Bail to Rioters.

Chief Donahue has ordered that persons arrested for rioting shall not be released on bond until after their hearing. An attempt was made to secure the release on bail of men arrested today, but they were refused their liberty.

The entire police force was called on for extra duty this afternoon and additional deputies were put in charge by the chief of police.

Six assaults were reported during the afternoon. One driver named Flint was badly beaten and three loads of coal were dumped into the street. Police dispersed the crowds, but no arrests were made. Labor leaders say the guilty persons are not members of the union and deny responsibility.

Strike Breaker Laid Low.

P. J. Maddock, a driver for a delivery company, was found this afternoon under the Tenth street viaduct in an unconscious condition. When restored he said that he had been knocked from his wagon. Over his eye was a deep gash, and his face was badly bruised. He is a strike breaker.

Four strikers who were pointed out to the police as having been concerned in the disturbance were arrested. They will have a hearing tomorrow.

Laundries Remain Closed.

The laundries did not open today and will not do so till next Monday. The large hotels have private laundries and are not inconvenienced, but the smaller hotels and those restaurants which have reopened were handicapped for clean linen.

At labor headquarters it was given out that nothing will be done until the conference committee meets with the governor again. It is believed a compromise will then be reached between strikers and employers.

Peace on Great Northern.

St. Paul, Minn., May 14.—All danger of a strike on the Great Northern railway system has passed, and an amicable agreement between the company and its trainmen has been reached. The schedules were signed shortly after 3 o'clock this afternoon. Each side made concessions, although upon the face of the terms of compromise the men have the better of it. They are granted an increase in wages which averages 15 per cent, to date from March 1 last; the yardmen get the Chicago scale, which is 3 cents an hour higher than the St. Paul scale; new men are given increased wages after one year's service, instead of five, as proposed by the company; and upon the double header question, which was the cause of the deadlock in the negotiations, the men modified their demands to a slight degree.

East of Minot, according to the agreement, the road may run one-half of 1 per cent of the gross mileage as double headers. On the mountain divisions, west of Minot, 2.3 per cent of the gross mileage is allowed to be double header.

It was reported today that the Chicago and Northwestern system had settled with its trainmen. The freight men receive an increase of 15 per cent and the passenger men 12 per cent. Double headers are to be abolished except on the Dakota central division, on which single engines are unequal to the demand.

It was also reported that the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul trainmen had reached a similar agreement with the management of their road and that the papers are to be signed tomorrow.

Company Gains on Strikers.

Mobile, Ala., May 14.—Mobile and Ohio railroad officials claim the strike situation is improving, and that through freight trains are running between Mobile and St. Louis. One of the strikers has returned to work. The strikers claim that with this exception the men are holding out steadfastly.

Learn of Fraudulent Collectors.

Lowell, Mass., May 14.—Textile council officials today gave out a statement that men without authority are collecting funds in western cities in the name of the Lowell Textile council. The council, in hope of capturing the guilty ones, has requested the police and other persons in western towns whose suspicion may be aroused to communicate with the council's secretary, James P. McDonald of Lowell.

Will Aid in Child Labor Fight.

Davenport, Ia., May 14.—[Special.]—At this morning's session of the State Federation of Labor representatives of the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs brought the subject of child labor strongly before the labor delegates. Mrs. W. F. Peck, state regent of the D. A. R., said the desire of the women's clubs was to coöperate with the Federation of Labor in securing legislation that will make child labor an impossibility.

Strike at Pana Settled.

Pana, Ill., May 14.—The miners' strike here has virtually been settled. An agreement has been reached, only the affixing of actual signatures remaining. A thousand miners are affected.

SEEK LAUNDRY STRIKE TRUCE.

Owners Ask the Drivers to Make Separate Settlement, but Get No Reply.

Laundry owners made another attempt yesterday to secure an adjustment of the strike that is tying up their plants, the effort being in the shape of a request that the wagon drivers make a settlement separate from the other workers. Up to a late hour last night the drivers had not replied, but Business Agent C. Goggin of the union declared the drivers would not desert the others while a strike is on.

The owners hoped that by settling with the drivers they could reopen their shops on Monday. This many of them will try to do in any event.

"We know that over 50 per cent of our help is ready to resume work," said Chairman J. A. Barkey of the owners.

More than twenty plants were in operation yesterday and few of the owners experienced any trouble getting help.

The strike spirit spread to a Chinese laundry during the afternoon, when twelve orientals deserted the plant of Hip Kee, 9067 Commercial avenue. They were granted an increase of pay.

STRIKES DUE TO A MICROBE.

Indiana Labor Commissioner Reaches This Conclusion and Sees Cycles of Discontent Around World.

Hammond, Ind., May 14.—[Special.]—The epidemic of labor strikes throughout the country is due to a disease microbe, according to B. F. Schmidt of Indianapolis, state labor commissioner.

He reports thirty strikes on at present in Indiana, and thinks that the present strike crisis is traveling in cycles all over the world, and he cites the troubles in Holland, Germany, Austria, and Australia, where until now no strikes had been known.

Mr. Schmidt, although a manufacturer, sympathizes with the employé, whom he believes is less to blame than the employer. He intimates that the strike remedy must be found with the latter, as he has found in his experience on the state arbitration board that the majority of strikes are largely due to the lack of union recognition on the part of the employers.

PEACE BUREAU BRANCH HERE.

State Board of Arbitration Prepares to Establish an Office in Chicago.

The state board of arbitration will open an office in Chicago at once, Luke Grant having been selected as assistant secretary to have charge. With the members of the board residing in different parts of the state, and with headquarters only in Springfield, difficulty has been experienced in getting in prompt communication with the parties to labor disputes in Chicago. It is expected that under the new arrahgement the results accomplished will be vastly greater than have been possible under former conditions.

Labor Notes.

Five hundred longshoremen of St. Johns, N. F., went on strike last evening. Several steamers are idle at the piers. The longshoremen ask an advance in wages. The strike may extend to all men handling fish.

A straight eight hour day will be demanded on May 1, 1904, by all machinists working in contract shops and under the jurisdiction of the International Association of Machinists. The demand will not apply to railroad machinists.

The employés of the Lehigh Valley Coal company in Wilkesbarre, Pa., will today receive all of their back wages due under the strike commission award. The men will receive from $20 to $40 each, or about $200,000 in all. The Delaware and Hudson coal company will pay out nearly $300,000.

BLOWING UP THE OLD NORTH SHORE SEA WALL.

[From photographs taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

The Explosion.

Drilling Hole For Dynamite.

The Lincoln park board has begun the demolition of the old sea wall which extends from North avenue to Bellevue place, and in its place will construct a sloping beach and an esplanade like that which borders Lincoln park. At first it was attempted to take down the wall in sections and use the material as the foundation for the esplanade. This, however, proved impracticable, and the workmen are engaged in blowing up the wall with dynamite. The fragments falling into the water will form a crude basis for the sloping beach. Dynamite sticks were exploded in the wall at Division street yesterday.

END OF DEERING STRIKE

WORKERS IN OUTDOOR MEETING VOTE TO ACCEPT OFFER.

Plant Will Reopen in Part Today and on Monday 6,000 Men and Girls Will Be Back at Their Places—Points at Issue to Be Submitted to Arbitration—Chicago Federation of Labor a Peacemaker—Active Agitators to Be Reinstated.

Acting under the guidance of the leaders of the Chicago Federation of Labor, employés of the Deering harvester works voted yesterday to accept the offers made by the company. The shops will reopen this morning in many departments and on Monday all the 6,000 men and girls will be back at their places. All points at issue will be submitted to arbitration.

The vital concession that induced the employés to return was the promise that the nine hour day would be instituted. The workers will be freely permitted to become members of labor organizations under a guarantee of exemption from discrimination therefor. All who went out on the strike will be reinstated, including those active in the agitation.

In addition to this general guarantee, Supt. E. A. S. Clarke gave his word that F. A. Francke, former shop steward for the metal workers, should be restored. Francke's discharge is held responsible for the precipitation of the strike.

Great Outdoor Meeting.

The settlement came after a series of attempts to bring the management and the workers together. The negotiations were conducted by President Schardt and the executive committee of the Federation of Labor. Previous offers by the company had been refused by the men because not enough was definitely promised them and too much, it was felt, was left open to arbitration.

The proposition made yesterday was reported to the employés in a great outdoor meeting near the shops. No hall was available which was large enough to hold the crowd, and so the voting was done by the men and girls marching past extemporised polling boxes. The ballots showed 525 votes for and 395 against returning to work.

Had a Small Beginning.

From a small and trivial beginning the strike at the Deering plant spread rapidly, and at one time threatened to extend to all the works of the International Harvester company. Mr. Francke went to E. A. Kennedy's office with an agreement applying to the metal workers, asking the official to sign it and see that it was put into effect. Francke was kept in the office talking the matter over for a couple of hours, it is said, and then his tools were brought to him, he was paid, and summarily discharged.

At the time few of the men and girls belonged to unions. Many, however, left their work as soon as the metal workers repeated their demand for the recognition of their union. Once on the streets, the organizers became active. A large part of the employés went into the various unions and the cause was taken up by the local labor federation. Much complaint was heard against the company, chiefly in minor matters. In particular it was said the girls in the twine department were forced to work in unsatisfactory surroundings.

Three men, said to be strikers at the plant, were arrested yesterday, charged with assaulting their former foreman. The complainants are Julius Kleints, 1092 North Leavitt street, and William Prier, 1642 North Ashland avenue. The defendants, who will be tried next Thursday before Justice Mahoney, are Alex Bialk and John and August Stever.

UNIONS BLAMED FOR GAS STRIKE.

Board of Arbitration Decides for the Company on Almost Every Point.

DANGER TO THE PUBLIC.

Organized Labor Held a Menace in the Case Under Consideration.

Workers in the various plants of the People's Gaslight and Coke company yesterday were told that they should not organize a labor union. The Chicago board of arbitration, composed of teamsters and their employers, made the ruling, and its decisions are final.

The board held that the safety of the public is involved in the gas supply, and that it would be dangerous to have the gas plants in "the charge of a collection of men who are subject to the absolute orders of some leader who may not have the general good of the public at heart."

The board further decided that the recent strike against the gas company did not reflect to the credit of the Chicago Federation of Labor. The speeches of the strike leaders were referred to as "incendiary" and as "opposed to the general welfare of the city as a whole and to organized labor."

Means a Full Settlement.

The board took up the case on the request of the teamsters, who were involved in the trouble and wanted to have it settled. Both the company and the strikers agreed to accept the findings as final. The board was composed of Harry G. Selfridge, H. B. Steele, S. T. Edwards, R. J. Thorne, John B. Field, Frank H. Hebard, and Arthur Dixon for the employers, and C. Sagerstrum, Milton Booth, A. J. Dean, William McNabb, James B. Barry, Frank Ray, and George Golden for the teamsters.

The first question taken up was the discharge of a number of men about the time the strike began on Feb. 3. The board found that the men dropped from the pay rolls of the company before the strike was threatened had no just ground for complaint, but that those discharged during the controversy should be given their former positions. The board, however, bars from reinstatement those who conducted themselves improperly during the strike and those who left the employ of the company without orders from their union.

As the meaning of improper conduct may be subject to argument the board decided that those accused by the company of being guilty shall have the right of going before an arbitration board of three members to be elected within forty-eight hours after the receipt of a written request addressed to the president of the company.

The company employs many union men in its different departments and the board protected them by a decree that the company shall "not discriminate against members of any labor body."

This is the one comfort given the strikers, and yet it is a policy the company has followed for years.

Board Points to Danger.

In declaring against a general union the board said:

"While we have decided that the gas company shall to the fullest extent consistent with the safety of the public not discriminate against union men, we feel that the maintenance of the gas pressure is at all times vitally necessary to the protection of the city against crime and the health of the public, because a fall in the pressure below a certain point on any night is sure to be accompanied by a great loss of life through the extinguishing of gas jets, and consequently escape of gas into sleeping rooms.

"We believe it to be necessary beyond the possibility of failure that the supply and pressure be under all circumstances maintained. In the light of past experience, we believe that should the gas houses be in the entire charge of any collection of men who are subject to the absolute orders of some leader, who may not have the general good of the public at heart or who may be guided by personal or vicious motives, serious trouble would be sure to occur.

"We therefore believe that it is entirely inexpedient for the company to permit such a possible condition to become a part of the operating of its gas houses."

IGNORE AGREEMENT AND STRIKE

Clerks of J. B. Clow & Sons Go Out—Employers Threaten to Close Indefinitely.

In violation of their contract, it is charged, the clerks for James B. Clow & Sons struck yesterday. The men, members of the Journeymen Supply House Clerks' union, entered into an agreement on March 31 with the Central Supply association, settling a strike then in force. The last clause of the contract provided that in case any difference arose efforts to adjust it should be made. If this failed the matter was to be turned over to a board of arbitration, whose decision was to be final.

Charles McGinnis, business agent of the clerks, who called the strike, was one of the signers of the contract. The Clow company made a statement to its men before the strike was ordered. It stated that McGinnis demanded the reinstatement of a discharged employé and was met with an offer to refer the matter to the committee for decision. What followed is told thus:

"McGinnis replied that this case would not be referred to any committee, that he would settle it now, and unless settled our men would go out. We replied to him that he forgot that we had an agreement with the union, to which he replied, 'The agreement be ——.' We said to him that the agreement was entered into to be kept and it provided that all disputes should be referred to the committee, to which McGinnis replied, 'To h—— with arbitration.'

"Under these conditions if our men quit their work at noon this store will be closed indefinitely."

STRIKE LEADER BROKEN DOWN.

Business Agent of the Engineers Unable to Stand the Worry and Adverse Criticism.

Reports were current yesterday that Business Agent Neill McCallum had been stricken with a mental ailment as a result of worry over the stockyards engineers' strike, of which he is the head and front. This rumor proved untrue, but it developed that the worry caused by the strike and the bitter comments on its justice proved too much for McCallum and last week he was forced to take to his bed. His doctors diagnosed the case as typhoid fever, and for a time feared its outcome.

McCallum was able to take an interest in the strike yesterday and directed it from his bedroom at 773 West Sixty-third place. He made arrangements for a massmeeting on Sunday at which he can defend himself. He expects to be well enough to be out by that time.

The engineers at the yards resolved last night to continue the strike.

DRIVEN INSANE BY STRIKE.

Former Bridge Worker Loses Mind and Relatives Say Labor Troubles Are to Blame.

Samuel Fishleigh, 58 years old, formerly employed by the American Bridge company, is insane, and his relatives blame strike troubles. Fishleigh was thrown out of employment recently when he was ordered to go on strike, and he brooded over the matter till he became violent. Yesterday in Judge Carter's court he was ordered sent to Dunning. He lived at 1285 Ashland avenue.

WILL ENTER THE POLICY CRUSADE.

Citizens' Association to Pledge Its Assistance in Stamping Out the Great Evil.

HAS FUND FOR SUCH WORK

Norton Goddard, Who Directed New York Fight, Sends Offer of His Assistance.

The Citizens' association of Chicago is to take a hand in the crusade against the policy swindle. At the next meeting of the organization a resolution will be presented expressing approval of the warfare being waged against the gamblers and offering the association's support.

"I have watched the progress of the war against the policy shops in the 'black belt' with interest," said Louis A. Seeberger, president of the association, yesterday. "It has my hearty approval, and I am sure that the association will take the same view. The campaign in New York City, which resulted in wiping out the policy evil, was a commendable thing, and if the Citizens' association can give any assistance along the same line here I believe that it should not be backward. I intend to bring up the matter at the next meeting."

The Citizens' association has a fund available for prosecutions against lawbreakers, and consequently is in a position to afford practical assistance in the collection of evidence against the gamblers.

May Form an Association.

The leaders in the war on policy expect that the example of the Citizens' association will be followed by other organizations, the result being the formation of an anti-policy league similar to the one that did such efficient work in closing the policy resorts in New York.

The passage of a law patterned after that regulating policy in the New York penal code has been advocated. The statute provides for an imprisonment not to exceed two years and a maximum fine of $1,000 for any person convicted of any connection with a policy shop. Under it not only is the man who conducts the game, with all his employés, amenable, but the owner, landlord, or agent of any building who permits it to be used for the purpose of policy may be fined and imprisoned, and the holder or purchaser of a ticket does not escape.

How New York Law Reads.

The New York statute reads in part:

"A person who keeps, occupies, or uses, or permits to be kept or used, a building, establishment, or apparatus for policy playing, or who delivers or receives money in playing policy, or for any writing, paper, or document in the nature of a bet, or who shall have in his possession any writing, paper, or document representing or being a record on any chance, or who is the owner, agent, superintendent, caretaker, or janitor of any place where policy playing is carried on, or who aids in any manner the offenses named, is a common gambler, and punishable by imprisonment for not more than two years and a fine not exceeding $1,000, or both."

"The possession of any policy slip is presumptive evidence of possession knowingly. The law states further:

"Any person having information of any place or building where policy playing is carried on may serve personally on the landlord, agent, or janitor a written notice requiring him to make an application for the removal of the person so occupying the property. If the owner, agent, or janitor does not make such application within five days, or, having made it, does not in good faith diligently prosecute it, the person making the notice may make such application. The neglect of the owner, agent, or janitor to make such application, or the failure to diligently prosecute it, shall be presumptive evidence against the person on whom such notice is served."

"The trouble is that our statute is not strong enough," said one of the men who are conducting the fight in Chicago. "With a law like that of New York there could be little evasion, and it would be impossible to hang up indictments as they have been in this city."

Many Convictions Secured There.

How effective the New York law has been may be gathered from the following report of what was accomplished during the first six months after it was placed on the statute books:

Arrests	120
Indictments	147
Convictions	97
Indictments pending	71
Complaints pending	18

The law became effective early in 1902, and at the present time policy in New York is practically extinct.

Those who are taking an active part in the suppression of the swindle in Chicago have been assured of the cooperation and aid of the New York Anti-Policy society. In a letter received yesterday Norton Goddard, president of the society, says:

"I am much concerned that policy should be suppressed in Chicago and elsewhere, and I will do absolutely anything in my power to assist. The best thing the Anti-Policy society ever did was when it determined on one apparently simple matter, and that was to base its case on the proposition that 'policy is not gambling; it is stealing.' On no other basis could it have made the progress it has made in this community.

"Again assuring you of my deep interest, and that I am not only willing but desirous of helping in any way in my power, I am, sincerely yours. NORTON GODDARD."

QUITS CIRCUS FOR HER SON.

Mrs. Ruth Parkinson Secures Work as a Dressmaker and Court Gives Her the Child.

Mrs. Ruth Parkinson, who gave up a circus position paying $25 a week to become a dressmaker at $9 a week, in order that she might secure possession of her son, Rollin J. Parkinson, was given custody of the child yesterday by Judge Chytraus. The boy is 6 years old, and it was alleged that when an infant he was given to Mrs. Parkinson's mother-in-law, Mrs. Ellen Muthart. On Jan. 24, 1902, Mrs. Parkinson secured a decree of divorce from William J. Parkinson. The decree gave the custody of the child to Mrs. Parkinson provided she could furnish it a home. She gave up her place with a circus and moved to Minneapolis, where she found work as a dressmaker.

MORRIS ART SOCIETY MEETS.

Completes Its Organization and Plans to Establish Club Rooms—Officers Are Elected.

The Morris Art society, which was recently founded, met in the studio of Ralph Clarkson, Fine Arts building, last evening, and adopted a constitution and bylaws. The object of the organization is to promote a knowledge and appreciation of the life and work of William Morris. A clubroom will be established here. The following officers were elected:

President—Prof. Charles Zueblin.
Vice presidents—Joseph Twyman, Chicago, and one in each of six other cities.
Treasurer—John H. Cameron, Chicago.
Secretary—Prof. Oscar L. Triggs.
Counsel—Francis W. Parker.

BULLET WOUND PROVES FATAL.

Alexander McCormick, Shot by William Davis, Dies in the County Hospital.

Alexander McCormick, who was shot by William Davis, 3026 Lloyd avenue, Sunday evening, died yesterday in the county hospital. McCormick boarded with Davis, and the shooting was the outcome of a quarrel concerning Mrs. Davis.

TO REPRESENT ILLINOIS IN NORMAL DEBATE.

Miss Charlotte Paulson of Austin will represent Illinois in the interstate oratorical contest between normal schools at De Kalb, Ill., today. Miss Paulson was graduated from the Austin High school in 1899. She is a member of the senior class of the Northern Illinois Normal school at De Kalb. She won the interstate contest for Illinois in Kansas last year.

CRUSHED BETWEEN "L" CARS: MANY PASSENGERS ALARMED.

Metropolitan Guard Is Fatally Injured in Rear End Collision at Halsted Street—Locomotives Kill Two.

In a rear end collision between two Metropolitan elevated trains near the Halsted street station last evening Frank Ratkey, 26 Coblentz street, a guard on one of the trains, was crushed between cars and received fatal injuries. Many persons were thrown from their seats and bruised by the collision, but none was severely hurt. The accident, which occurred in the rush hour, delayed traffic for nearly an hour.

The airbrakes on a Logan square train had become uncoupled, and when the train was stopped Ratkey stepped between the cars and was recoupling the air brake when a Humboldt park train crashed into the stalled train.

The guard was caught between the platforms and dragged several feet. His cries brought assistance, and he was soon released. At the Presbyterian hospital it was found that his back and shoulder had been broken, and that he had sustained internal injuries. He cannot recover.

John Pichicchiun, 35 years old and living at Grand avenue and Wright street, was killed by a St. Paul passenger train in the afternoon. He was working as a section hand at Chicago avenue, and in attempting to avoid a freight train stepped in front of the passenger engine.

While walking on the Northwestern tracks at Desplaines in the morning Henry Riener of Arlington Heights was instantly killed by a passenger train.

In boarding a moving Wentworth avenue car at Monroe and Clark streets last evening Miss Alice Holland, 205 Rush street, fell and broke her right hip. She was taken to her home by the ambulance from the Central police station.

SAYS CHICAGO'S NEED IS MORE IMPROVEMENT CLUBS.

Bad Conditions Can Be Remedied by Concerted Effort, Declares President of South Central Association.

The improvement clubs are to be the salvation of Chicago, according to Edward C. Wentworth, real estate dealer and president of the South Central association. Speaking yesterday of the city's needs, Mr. Wentworth said:

"The question is often asked: 'What is the matter with Chicago?' The answer should be 'Nothing which cannot be cured.' This at once puts us in the position of seeking the remedy. No one doubts the result should effective efforts be made to improve conditions in any given location of the city. The Chicago spirit will not long tolerate inferior and undesirable environments when it has once seen better ones, so it may be assumed that if good streets and alleys can be provided in certain districts a new standard will have been placed before the people. It follows that houses and lots will take upon themselves a change for the better when the public highways adjacent show evidence of improvement.

"Chicago is now reëntering the zone of civic pride from which it emerged after the world's fair. The opportunities are greater than then; the possibilities of accomplishment are not lacking; our people possess the energy, ability, resources, and ambition; therefore, what can prevent this city by the lake becoming in reality a place of beauty, with artistic and civic development—the greater White city of which that of 1893 was the forerunner?

"Our local improvement associations, with such ideals before them, pressed to a permanent and definite conclusion, will present an example and inspiration to Chicago which will be an igniting torch."

STEAL 500 PROCESS WRITS.

Thieves Also Take Constable's Horse and Buggy but Abandon Them Later.

While Constable E. N. Ricker of 585 Evanston avenue was serving an execution at 5620 South Green street thieves stole his horse and buggy, containing several hundred process writs. The horse and buggy were recovered early yesterday morning by police from the Englewood station, but the writs were gone. A man aged about 22 years and a boy in knee trousers had been seen with the rig, but there is no clew to their identity.

WOMAN HURT; CAN'T TELL HOW.

Found Suffering from Wounds at La Grange and She May Be Robbers' Victim.

A woman, bruised and bleeding from several wounds, was found in West Forty-seventh street at La Grange yesterday and was taken to the county hospital. She could not explain how she had been injured, but mumbled something that was taken to be "robbers." The woman is believed to be Mrs. Mary Semick of Lyons. She is about 60 years old. Her wrists are lacerated and her throat is discolored, as if from having been choked.

POISON LAID TO WOMAN.

LIZZIE M'CORMICK ARRESTED FOR SENDING BOTTLE TO CINCINNATI.

Mrs. Kate Nobbe, to Whom Fatal Liquor Was Directed, Accuses Others of Being Jealous of Her—No Further Deaths Likely to Result—Both Accused and Accuser Tell of Bad Feeling That Has Long Existed Between Them.

Cincinnati, O., May 14.—[Special.]—The true story of the broken package of poisoned whisky, which caused the death of one and the serious illness of four other Adams Express company employés last night, has not yet been pieced together. There will be no further deaths as a result. The men are recovering rapidly, and will probably be discharged from the hospitals tomorrow.

Mrs. Lizzie McCormick of Memphis is accused of sending the package containing whisky. Mrs. Kate Nobbe, to whom the package was addressed, identified the handwriting as that of Mrs. McCormick, and the local authorities requested her arrest at Memphis. It followed, as did also a promise from her to come to Cincinnati and face a charge of murder without any battle over the requisition. An officer is now hastening to the Tennessee city to bring the woman here.

Says Sender Was Jealous.

Mrs. Nobbe was before Chief of Police Millikey today, but could do nothing more than repeat the statements which she had made to the police on the preceding night, in effect that Mrs. McCormick was jealous of her because of imagined attentions to the Cincinnati woman on the part of Edward Pell, a Memphis saloonkeeper.

The Memphis woman is tearful and indignant because of her arrest. She denies absolutely that she sent any package containing poison by express to Mrs. Nobbe. She does say, however, that a parcel passed between her and the Cincinnati woman. It contained, she avers, a candy baby.

Insulting Messages Exchanged.

This happened, Mrs. McCormick claims, soon after Pell returned from a two weeks' Cincinnati visit. She avers that the baby was expressed to her by Mrs. Nobbe. She regarded it as an insult, she states, and promptly returned it. Since then she avers that she has never considered Mrs. Nobbe. Formerly they were quite friendly and corresponded regularly.

Another exchange of compliments took place last St. Valentine's day. Mrs. Nobbe states that she mailed a comic valentine to Mrs. McCormick. She was shocked, she says, when she received one in return which bore vulgar poetry. Mrs. McCormick does not say anything about sending such a missive to Mrs. Nobbe, but says that she received a coarse, insulting valentine from the Cincinnati woman. She also claims that Mrs. Nobbe has written other offensive letters.

The Memphis police have as yet been unable to locate the person who placed the package of poison in the express office. The clerks were busy at the time and failed to notice whether it was a man or a woman.

Pell Defends Accused Woman.

Saloonkeeper Pell told the police that the women became enemies because Mrs. McCormick came to keep house for him at his cottage, 7 Hampton place. He intends, he says, to furnish the woman with the best legal talent for her defense.

Research made by the police shows that Mrs. McCormick has been arrested three times. In each instance the trouble was caused by fits of jealousy on her part, and a woman figured in each case.

Attorneys differ as to the exact standing in law of the men who drank the liquid, to which they clearly had no right, even though it was being wasted. Leading legal authorities aver, however, that the sender of poison is absolutely responsible for any dire consequence that may result, even though some person should go out of the way to steal the liquor.

DEVOTED NURSE IS A VICTIM.

Mrs. Helen Fribs Who Attended Pneumonia Patient Dies of That Disease.

Devotion to a patient is thought to have been the cause of the death of Mrs. Helen Fribs, who had spent nearly fifty years of her life in Chicago.

Mrs. Fribs, who lived at 560½ West Harrison street, was of French-Canadian birth, and was one of the women pioneers of Cook county. When Frank Racicot, a neighbor, developed pneumonia two weeks ago Mrs. Fribs assisted in his nursing, and attended him faithfully up to the time of his death. On May 5 she attended his funeral, and afterward, in her usual health, visited her children on the north side. Three days after the funeral she was stricken with the same disease, pneumonia, and died on May 12. Five daughters and a son, all of whom live in Chicago, survive. They are Mrs. H. Jaeger, Mrs. Frank Phillips, Mrs. L. Frank, Mrs. J. Peterman, Mrs. B. Jacobs, and Alex. Fribs.

The funeral will take place Monday morning, and interment will be at Calvary.

FRESH WOES FOR MILLS.

TROUBLES PILING UP FOR LAURA STICKLER'S ASSAILANT.

St. Louis Woman Who Says She Is One of the Wives of the Accused Man Writes That She Hopes He Will Be Sent to Prison for Life, While Stockholders in Wrecked Company Are Clamoring for Their Money—Wifee, Too, in Detroit.

Troubles are piling up for Harold C. Mills, assailant of Laura Stickler and man of matrimonial complications. Latest and perhaps most serious of Mills' troubles comes from the wrath of women scorned.

"I hope he will be imprisoned for life," writes one Mrs. Harold C. Mills, who lives in St. Louis.

A Chicago Mrs. Mills previously had expressed the same hope, and yesterday a Mrs. Mills was found in Detroit who was hardly less bitter against the accused man.

The St. Louis Mrs. Mills charges that Mills absconded with $4,000 of her money in September, 1900. As an evidence of her intensity of feeling she has sent the Chicago police a photograph of Mills when he was a prisoner at the Columbus, O., penitentiary for pocket picking.

"I haven't any more use for it," she says with reference to the photograph.

Then Mrs. Mills goes on to say that the man under arrest in Chicago changes his name as often as he transfers his affections.

Right Name Is Lepker.

"His right name is John Lepker of Dayton, O., but he has gone under the name of C. B. McCoy, Reed, Mills, and a half dozen other aliases," she writes. "He married me under the name of Mills. He organized the Guarantee Building and Loan company at Columbus, O., under the name of McCoy, and the Buffalo Savings and Loan association under some other name. He is a bad one."

The St. Louis Mrs. Mills was a widow, Mrs. Sophia Hedley, when she married Mills on July 3, 1900. Soon afterward she gave him $4,000 to invest in real estate and then he disappeared.

The Detroit Mrs. Mills formerly was Miss Mary Butler, a stenographer. She was married to Mills last summer, when he was known as Harold Reed, and two weeks after the ceremony was performed he deserted her. On April 24 last the Detroit Mrs. Mills, or Reed, was granted a divorce on the grounds of desertion. While in Detroit Mills operated the "Provident Home company."

Mills' Case in Court.

Mills will be given a hearing on May 21 on the charges preferred by Miss Stickler of the Young Woman's Christian association, who says Mills lured her to the Newport hotel. Miss Stickler, although seriously injured by leaping from the third story window of the hotel, is in a fair way to recovery.

When Mills was arraigned at the Harrison street station yesterday morning he was confronted by the Chicago Mrs. Mills, formerly Miss Florence Beales, who swore out a warrant charging him with abandonment. She also charged that Mills married another woman in Pittsburg after he deserted her last December.

"But I was not married to the Pittsburg woman," Mills protested.

Losers in Angry Mood.

At the police station were a number of angry shareholders of the Guarantee Home Purchasing company, of which Mills was president at one time. Among them were Mrs. Florence Converse of 439 Garfield boulevard and Mrs. S. A. Edwards, 6570 Halsted street. From the tenor of their talk there is a probability that Mills will be charged with embezzlement in addition to his other offenses. When he left Chicago, ostensibly for Buffalo, on Dec. 1 last, he took with him $700 belonging to the Home Purchasing company, which concern is now in the hands of Timothy Scanlan as receiver. One of the heaviest losers is Seth G. Gibbs, who has $2,800 tied up in the concern with little prospect of realizing anything.

While in Pittsburg Mills was not idle, as he organized the Keystone Home Developing company, capitalized for $100,000.

At the hearing yesterday Mills was placed under $5,000 bonds and his case was continued at the request of the police. Being unable to find surety, Mills was returned to a cell.

Mills does not deny that he was married in St. Louis, but asserts that his wife there secured a divorce from him.

At the hearing yesterday Mills was represented by Attorney J. E. Ingram. Last night Mr. Ingram said he had been called into the case hastily and was in no position to discuss Mills' entanglements.

PLUNDER FROM THE HOTELS IS RECOVERED BY ACCIDENT.

Detective Finds $500 Worth of Silverware While Arresting a Woman on Another Charge—Now Seeking a Man

Silverware to the value of $500 which had been stolen from hotels and clubs was found last evening through the arrest of Lillian Robinson at 2354 State street, who is charged with another theft.

As he was about to serve the warrant Detective Timmons noticed some silverware on the table. Picking up a spoon he found it was marked "Lakota."

"Where did you get this?" asked Timmons.

"O, Arkin bought that," was the answer.

A search of the house revealed silverware from the Virginia, Kinsley's, and the Union League club.

George Arkin, who was mentioned by the woman, is being sought by the police.

Steal Food and Watches.—The Columbia Malting company's plant in South Chicago was the scene of a bold robbery yesterday, when two men entered the engine room, helped themselves to the contents of a number of dinner pails, and then made off with two gold watches, which were in the pockets of vests hanging on the wall. One watch, valued at $85, was the property of William Cleary, 10244 Avenue L. The other belonged to Herman Tampton, 10436 Avenue M.

Robbery Puzzles Police.—The police are trying to account for the disappearance of $500 worth of property which was taken from the flat of Charles Friedberg, 558 Forty-first street, on Wednesday evening. The property taken was so bulky that it could not have been taken far without a wagon and as no wagon was seen in the neighborhood the police believe the plunder was stored away in some flat in the vicinity.

Military Academy Instructor Uses Up to Date Methods in Frustrating Parental Opposition.

Boston, Mass., May 14.—[Special.]—An impatient lover today carried his sweetheart away from Notre Dame academy in Roxbury in an automobile, took her to Jamaica Plain and married her, and then sent news of the event to her irate papa. The happy groom is Capt. Charles J. Senter, formerly of Manchester, N. H., and now an instructor in the military academy at Nyack, N. Y., and the bride was Miss Martha Fleming, 18 years old, the daughter of M. E. Fleming, a wealthy banker of the Roxbury district. Mr. Fleming was opposed to the attentions Senter was paying his daughter.

CIGAR "TRUST" FIGHT SPREADS.

New Centers on West and South Sides, with Independents Apparently in the Lead.

The fight between the cigar "trust" and the independent dealers has two new centers—in Halsted street on the west side and near Cottage Grove avenue and Thirty-ninth street. In Halsted street the combine has opened two stores, and the independents have checked them by taking long leases on other available rooms. The "trust" has not secured an opening in Cottage Grove avenue, as their opponents seem to have secured control in the district. R. J. Hetrick has come from Denver to learn how to organize the dealers in that city against the expected invasion by the big company.

JUDGES MUST PAY OR FIGHT ALONE.

Republican Nominees Warned by Committeemen to Send in $3,000 Assessments.

HIDING HAND OF LORIMER

John M. Smyth Appears as Chairman and Tries to Smooth Out Rough Places.

John M. Smyth took charge of the republican judicial campaign yesterday and presided at the committee meeting. William Lorimer, however, will continue in an advisory capacity in directing the committee's work.

While candidates and committeemen appeared to be in better humor, it developed that certain members of the executive body had decided that nothing would be done until the question of assessments was settled.

"We want to know what the candidates are going to do," said one of the leaders, "before we go ahead with the campaign work. This committee does not intend to create a lot of expense and have a pile of bills coming in without knowing that the money with which to pay them will be forthcoming.

"It has been said that some of the candidates will not contribute more than the first installment of $1,000. If that is true we want to know it now. I could not blame a few of our nominees for not wanting to put up $3,000, but they were anxious enough to get on the ticket and should pay their assessment."

Tries to Smooth Out Rough Places.

This was one of the annoyances that Mr. Smyth tried to smooth over by showing how it could be disposed of. It was suggested that when these assessments were levied the committee did not contemplate taking $3,000 from the pocket of each candidate. It expected, said a representative, that the friends directly interested in a candidate would "chip in" their little contributions.

There is no doubt that Mr. Smyth was called in and prevailed on to preside in the hope of removing the belief that Lorimer was in command and control. It was a candidates' representative who said he was pleased to see that Mr. Lorimer had been put out of the chairman's seat and sent to his place with the organization committee.

Mr. Smyth also took a hand in the Mueller bill controversy. He not only made statements to the effect that in his judgment a veto of the measure by Gov. Yates would do more than anything else to defeat the republican judicial ticket, but used his influence to have the governor sign it. He did this in two ways—by verbal and wired messages.

Republicans Run to Threes.

With three groups of candidates, three automobile buses, and three methods of campaigning, the republican candidates began their campaign in three wards last night, the Second, Third, and Ninth. One party followed strictly the policy of a "hand-to-hand" campaign, devoting all their energy to handshaking and to greeting voters, limiting their speeches to a few words of thanks. This group included Candidates Brentano, Burke, Sprogle, Esher, and Smith.

Another group, headed by Judge Haney, carried out the plan of a "talk" campaign of the old time pattern. Judge Haney talked vigorously and at length at each of the three meetings, and asserted that he and his associates intended to talk until the polls close on June 1. The members of this squad included Candidates Haney, Gibbons, Elliott, and Schuyler.

Let Others Do the Talking.

The third party was content to adopt the policy of saying little, shaking hands often, and then sitting by and allowing ward leaders and workers to make the addresses. This party included Candidates Tuthill, Horton, Baldwin, Condee, Hirschl, and Pflaum.

The first mentioned candidates started at Arlington hall in the Second ward. They held merely an informal reception. Close on their heels came the Haney party from the Ninth ward meeting at 586 Halsted street. Tactics changed at once. Judge Haney asserted in part:

"They've told us we can't make speeches in this campaign. But we have agreed among ourselves that we are going to talk as much as we like."

At the meeting at 3641 State street, in the Third ward, the candidates were introduced, as each squad arrived, by Chairman David Cochran. At each meeting workers were called to meet with representatives from all other sections of the county at republican headquarters at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Tonight the candidates will visit the west side districts.

First Democratic Meeting.

Success attended the first meeting of the democratic judicial campaign held in the hall of the Chicago democracy at 122 La Salle street. The place was crowded with 500 voters, and the speeches of Mayor Harrison, Thomas A. Morán, and William S. Forrest aroused enthusiasm.

"There is," said ex-Judge Moran, "involved in this election, the question of the continued domination of what is called Lorimerism in this community. That term is not, in its offensiveness, to be attached to Mr. Lorimer personally and alone. Lorimerism does not mean an individual nor the acts of an individual. Lorimerism is a name for a condition existing in this community, and has the same significance here that Quayism has in the state of Pennsylvania.

"It means the dominance of a political machine, not the dominance of republican principles, or even of the republican party, but of a set of men, who, by the perfection of political organization, have controlled and are controlling, against the will and desire of the great body of respectable republicans, the political affairs of this state and of this county.

"To expect that the republican candidates for judges in this county can be elected at this time, and during the term of their judicial office be free from the demands of the machine and from subserviency to Lorimerism, is to refuse to learn anything from the history of the past and from the conditions now existing in this state and this county."

Attorney Forrest Talks.

Mr. Forrest said that if the lawyers would only tell the public what they know and talk about between themselves there would be a revolution in the judiciary of this county. He continued:

"An ignorant lawyer cannot be a good judge, a cowardly lawyer dare not be a good judge, and a bad man could not be a good judge. I have heard that members of the democratic machine are united with the republicans to elect certain condidates on the republican ticket by trading votes on other candidates. Now, if you find that democratic machine gangsters are in league with Lorimer gangsters in support of any man, that is the man for every citizen in this county to vote against."

JOHN HENRY.

A Farce Comedy in Three Acts.
BY HOBART and ROSE.

Presented at the Hyperion Theater, New Haven, Conn., by Dan Daly and His Company, May 14, 1903. The cast:

John Henry	Dan Daly
Bunch Jefferson	George Backus
Uncle Peter Grant	J. G. Marlowe
Aunt Martha Grant	Helen Wethersby
Clara J. Peaches, their niece	Florence Rockwell
Uncle William Gray	R. C. Herz
Alice Gray, his niece	Julie Herne
The Countess Natalia Delmonte Vecchio	Elounia Olcastle
Harmony Diggs, the Sherlock of Ruraldene	John Keefe
Rev. M. Dutton, the perambulating parson	Arthur Caville

New Haven, Conn., May 14.—[Special.]—Klaw & Erlanger presented their new farce, "John Henry," with Dan Daly as star, here tonight. It is the first venture of Daly in a rôle which does not include musical comedy. Daly's most effective support was by George Backus, J. G. Marlowe, R. C. Herz, Helen Wethersby, Florence Rockwell, and Julia Morne. The play was favorably received by an audience of about 2,000 people, half of whom were Yale men.

As You Like It Played in Opera Air.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Part of the south field of Columbia university's athletic ground became this afternoon a temporary forest of Arden for the production of the forest scenes of "As You Like It." The play was given for the benefit of the university settlement kindergarten by a company made up largely of actors and actresses who during the last season have appeared in "Everyman." The performance, which is the first of the kind ever given in the open air in this city, was an artistic as well as a pecuniary success. The western part of the field was chosen for the open air theater. It was surrounded by canvas walls and presented an exterior suggesting a circus. The stage was backed by trees, through which the audience could get a glimpse of the sky, and could not have suited the purpose better. Around the rear and sides of the platform, which was banked in front with dogwood in flower, was spread newly cut grass, and there was a solid background of foliage. The audience consisted of more than 3,000 persons. Miss Edith Wynn Matthison, whose performance of the leading rôle in "Everyman" was acceptable, was the Rosalind. Miss Matthison's work was excellent. The remainder of the company did its work acceptably.

Ann Arbor May Festival Opens.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 14.—[Special.]—The tenth annual May festival of the University School of Music opened here today with Edward Elgar's dramatic cantata "Caractacus," its first American performance. The program for the concerts presents many novel features. Among the leading stellar attractions are Miss Anito Rio, Mme. Homer, Mme. Bouton, Mr. Wegener, Sig. Emelio de Gogorza, Mr. Howland, Mme. Bloomfield-Zeisler, and Frederic Martin. Owing to the illness of Sig. de Gogorza the part of Caractacus was taken by Mr. Howland of the university school, who did it full justice. The festival will continue tomorrow and Saturday, closing with the production of Verdi's "Aïda."

Such Lazy Coffee

Another name for the "Sloppy" sort

Postum Coffee is not made like ordinary coffee, for it takes at least 25 minutes' cooking to bring out the heavy food value of Postum. It requires some effort for those things which are really worth while—making Postum requires a little care.

The grocer is in a position to hear of those lazy ones who will not take the trouble to make Postum correctly. "I am well acquainted, indeed, with Postum," says a grocer of Camden, N. J., "for I meet it not only at my breakfast table but I am also associated with it daily in my business.

"Coffee drinking used to affect my nerves and stomach, but since we have been using Postum in our family in place of coffee the bloated feeling after eating has disappeared and my head is now clear and stomach and nerves all right. We all feel better in every way and find Postum just as satisfactory to our palates.

"I have met customers who complained that Postum was not good, but we always found this due to the fact that they tried to make it as they used to make coffee. Of course we set them right by pointing out the reasons, telling them they must boil Postum 15 or 20 minutes after boiling commences, then they get fine, choice and delicious Postum." CHICAGO MEN AID IN MAKING BOMB

Unwittingly Assist G. Russell in Building the Umbria Infernal Machine.

CALLED A GAMING DEVICE

New York Detectives Arrive Here, but Find the Suspect Has Disappeared.

The gigantic infernal machine, which was found on the Cunard dock alongside the Umbria just before the steamship sailed from New York not only was manufactured in Chicago but the maker was aided unwittingly by a half dozen or more Chicago mechanics.

To these mechanics the maker was known as G. Russell, and he lived and had his workshop at 287 Washington boulevard. Each of them was told that a gambling device was being made which Russell had invented.

It was learned yesterday that Russell, or Rosseau, was working on this, or a similar machine, last November. In the last part of that month John Clark, a machinist, 52 and 54 South Morgan stret, received an order from Russell for four steel cones and disks. Clark did not see the man, after delivering the first order, until April, when a like order was given.

New York Detectives Here.

When Inspector George McClusky, chief of the detective bureau in New York, reached Chicago yesterday morning with Detectives Carey and Funston he learned that his mission was known, and after a short consultation with Lieut. Andy Rohan took the first train back to New York. Funston and Carey remained to make further search for the man.

The trunk in which the bomb was shipped from Chicago to New York furnished the first clew that the plot probably had been hatched in this city. Attached to one of the handles was a tag of the Parmalee company. It was No. 222,445. Through this company the detectives learned that the trunk was taken from the Washington boulevard residence to the depot. The order for the transfer was given by a man who said that he was G. Russell.

Russell Has Disappeared.

This information satisfied the New York detectives that Russell probably was still living, or had friends living at the same house, and the three New York men took the first train for Chicago. The information was not telegraphed to the Chicago police in the fear that Russell might escape, but on their arrival here they learned that the man had not been seen for several days.

The room was rented by Russell from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ehlen. He came to the house April 19. After looking at the room on the first floor he inquired the rate and paid Mrs. Ehlen $3 in advance for the first week.

"I have paid $5 for rooms not so good in New York," said the man. "I shall not be here long, and I shall be in my room much of the time. I am working on a little invention that will keep me busy while I am here."

Shows Large Sums of Money.

When Russell offered to pay for the room he displayed a large roll of bills of high denominations.

"I cannot change that," said Mrs. Ehlen, as he handed her a $20 bill. Russell then drew another roll from another pocket and paid the amount due. Every time he made a purchase he displayed large sums of money.

Russell brought a suit case to the Ehlen house and within two days he received a number of tools and carpenter's supplies. The sound of sawing and filing was heard in his room, and Mrs. Ehlen found the floor covered with the pieces in the mornings. No one came to visit him and he received no mail. Mr. Ehlen heard him at work one evening and jokingly remarked about their roomer, who was wasting money on an invention that was almost certain to be a failure.

Secures Help of Mechanics.

Russell visited many mechanics in the neighborhood. J. W. Issenberger, 56 South Morgan street, made four wooden plates for him. The patterns of the plates were made by Russell.

R. W. Seymour, the owner of a carpenter shop almost across the street from Russell's room, made four wooden slats on accurate measurements that were given him, and Machinist Clark filled the order of the steel cones and disks.

William Moore, machinist, 49 South Carpenter street, made a four inch japanned iron indicator.

Where Trunk Was Bought.

The trunk was purchased from the American Storage and Van company, 246 West Madison street. Russell entered the store on the afternoon of April 22 and asked the price of a trunk that was displayed in the window. S. E. Barr, the manager of the company, waited on him.

"That trunk is $5," said Mr. Barr. Russell examined it carefully and finally bought it, and asked that it be sent at once to his room to G. Russell.

"When the man came into the store I noticed that he seemed to be a foreigner," said Barr yesterday. "When he spoke I was surprised because he used such good English. I called an expressman and the trunk was delivered. On the bottom of it I marked '205' with a black pencil. All the goods we sell are marked in some such way. If the trunk in New York has this number on the bottom I could swear it is the one I sold."

Description Fits Captured Trunk.

The trunk, as described in New York, answered in every particular the one sold by Barr. Yesterday the police there refused to say whether the number was on the trunk, and would not allow it to be seen.

Russell took possession of the trunk as soon as it was delivered. The tray was thrown aside and was found the next morning by Mrs. Ehlen and was burned. Among other things Russell threw away was a clock, from which the mechanism had been removed. It is believed he used this machinery in making the contrivance that was to explode the dynamite.

Russell was described by Mrs. Ehlen and others as a man of pleasing appearance, well dressed, about 35 or 40 years old, and weighed about 180 pounds. He spoke correctly, but with an accent that would mark him as being of foreign birth. He talked but little to the Ehlen family, and took his meals at nearby restaurants. When the Parmelee company took his trunk to the depot, Russell told Mrs. Ehlen he was about to leave for New York.

"You may hear of me later," he said, when he was leaving the house.

Thinks Russell the Guilty Man.

"There is nothing for me to do in Chicago," said Inspector McClusky when he met Lieut. Rohan. "I have no doubt this machine was made at this room, but I do not think Mrs. Ehlen knew anything about her roomer or his work. Russell probably followed the trunk to New York and may have sailed from this country before this time."

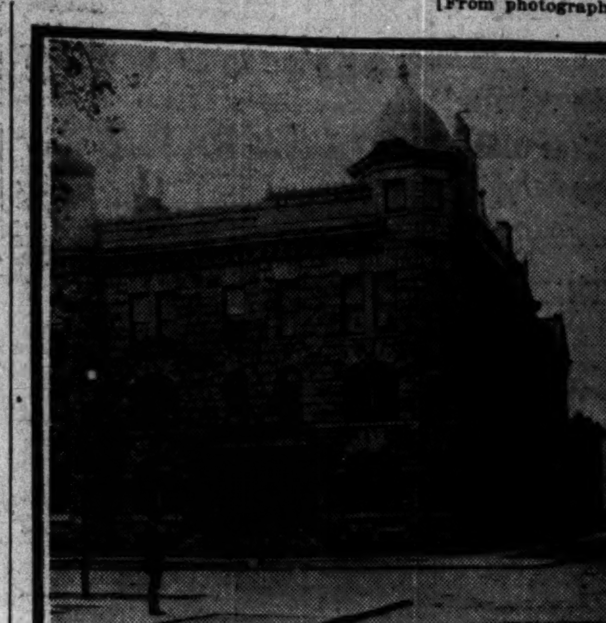

"The box in which the infernal machine was inclosed was not made in Chicago," said Detective Carey. "That I know. The various parts of the machine were constructed here and taken to New York in the trunk. They were put together there. Whether he had accomplices in New York is not known for a certainty, but we believe he did have, and are on the trail of one suspect."

Whether Russell left Chicago the day the trunk was shipped is uncertain. Mr. Seymour, the carpenter, said yesterday he saw a man he believed was Russell pass his windows May 2 or 3.

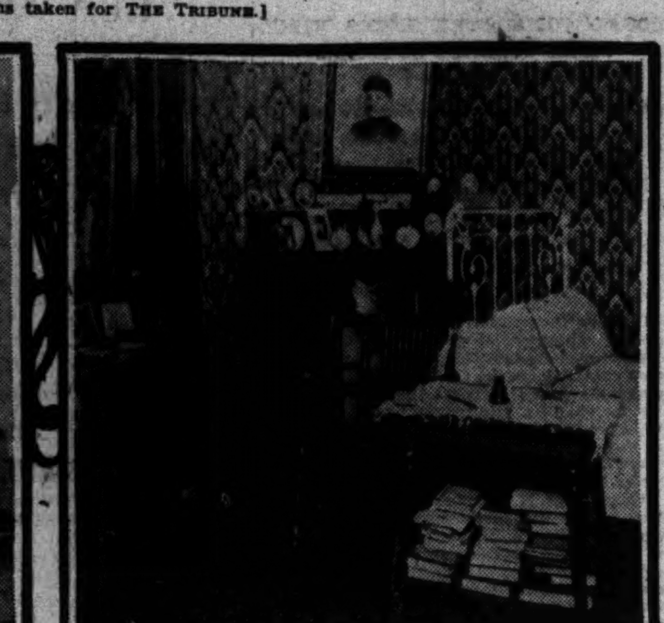

A report that some sticks of dynamite had been left in a house at 295 Washington boulevard by a roomer who disappeared last September after two days in that house caused some excitement among the detectives who were working on the Russell case. It was afterwards explained that the dynamite was left by a young man who is now in Pontiac, and that it was turned over to Inspector John Wheeler, who threw it in the river.

INTERIOR of RUSSELL'S ROOM—WORKSHOP.

In a room on the first floor of the house at 287 Washington boulevard a man giving the name of G. Russell manufactured the infernal machine which was recently found on the docks of the steamship Umbria. Russell rented the room last November, but disappeared after shipping the bomb a few weeks ago.

CLEW TO NARONIC'S FATE.

STEAMER LOST TEN YEARS AGO MAY HAVE BEEN BLOWN UP.

Papers Found in Room Occupied by G. Rosseau, Alleged Umbria Plotter, Contain Mysterious Allusion to This Disaster, Which Has Never Been Accounted For—Recalls Attempt to Destroy Sister Ship Tauric by Fire at Same Time.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—A clew found today by the police while they were tracing the movements of G. Rosseau, who is believed to have sent the infernal machine to the steamship Umbria last Saturday, leads to the suspicion that he may have been responsible for the loss of the steamer Naronic, also of the White Star line, which was mysteriously lost ten years ago.

Henry de Belmont, a boarder in the Currie house at 366 West Thirty-first street, where Rosseau stopped, professes to have found in a closet just outside the second story front room, which Rosseau occupied, the torn fragments of an old French newspaper on the margin of which was written in French bits of disjointed sentences and phrases.

Clippings Tell Story.

When these fragments were pieced together and translated into English they may be made to read as follows: "The destruction of the Naronic was complete. Mr. Lebruin, who made the box, has this moment gone to Chicago."

Mr. De Belmont says he found these fragments of writing in a pile of sweepings, including old newspapers and other rubbish, swept from Rosseau's room after his departure. It is alleged also that the writing upon the margin bears a general resemblance in its principal characteristics to that of the letter of warning sent by Rosseau to Police Commissioner Green the morning when the infernal machine was found on the Cunard line pier.

May Have Used Similar Device.

Should this discovery prove to be genuine it may be shown that the loss of the Naronic may have been caused by a device similar to that sent to the Umbria. At the time it was lost it was the largest freight steamship of the White Star line. No authentic news of its fate was ever heard.

Plot Against Tauric.

A strange discovery on a sister ship, the Tauric, a month after the Naronic's loss first inspired the thought that the latter ship may have been a victim of foul play. Excitement was occasioned in New York ten years ago by the finding of a quantity of large firecrackers in the middle of the Tauric's cargo as it was being unloaded. This discovery was made at the time the world was eager to learn the fate of the Naronic, then three weeks overdue.

The firecrackers found on the Tauric nestled in a large bale of jute, which is extremely inflammable. Agents of the company in England, when notified of the discovery, cabled back that the firecrackers must have found lodgment on the ship after it arrived in New York harbor. No explanation of the matter was ever found.

It was through a clew furnished by Mrs. Currie, the owner of the lodging house where Rosseau staid, that the police have traced the big trunk to Chicago. It was learned the trunk came in on the Wabash route from Chicago on Sunday night and had been checked through from Chicago by the Parmelee Express company.

MORE WATER IN LAKE MICHIGAN.

Government Report Refutes Claim the Drainage Canal Is Hampering Marine Commerce.

Lake seamen who contend that the Chicago drainage canal has lowered Lake Michigan's level will find little comfort in the report of the United States lake survey for April. The government records show an increase in the depth of the lake since the extremely low water of 1896, while the increase since the opening of the drainage canal in January, 1900, has been greater than in the years preceding. April measurements this year showed the water is 4.8 inches higher than a year ago, while the increase since April, 1896, has been twelve inches.

All the great lakes have benefited by increased water during the last year. Gauge records show the lakes to be, in feet, above sea level, as follows: Lake Superior, 601.60; Lake Michigan, 579.89; Lake Huron, 579.74; Lake Erie, 573.14. Since April, 1902, Lake Superior has risen 1.6 inches; Lake Michigan, 4.8 inches; Lake Huron, 2.3 inches; Lake Erie, 18½ inches. The fall from Lake Huron to Lake Erie is fifteen inches less than a year ago.

The beneficent effect of Lake Michigan's high level this year has been felt by Chicago river commerce. Last spring boats drawing seventeen and one-half feet frequently grounded on the Washington street tunnel. There have been no strandings on the tunnels this season.

YALE STUDENTS ARE ARRESTED.

Son of Attorney General Knox Among Several Charged with Assaulting Citizens of Norwalk.

Norwalk, Conn., May 14.—[Special.]—Warrants were issued this afternoon for Hugh S. Knox, son of United States Attorney General P. C. Knox; Walbridge Taft, nephew of Judge Taft, governor of the Philippines; John E. Barney of Cincinnati, and Lawrence White of Lowell, Mass., all students tutoring at Yale college. With Prof. C. A. Harstrom of this city, they are accused of insulting and assaulting John D. Milne, superintendent of the local gas works, late last night as he was on his way home. It is alleged by the police that after some words between Milne and the students they set upon him and knocked him down. The students were held under bonds for trial.

German Fleet Off French Port.

BREST, May 14.—The German squadron commanded by Admiral Prince Henry of Prussia arrived off this port today at the same time that the French northern squadron entered. This was the first visit of German warships to French waters in years. The fleets gave each other the regulation salutes and official visits were exchanged.

BATTLE ON A TROLLEY CAR: CONDUCTOR WHIPS MOTORMAN

Two Men Fight Before Passengers and One of Them Is Seriously Injured—Other Is Arrested.

One armed with a controller bar and the other with a ticket punch, a motorman and conductor on a Halsted street electric car fought each other desperately yesterday morning while the car was in motion.

J. E. Duggan, the motorman, is at his home, 6947 Halsted street, with a broken nose, a bruised face, and a fractured skull, while William Mackey, the conductor, is under arrest at the Englewood police station, charged with assault with intent to kill.

Mackey and Duggan, who have been running car 3542, had been unfriendly for some time, and their fight, which was in view of a number of passengers, was the outgrowth of an old grudge.

The car on which the encounter took place was delayed until a substitute motorman could be secured, and it was nearly half an hour before the blockade was cleared.

Mackey, the victor, weighs only 125 pounds, while his antagonist is over six feet tall and of sturdy build.

FATAL DUEL WITH PISTOLS FOUGHT IN A SMALL ROOM.

Policeman Seeks to Arrest Man in Kansas City and Persons Attracted by Firing Find One Dead, Other Dying.

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—George E. Spencer, a clothing merchant who came here recently from Birmingham, Ala., was shot and killed, and Stephen Flanagan, a policeman, was mortally wounded here today in a pistol duel in a room at 504 West Fourteenth street. Flanagan had gone to the house to arrest Spencer. There were no witnesses and when persons, attracted by the shots, entered the room, Spencer was dead and Flanagan lay unconscious with a wound a few inches below the heart.

By the side of each man was a pistol. A half dozen shots were exchanged. At the hospital it was said Flanagan, who had been shot twice through the chest and once through the abdomen, could not live.

Spencer had been visiting the family of J. Cox, a news agent, and had become so offensive the family moved out and left him in possession. Flanagan sought to arrest him and the killing followed.

URGES "PASSIVE RESISTANCE."

New Head of Nonconformist Party in London Voices His Policy on Education Bill.

LONDON, May 14.—In the City temple at the midday service today the pastor, the Rev. R. J. Campbell, the successor of the late Dr. Parker, announced his adhesion to the "passive resistance" movement against the new education bill.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell, who may be regarded as the head of the nonconformists in this country and as voicing the determination of the nonconformists, said he would pay that portion of the taxes not devoted to sectarian purposes, but said the collector would have to seize his hall clock and other chattels for the balance.

The pastor added he had heard that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain was likely to advocate the imprisonment of those who participated in the "passive resistance" movement, but he believed that if Mr. Chamberlain imprisoned him his days as a colonial secretary would be numbered, as nonconformity represented half of the religious life of England.

MME. CALVE IS SERIOUSLY ILL.

Takes an Overdose of Aconite as a Tonic and Is Unable to Appear in Opera.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]
[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Herald.]

PARIS, May 15, 3 a. m.—When the curtain rose on the "Damnation de Faust" at the Theater de Sarah Bernhardt last evening, the manager addressed the audience, informing them that Mme. Calvé could not appear. It was stated that in order to be able to sing last evening she had taken a dose of aconite as a tonic. Unfortunately she took an overdose and now is in a serious condition.

FINDS MANY RICH VICTIMS.

Two Countesses Among Numerous Women Seeking Husbands Who Are Swindled by Fortune Teller.

DRESDEN, May 14.—A fortune teller named Minna Pauder has been sentenced to eight years' imprisonment for illegal practices. In twenty-three recorded cases the Pauder woman used the name of a fictitious nobleman, alleged to be the heir to considerable estates, as a bait for her customers who desired to marry. It is declared that each one of these twenty-three victims gave the defendant large sums of money. Among the victims are two countesses and one lady of the court; the others all belong to the better families of Dresden.

DYNAMITE UNDER CONSULATES.

Both French and Russian Offices at Salonica Found to Have Been Undermined.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, May 14.—It is reported from Salonica that the French and Russian consulates there have been discovered to be undermined. Large stores of dynamite have been seized.

Bombs Found in Athens.

ATHENS, May 14.—A number of dynamite bombs have been discovered here in the cellar of a Bulgarian shopkeeper. A number of Bulgarians have been arrested in Greece.

Design for Zola Statue.

PARIS, May 14.—The statue to the memory of the late Emile Zola when completed will represent him standing in an attitude of vehement controversy. A symbolic figure of Truth is pointing out his path. This is believed to be suggestive of Zola's course in the Dreyfus affair.

NEGRO ENVOY IN TROUBLE

WAR DEPARTMENT AGENT HAS TO LEAVE MANILA.

T. Thomas Fortune, Special Labor Commissioner to the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands, Becomes Involved in Friend's Quarrel and Is Charged with Resisting Officers of the Law—Health Board to Inoculate 50,000 Chinese Against Plague.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, May 14.—After a difficulty with the local police, T. Thomas Fortune, the negro publisher of New York, appointed last year by the war department as a special commissioner to visit the Hawaiian islands and the Philippines, has left Manila for home. A companion of Mr. Fortune was arrested for a petty offense and Mr. Fortune accompanied him to the police station, where an argument led to a fight, during which the police clubbed Mr. Fortune's secretary and charged Mr. Fortune with resisting officers of the law. Mr. Fortune made counter charges, but later the charges were withdrawn.

The government has suppressed two seditious plays, one in Manila and one at Batangas, capital of the province of that name.

The health board is preparing to inoculate the Chinese colony of Manila with bubonic serum in order to prevent a spread of the plague. It is estimated that there are 50,000 Chinese residents here.

Benito Lagarda, a Filipino member of the Philippine commission, has donated a site in Manila for the general hospital which is being founded under the auspices of Bishop Brent, the bishop of the Episcopal church in the Philippines.

MABINI DIES OF CHOLERA.

Member of Aguinaldo's Cabinet and Once Deported to Guam a Victim of the Plague at Manila.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

MANILA, May 14.—Mabini, the former minister of foreign affairs of the Filipino government, died of cholera at midnight. He was attacked with the disease on Tuesday last.

Since his return from Guam Mabini had lived in seclusion. Captured correspondence of the Rizal province insurgents showed he had been in communication with them, but the letters were not of a seditious nature.

The Filipinos and Americans generally regret the death of Mabini, but there will be no demonstration at his burial on account of the nature of his disease.

Mabini, who was Aguinaldo's chief supporter in the insurrection, was one of the last of the irreconcilables to acknowledge the sovereignty of the United States over the Philippine islands. He was captured on Dec. 10, 1899. Even after he was made a prisoner of war he kept up a correspondence with the insurgents in the field. Maj. Gen. MacArthur, then governor of the Philippines, transported Mabini to the island of Guam, because he defiantly refused amnesty. It was not until Aug. 29, 1902, that Mabini agreed to take the oath of loyalty to the United States. He arrived at Manila from Guam on Feb. 26, 1903, and took the oath of allegiance on board the transport before he was permitted to land. His conduct, from that date, was satisfactory to Gov. Taft.

UNABLE TO FORCE RECIPROCITY.

Packers Doubt Ability of the Government to Require Germany to Stop Meat Discrimination.

Concerning the report from Washington that the agricultural appropriation bill contains a paragraph which empowers the government to stop the importation of adulterated meat foods, the Chicago packers are divided in their opinions.

Arthur Meeker of Armour & Co. says the argument used by Dr. Wiley, the government chemist, that this clause gives the government a club by which it can compel Germany to practice reciprocity in the matter of foodstuffs, is far fetched. He declared the importation of German foods to be insignificant. Other packers also held this opinion.

Secretary Charles W. Baker of the National Live stock exchange said:

"It does not make the matter obligatory on the part of our government officials, but gives them a convenient weapon by which they can induce our friends abroad to take a fairer view of their trade relations with the United States."

A representative of Nelson, Morris & Co. said he did not think our government would resort to any unfair means to bring about a better state of affairs in the foreign meat trade, but he was of opinion the officials ought to be given sufficient authority to prevent an unfriendly discrimination.

GERMANY FIGHTS NEW DISEASE.

Tropical Worm Malady Attacks Twenty Thousand Westphalian Miners and Is Frequently Fatal.

BERLIN, May 14.—The government commission which has been investigating the tropical worm disease which has attacked 20,000 Westphalian miners reports that only those who rarely see the sunlight are afflicted. The disease causes inability to labor and is frequently fatal. The government will employ 150 doctors specially trained to combat the malady. Cleanliness and sunshine are the principal remedies.

TALK OF SMALLER NAVY

SUGGESTION IN PARLIAMENT ENGLAND PROPOSE REDUCTION.

Sir Charles Dilke and Others Express Belief That Plan Is Possible—Secretary of Naval Affairs Arnold-Forster Rejects Idea and Holds Great Britain Must Keep Abreast of Others—Should Be Able to Guarantee Against Defeat.

LONDON, May 14.—The question of the reduction of naval armaments came up again today in the house of commons during a discussion of the estimates. The speakers suggested that the government take the first step in proposing a reduction to other powers.

Sir Charles Dilke, advanced radical, said he thought this might be possible. In view of the improved relations between Great Britain and France, those two nations might talk the matter over and subsequently approach Russia. Even if Germany did not agree to a reduction, the three powers might effect something. It was not necessary for Great Britain to build against the United States. It would be as great a mistake to count upon the United States as an enemy as to count upon her as an active ally, for the United States had always been the great defender of the rights of neutrals.

England Must Be Prepared.

Mr. Arnold-Forster, the admiralty secretary, after having pointed out that it was the duty of the admiralty to deal with facts as they were and not as they may be, said that all the great powers were increasing their maritime preparations, mainly Russia. According to the available figures France and Russia together were now building three more battleships than Great Britain. As the actual force in ships which could be arrayed against Great Britain ought to be the guiding principle, he denied that the admiralty's proposals were in excess of the requirements of the country.

Whether European powers and the power across the Atlantic might come to some agreement in regard to the cessation of armaments was not, however, the question to deal with now. The admiralty's present duty was to give the nation a guarantee against attack, and more important still against defeat by any combination of the powers.

Urges Change in Naval Laws.

Sir Robert Reid, liberal, formerly attorney general, suggested that the government endeavor to obtain an alteration of the laws of naval warfare, making foodstuffs not contraband of war and exempting personal property from capture. Such an agreement, he thought, would withdraw all temptation for foreign nations to build strong navies.

CARNEGIE MEANT NO OFFENSE.

Explains That He Had No Intention of Hurting the Feelings of Cape Breton Regarding Its Iron Industry.

LONDON, May 14.—A dispatch today from Halifax, N. S., quotes Mayor Richardson of Sydney, C. B., as saying that the town council would return Andrew Carnegie's gift of $15,000 for a library in Sydney because of an interview in London with Mr. Carnegie, in which he is alleged to have said that the iron and steel industry of Cape Breton was a "mirage."

Mr. Carnegie said today he was sorry if anything he said had hurt the feelings of his Canadian friends. He did not remember using the word "mirage," as it was wholly inapplicable.

Mr. Carnegie knew they were making steel, or intended to make finished steel, in Nova Scotia. He had no doubt they would succeed. On the other hand, it was ridiculous to compare anything that the million people could do with what could be achieved by the 80,000,000 in the United States, which was making more steel than the rest of the world.

Continuing, Mr. Carnegie said he had the warmest feeling for Canada, and added laughingly: "The best thing I know about Canada is that it is mostly Scotch."

THOMAS PRAISED BY SOUSA.

Bandmaster Says Retirement of Orchestra Leader Would Be Irreparable Loss to American Music.

BERLIN, May 14.—John Philip Sousa, the bandmaster, said today regarding a permanent home for the Thomas orchestra in Chicago:

"It would be an irreparable loss to the culture of America if Thomas were permitted to go into retirement. He is the indisputable leader and pioneer of all that is best in public music in America.

"If allowed to develop itself I am convinced that the natural love for music would soon reach a point in a typical American community like Chicago where it would be possible to have a school of American music.

"I ascribe the failure of Chicago to sustain not only one but perhaps two great orchestral organizations to the fact that as long as the community knows that millionaires' money is at the back of the project it comes to regard its own support as more or less unnecessary. The infrequency of concerts is in my opinion another drawback. Chicago is equipped as no other city on earth is equipped for the maintenance of the highest possible music standards."

JEWS HELP VICTIMS OF RIOTS.

Raise $4,000 in Chicago, Which Will Be Sent Direct to the Sufferers in Russia.

Since the first announcement of the massacre of Jews in Kishineff, Bessarabia, Russia, the Jews of Chicago have raised $4,000, which is to be sent directly to those who lost their homes through the rioting.

Yesterday another letter was received by the Jewish Press and Progress from its correspondent at Kishineff in which further details of the riots were given. Mention was made of a donation of $10,000 for the relief of the suffering by Count Constantinovich, former governor general of the province of Bessarabia. Count Constantinovich is a nephew of the czar, and always has been friendly to the Jews of Bessarabia.

On the day the letter was mailed it was announced by the police that Hersni, who led the peasants in the rioting, had committed suicide by hanging while in jail. Although the city of Kishineff is under martial law, the Jews of the city still fear the rioting may be renewed at any time.

INSURGENT TELLS OF FIGHT.

Gen. Penalosa Says Battle at El Guapo Exhausted Both Armies, but That He Means to Resume Activity.

[Copyright: 1903: By the New York Herald.]

PORT OF SPAIN, May 14.—Gen. Penalosa, who arrived at Trinidad today, reports he left Rolando with 2,400 insurgents at Ciudad Bolivar, where they were compelled to retire owing to lack of ammunition and supplies. He describes the El Guapo battle as being terrible, with over 1,000 casualties, and both armies completely exhausted. Penalosa is to leave on Saturday to rejoin Rolando. He states the insurgents will receive reinforcements and march to central Venezuela in a fortnight.

RUSSIAN AND JEW IN OPEN WARFARE

Race Conflict Brought On by Bitter Rivalry in Trade and Labor Circles.

MORE RIOTING IS FEARED

Hebrews Control Business and Employment in All the Principal Towns.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, May 14.—The desperate economic situation in southwest Russia, between Odessa and the Roumanian frontier, has been brought to a crisis by the recent massacres of Jews, which, it is feared, will be repeated, as the racial and labor conflict in that region remains at a complete deadlock.

The Jews have in the course of years acquired not only control of trade but of employment in all the principal towns. After much street violence against the Jews and scenes of bloodshed, they retaliated by withholding both employment and trade, as well as credit.

A letter received in a Jewish philanthropic center in London today from the leading Jews of Kishineff states that shortly after the recent outrages the presidents of the workmen's guilds, which were organized on the old paternal lines, complained to the governor of Kishineff that the Jews refused to reinstate the workmen. The governor thereupon called the Jews together and told them in a few words that in their own interests they had better reinstate the workmen, which they were averse to doing.

The Jewish authorities in London construe the action of the governor as a direct threat, and they fear that further troubles are imminent.

Details of the Massacre.

The only dispatch concerning the massacre at Kishineff to be printed in the London newspapers today is from the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Telegraph. This dispatch states that the newspapers of St. Petersburg publish horrible details of the massacre. One carpenter had both of his hands sawed off by his own saw. Some women had their eyes gouged out and others were mutilated. Some Jews had their arms pulled asunder from their bodies. Several children were flung out of windows into the streets. Four thousand families are said to be in want.

Authentic accounts from Kishineff received at Jewish centers here describe the slaughter, which, it is stated, continued for nearly a week. On the first day ten persons were killed and eighty injured. The market was destroyed. On the second day the hospitals were filled with the victims. Many others were lying on the streets. The town was without bread and was short of meat. The writer who sent this story says:

"This was not a riot; it was a slaughter. They have killed and robbed the Jews, outraged the women, and pillaged residences in all directions.

Police Do Not Interfere.

"The police and soldiers stand with their hands behind their backs and do not attempt to interfere, beyond telling the mob which are Jewish and which Christian houses. The police also prevented the Jews from helping each other.

"One Jewish carman brought a murdered Jew to the hospital. The carman was carried thither himself twenty minutes later with his skull split open.

"This is only one instance tending to show the careful organization of the affair, which was due principaly to the anti-Semitic newspaper, Bessarabitz. Another evidence of the organization was the fact that many of the participants in the atrocities wore the distinguished red smocks of the soldiers and police and stole whatever they could lay their hands on.

"There were many students among the offenders, including one notorious law student of the name of Somigradeff. Many gentiles protested, but were frightened from active interference. All the big towns of northwest Bessarabia are incensed against the Jews, who fear outbreaks at any time."

The correspondent says fifty persons were killed, 350 were severely and over 1,000 slightly wounded in the massacres.

Toledo Jews May Be Victims.

Toledo, O., May 14.—Because D. Goldstein and Isaac Goodman have not received word from relatives in Kishineff for thirteen days since they should have heard they have given up hope and are almost certain that the absent ones were victims of the massacre. The Toledoeans thus supposed to be lost are the daughter of Mr. Goldstein and her seven children, and the sister of Mr. Goodman and her two daughters.

Says 37,000 Jews Are Expelled.

The Standard this morning publishes a letter from Kieff, European Russia, describing the scenes witnessed there daily which arise from the expulsory edict against the Jews. This edict affects 37,000 persons. The Jews were given six months' grace, but hoping for a respite a majority of them remained in Kieff until the end of this time, when they were obliged to sell their property at ruinous prices and depart hurriedly.

"Hence," concludes the writer of the letter, "the ever increasing emigration, especially to the United States, which the emigrant aid societies represent as a land of promise."

Russian Officials Are Blamed.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, May 14.—The Avanti, a socialist newspaper, prints what is alleged to be an official Russian document stolen from the Russian ministry of the interior by a socialist, through whom it came to the Avanti office. The document purports to be a letter written by M. von Plehwe, Russian minister of the interior, to the governor of Bessarabia, dated March 26, old style. It states that M. von Plehwe had learned that anti-Jewish disorders were likely to occur in Bessarabia and that the governor should try to prevent such disorder by exhortations, without resorting to armed force. The Avanti describes the letter as a command which was entirely responsible for the massacres at Kisheneff.

Refugee Arrives in New York.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—The first Jewish refugee from Kisheneff to reach America and to bring a personal account of the recent massacres of the Jews there arrived in the steerage of the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse, which got in Wednesday from Hamburg. He is Jacob Friedman, a retail glass dealer in Kisheneff, and fled with his wife and children on the second day of the disturbances, after his grandfather had been clubbed to death before his eyes.

On Easter Sunday, Friedman said, he, his wife, and four children, and his grandfather were seated at a holiday dinner when they heard a great turmoil outside.

BENCH WADDELL; WHITE SOX WIN.

Mack's "Rube" Pitcher Has New Toy and Proves Mark for Home Team.

9 TO 3 THE FINAL SCORE.

Dr. White Pitches Effectively Until the Ninth, When He Eases Up.

Chicago made it an even break with the champions from Philadelphia and retained the lead in the American league yesterday in spite of "Rube" Waddell, the weather man, and everything else. The margin by which the White Stockings did it was 9 to 3.

Comiskey tried a new combination, with Manager Callahan at third and Isbell back at his old stand. It may have been that combination which beat Waddell, but "Rube" had been on a fishing excursion along the banks of South Clark street since he won the first game here and had caught somewhere a toy baby elephant, painted red, with large white letters on it, and the new pet took up so much of his time that he forgot all about beating the White Sox out of the lead.

It was evident his mind was wandering in the first inning, when the locals hit him pretty hard. It was a sure thing in the second when he passed Daly, let Tannehill's bunt get past him altogether, and then threw McFarland's bunt clear to the first base bleachers, putting a handicap of three runs on himself at the outset. But when he took the red elephant up to bat with him in the first half of the third inning Connie Mack saw it was no use to expect his star to pitch baseball until he had got tired of the new toy. So he pulled him out of the game and let a youngster from the Connecticut league, named Quinn, finish out the contest. Quinn was a fairly easy proposition, and although they did not improve all their opportunities the White Sox piled up a total of nine runs.

White Holds Visitors Safe.

Dr. White eagerly accepted the chance to pitch against Waddell again and showed that he was a far better pitcher, although not in Waddell's class as a fisher of elephants. He had command of the situation at all times, as in his previous game against exactly the same combination, and with a lot better support than in his previous game he could easily have shut out the Athletics had he cared to do so. In spite of the safe lead of the home team White gave the champions nary a run until the ninth inning, when he quit using curves and let the visitors pound out three runs with the assistance of an excusable fumble by Tannehill.

The new combination on the home infield worked so well that it will doubtless be continued until a better one is found. Isbell at first steadied the whole infield by giving it a bigger mark to throw at, and Callahan not only accepted all chances at third, but continued the batting streak he has developed this year with two doubles and a single in five times up. The batting order was changed because of the absence of Dolan from the game. Hallman, who has shown considerable ability to get to first, was put at the top and Callahan took Billy's place, fourth on the list.

Passing of the Famous "Rube."

With one gone, Jones and Green both whipped out singles off Waddell in the opening round, but "Rube" pulled himself together long enough to retire the side without a run. In the second he passed Daly for a starter. Tannehill bunted toward first and Waddell chased the ball, tried to scoop it with one hand, and failed, but juggled it enough to prevent Murphy getting it. McFarland bunted, too. Waddell picked this one up and hurled it high over Davis' head to the bleachers, letting two runs in and Eddie to third, from where he scored later on Schreck's muff of a throw from Monte Cross, when he ran home on Hallman's slow hit.

Quinn faced the White Sox in the next round and they managed to score one run off him with a pass, a double, and an out at first, which barely missed being a double play. In the fourth, with one out, Hallman was hit in the back. Davis fumbled Jones' grounder. Green doubled and Callahan singled, counting three runs. With White practically invincible, that cinched the game, but the White Sox made a couple more later.

One Charity Inning.

The Athletics got a man to third in each of the first two innings, but failed to score the runs. In the fifth Quinn scratched a double past Hallman, with two out, and Hoffman followed with a single to center, but Jones got it up clean and shot it home in time to kill the run. The visitors died easily thereafter up to the last round, and a shutout seemed inevitable. But Tannehill fumbled a hard chance from Davis at the beginning of the last round. Lave Cross drove out a single and Seybold a double, sending home two runs. Seybold followed with the third tally on the next two outs, but those three runs were about as much as a ton of ice up in Alaska during the month of January. Score:

Notes of the White Sox's Game.

Washington comes today for a series of four games.

It was a little peculiar that every man on the team made one run. Every White Sox made one hit or more, with the exception of McFarland.

Green had apparently recovered from the blow Bender gave him Tuesday. He made a couple of hits, one of which the rough ground in left field turned into a double.

Today will be the first "ladies day" of the season at the south side grounds. On all Fridays during the season women accompanied by escorts will be admitted free.

Tom Loftus' men come here after an even break with the St. Louis Browns and with a bunch of left handed pitchers to spring on the White Sox, who have a dread of that brand of shoots as a rule.

It was so cold and the game was so onesided a couple of bleacherites started a fight down in the front row to warm things up and were hustled outside by the police, thereby losing the last part of the game.

Comiskey is inside the limit of fifteen men, which goes into effect today, as he has exactly that number, including Dolan, who will be carried as a utility man in case Callahan has to jump in and pitch some day.

Callahan's stick work at the present rate he is batting will make up for a lot of weakness in fielding at third base, and Isbell will not only be more at home at first but will strengthen the whole infield by relieving them of all worry over bad throws, so long as the ball goes anywhere in the vicinity of first.

Davis pulled off a "two base steal" in the first inning. He was at first and took a big lead. McFarland snapped the ball down there and Harry broke for second. Isbell didn't see that move, and swung around quickly after catching the throw, expecting to touch Davis. In his surprise he let go the ball, which rolled away, and gave Davis another sack. He died there, however.

Riley Defeats Brunswick.

Riley defeated Brunswick 50 to 37 in Mussey's three cushion tournament last night. Avery and Howe play tonight.

WISCONSIN NINE ON A STRIKE.

Players Refuse to Go to Champaign on Account of Previous Treatment by Illinois Students.

Madison, Wis., May 14.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin baseball team, which was to have left today for Champaign to play the last of a series of three games with the University of Illinois, got together just before train time and decided that in view of the previous treatment by Illinois students they would not play the game there.

The men were obdurate and the appeals of Manager Haumison and Coach Bandelin were unavailing. The players resent the treatment received at Champaign, where they were rotten egged by Illinois students.

COLTS TUMBLE BEFORE JONES.

Errors of Seleeites, However, Aid in Making It Brooklyn's Victory, 4 to 3.

OVERLOOK GOOD CHANCES

Weimer's Weakness in Seventh and Costly Mistakes Cause the Downfall.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Oscar Jones, Hanlon's California slab artist, accomplished the downfall of Selee's Colts this afternoon by the close score of 4 to 3, but Oscar did not do it unassisted, as the Colts themselves lent him a helping hand by refusing to take advantage of opportunities to tally when it would have been easy to do so.

Jake Weimer did not seem to be in his most effective condition today, for he allowed the local men to get nine hits off him, but he managed to keep them well scattered except in the seventh inning, when three hits, one of which was a questionable double to Harley's territory, resulted in two runs.

Errors on the part of the westerners were responsible for the other two runs made by the trolley dodgers. There was more joy in the city of churches and trolleys tonight than there has been for many nights, and Pa Chadwick, the venerable father of the national game, was among the many fans who congratulated Hanlon for his achievement. The old man has been denying himself the pleasure of attending ball games of late because of the poor showing made by the Brooklyn team, but he felt that today would be the turning point and was rewarded for coming.

"It was "Ladies' day" at Washington park, and the rustle of the many gowns may have been the reason for the poor exhibition of ball playing by the Colts, for they missed chances that on other days they have been quick to take advantage of.

Sheckard Started It.

Sheckard scored the first run for Brooklyn in the first inning after two men were out. He singled. Doyle sent a grounder to Evers, who knocked it away from him, and Sheckard and Doyle were safe. Weimer contributed to the error column by throwing wild to catch Doyle off first, and before Chance recovered the ball from the bleachers Sheckard had tallied.

In the fifth inning Theilman was passed to first, went to second on Jones' out, advanced to third on Strang's bunt, and scored when Chance fielded McCreedie's grounder badly to Evers on first base.

Kling scored in the sixth for Chicago. He singled, went down to second on a wild pitch, and took third on Weimer's out. Harley was hit on the back, and Slagle gave King a chance to come home with a long fly to Sheckard.

Doyle and Chance Are Benched.

The seventh inning was full of excitement and before the end of it both Doyle and Chance had been sent to the clubhouse for disputing Emslie's judgment.

Chance walked on four balls. Jones advanced him on a bunt which reached second too late to put Chance out. Tinker bunted past the pitcher and the ball was fielded to Strang in time to get Chance, but Emslie said he was safe. This brought Doyle over from first, but Emslie was not to be coaxed, so ordered Doyle to the bench.

Casey sent a grounder to Flood, which was fielded to Ritter in time to get Chance at the plate, but Husk thought not, and he was sent over to keep Doyle company. Evers and Kling both popped easy flies to Ritter, and the Colts failed to make a run after the bases were full and nobody out.

How Brooklyn Scored.

For Brooklyn, Jones singled, Strang fanned, and McCreedie forced Jones at second and stole second. Sheckard singled, scoring McCreedie, and Ahearn sent a long one into right field, which Harley failed to get. This brought Sheckard home.

Harley made one in the eighth and Tinker scored in the ninth, but Casey and Weimer died on bases for want of a base hit to bring then in, Harley striking out at the critical moment.

LOCAL COMMITTEE SEEKS VISIT FROM COLLEGE GOLFERS.

Effort Is Being Made to Get the Oxford and Cambridge Players and Also a Team from the Metropolitan Association to Meet the Chicago Players —Date for the Women's Championship Is Changed to Sept. 8-12 to Avoid Conflict.

If plans formulated yesterday by the executive committee of the Western Golf association materialize Chicago will be favored with a visit from the Oxford and Cambridge players, who are to visit this country during the summer, and from a team of players from the Metropolitan Golf association. Both of these events would add greatly to the attractiveness of the coming season, and it is hoped both will be consummated.

Through G. H. Windeler of Boston, president of the United States Golf association, who has been the prime mover in the visit of the British players, an invitation will be extended to them to play one or more matches on the leading Chicago courses. The visiting team will be chosen from members of the Oxford and Cambridge Golfing society, which is composed of graduates and undergraduates of the two universities, and will be strong. Representatives of the local clubs are anxious to entertain the college men and give them a sample of western hospitality.

Equally attractive would be a visit of a team from the Metropolitan Golf association, as with the full playing strength of the clubs in and around New York to draw upon the easterners could send out a strong contingent. It is thought a visit of this character would do much to improve the feeling between the two organizations and give the eastern players a better idea of the fine quality of the local courses. The Metropolitan players will be asked to send a team of ten or more players to meet a picked team from the Western Golf association.

A tournament committee consisting of B. F. Cummins, chairman; H. M. Bates, and C. T. Atkinson was appointed to coöperate with the officials of the Euclid, Milwaukee, and Exmoor clubs in the running of the three western championship events. Owing to the fact that the dates selected for the women's championship were the same as chosen by the U. S. G. A. the the national amateur event at Nassau, it was decided to change the former from the week of Aug. 31 to Sept. 8 to 12. These latter dates were given to the Westward Ho club for its open tournament and it will be asked to change them.

CHANDLER EGAN IS WINNER.

Defeats His Cousin Walter in the Semi-Final of Harvard Golf Tournament.

Cambridge, Mass., May 14.—[Special.]—The semi-final round in the Harvard university golf championship played this afternoon on the course of the Oakey Country club at Watertown was productive of some good golf. The contestants were H. Chandler Egan, 1905, and his cousin, Walter E. Egan, 1905, and W. C. Chick, 1905, and P. D. Lamson, 1905. The championship is held at present by H. Chandler Egan, but for some time today it looked as though Cousin Walter would wrest the honor from him. But on the last green victory went to H. Chandler Egan, who put up a magnificent exhibition of putting. The two were strong on the long game, while H. Chandler Egan had a slight advantage in the approaching. Tomorrow afternoon the finals will be played between H. Chandler Egan and W. C. Chick.

Notes of the Golfers.

A ball handicap will be played at the Belmont club tomorrow.

The mixed foursome event scheduled at Glen View yesterday was not played on account of the cold weather.

At the Homewood club today the return golf match between the Universities of Michigan and Chicago will be played. The first game played at Ann Arbor last fall was won by Michigan.

Secretary Congdon yesterday issued notice of the open amateur spring tournament of the Glen View club. Play will begin at 2 o'clock Saturday, May 23. The event will be at eighteen holes, match play, those defeated in the first round being paired for a consolation cup. Finals in both events will be at thirty-six holes. Entries must be made to the sports and pastimes committee at Golf, Ill. Members of the U. S. G. A. or W. G. A. over 25 years of age are eligible to compete.

FORBES KNOCKED OUT IN FIRST.

Clarence Fails to Last One Round Before Tommy Feltz in Their Bout at St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—[Special.]—Before the West End club tonight Tommy Feltz of Savannah, Ga., knocked out Clarence Forbes of Chicago in the first round of what was to have been a twenty round bout.

When the men faced each other it was apparent that business was meant. After some fiddling the fighters clinched. Forbes commenced to play for Feltz's head, while the latter went for Clarence's stomach and with a stiff punch sent the Chicagoan to the floor, face down, where he took the count. As soon as Clarence arose Tommy went after him like a wildcat and with a punch sent him to the ropes. Clarence seemed dazed and covered his face with his hands. Feltz, seizing his' opportunity, landed his right to a point on Forbes' jaw, putting him to sleep.

The curtain raiser was a lively mill between Jack O'Keefe of East St. Louis and Joe Galligan of Chicago. In the sixth round O'Keefe knocked his man senseless. For fully six minutes physicians worked with the defeated gladiator before conscience was restored. O'Keefe and "Young Corbett" have been matched for Tuesday night.

SILER'S GOSSIP OF FIGHTERS.

Gardner Returns from Louisville Without a Mark—Tells of His Victory Over Marvin Hart.

[BY GEORGE SILER.]

George Gardner, without a mark to indicate he had fought twelve hard rounds with tough Marvin Hart at Louisville on Wednesday night, arrived in Chicago last night. Gardner said Hart weighed over 180 pounds, and that he was as rough and as strong a fighter as he had ever gone against.

"I fought him scientifically, and by getting inside of his vicious swings, jabbing him whenever an opening presented and by ripping rights and lefts into his body at close quarters I practically brought him down to my weight. He fought in a rough shod manner, grasping my neck with his left and drawing me toward him to land a right hand upper cut.

"I managed to slip out of the most of the holds, and being much the faster peppered him before he could get away or get set for another wild rush. I beat him just as I expected, and as you can see escaped without a scratch."

Gardner denies the report he is going after Fitzsimmons, but would not be averse to meeting Bob if forced into a match. He received an offer last night from Alec Greggains of the San Francisco Athletic club to fight Fitzsimmons, but did not accept it. George will make Chicago his future home because of its central location.

Tommy Mowatt and Hugh McPadden were matched last night to fight eight rounds at Fond du Lac, Wis., on June 16. The boys will mill at 123 pounds, weigh in at 3 o'clock, and for a side bet of $500.

Mowatt is also negotiating with Bob Gray of Louisville for a twenty round contest with "Kid" Broad.

The quick defeat of Clarence Forbes by Tommy Feltz last night was a surprise to local followers of the sport, as he was considered too scientific to be upset by Feltz so early in the fight. It was the opinion of those acquainted with the fistic merits of the boys that Tommy was exceedingly fortunate in landing a knockout before the contest got under way, as Clarence, it was thought, could not be caught napping fighting a boy so slow as Feltz.

Had Tommy won in any round after the tenth it would have been taken for granted Clarence's hopscotching around the ring slowed him to such an extent he could not avoid Feltz's rushes, but to get knocked out within three minutes was beyond the comprehension of local fight critics. Clarence had been on his good behavior for several months and left Chicago apparently in the best condition possible.

It is presumed Feltz will now go after Clarence's brother, Harry, who defeated Tommy at the America club last fall.

Notes of the Colts.

Chance is the second man put out of the game this year on the Chicago team.

Bob Lowe filled Chance's place on first after the big fellow was shelved, and put up a good game.

Johnnie Dobbs has been signed by Hanlon and will be here tomorrow to play against the Colts.

The Chicago team will leave Friday night for Boston, where they go to play a four game series with the Bean Eaters.

WOOD'S COLTS RUN ONE, TWO.

Texan Captures the Admiral Stakes for Two Year Olds at Worth.

PATSY BROWN THE BEST.

His Stable Companion, Jerry Lynch, Is Allowed to Finish First.

Lavish use of the blue pencil robbed the Admiral stakes, the feature piece at Worth, of much of its interest. Among the withdrawals were Sanctum and E. E. Smather's $8,000 colt Dick Bernard. The former is considered the fastest youngster at the track, and as Dick Bernard's speed qualities have been highly commented upon, the patrons of the track anticipated a royal tilt between the pair. Their absence practically made the event a set up for F. T. Wood's entry, Jerry Lynch and Patsey Brown, and judging from the manner in which this pair finished one, two, and the time, :54⅗, it is doubtful if either of the absentees would have taken their measure. Jerry Lynch, who by sufferance won the race by a nose, has been seen before, but Patsey Brown was a newcomer, and the indications are he is a better youngster than Jerry, as Dominick deliberately pulled him up in the final strides in order to let the stable companion win.

Manshak Fails to Last.

Of the other two which contested for the $1,200 prize, Manshak proved the most troublesome to Jerry and Patsey, as they were compelled to do their prettiest to outfoot him in the run through the stretch.

Henry got Manshak away nicely and in the first half furlong had him leading by a half dozen lengths. His lead and speed were so great the trio behind him did not appear to have a lookin. He backed up quite a bit rounding the turn, but was still a half length to the good at the stretch turn. In the run in he succumbed to Wood's pair, which at the last sixteenth had the race between them. Patsey Brown had the greater speed, and twenty yards out was winning, but Dominick yanked him hard enough to permit Jerry's nose to reach the line first. The time was one-fifth of a second better than the track record hung up by Milkirk on the seventh day of the meeting.

Autumn Leaves in Fine Fettle.

The handicap, at six furlongs, saw the defeat of Burnie Bunton by the speedy mare Autumn Leaves. Newman's mare was installed favorite, but the smart money went in on Autumn Leaves, which at her last time out was practically left at the post, and after being fully twenty lengths out of it finished in the first cluster. Burnie, as is her wont when not stacked up against such a good one as Golden Rule, set the pace and showed the way into the stretch by a length, a lead which bespoke a winner. Once in a direct line to the wire Robbins began to work on Autumn Leaves, and as the mare was in rare fettle she easily overcame Bunton's lead and won by a length. Uranium was an easy third.

Felix Bard, cocked and primed for a killing, was easily taken into camp by Lingo in the mile dash, second on the program. They opened practically equal favorites, but Felix Bard was forced into favoritism, while Lingo's price from 6 to 5 gradually ascended to 2 to 1. Felix set the pace, but when the crucial test came Lingo was the best and took down the persimmons. Felix was second and Hindi ran third.

G. C. Bennett's colt Forehand, who is far from barrier wise, got away fairly well and beat out the favorite, J. W. O'Neill, in the colt event.

The long distance race at one and one-quarter miles went to Rolling Boer. Prince Webb made the running, and but for being interfered with by Barrack would have finished second.

Notes of the Worth Track.

Jockey L. Jackson will probably be seen in the saddle today.

Jim Murphy, the well known bookmaker, arrived from St. Louis yesterday.

D. S. Fountain arrived from the coast with his horses, among thm Epicure, the crack 3 year old.

Fullback was played to win the last race as though it was all over, but he failed to get inside of the money.

Jockey Coburn, who was thrown by Abe Frank on Monday, was unable to ride, and this was assigned as the cause of Sanctum's absence in the Admiral stakes. Coburn will, he says, ride Little Scout in the Powers handicap tomorrow.

S. C. Hildreth deplores the fact he cannot start Witful in the Derby, as he bet $1,100 to win $39,000 on the filly.

Tom Maybin, Durnell & Herz's Derby candidate, made his local start as a 3 year old in the handicap and finished fifth.

STAKE RACE TO J. P. MAYBERRY.

Ellison's Entry Wins Bashford Manor at Louisville, with Copperfield Second and Paris Third.

Louisville, Ky., May 14.—The Bashford Manor stakes for 2 year old colts and geldings, at four and a half furlongs, and the feature event on the program at Churchill Downs this afternoon, was won by C. R. Ellison's J. P. Mayberry by a length from Copperfield, with Paris third. The question of which is the better colt still remains unsettled, for just after the start Batts stumbled and fell and caused Copperfield to lose his stride. He was never able to overtake the winner. Weather perfect; track fast. Summaries:

First race, ⅝ mile—Taipa, 105 pounds [Helgerson], 3½ to 1, won; Toah, 113 [Winkfield], 7 to 5, second; Bummer II., 20 to 1, third. Time, 1:14¾. Ravenroost, Skillful, Springwater, Travers, Two Lick, and Belle Mahone also ran.

Second race, ½ mile—John Coulter, 104 pounds [Helgerson], 2½ to 1, won; Magi, 110 [McInerny], 25 to 1, second; Dr. Hart, 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:29¼. Shogun, Chickadee, Brookston, Reflect, Presgrave, Jake Greenberg, and Prism also ran.

Third race, 11-16 mile—Premus, 110 pounds [Romanelli], 3 to 1, won; Sortic, 107 [J. Reiff], 8 to 1, second; Harlem Lane, even, third. Time, 1:09¼. Buckley, Rococo, Miss Chapman, Gleam Light, Pat My Boy, Rosy M., and Thimble also ran.

Fourth race, Bashford Manor stake, value $1,840, 9-16 miles—J. P. Mayberry, 118 pounds [H. Booker], 7 to 1, won; Copperfield, 113 [J. Reiff], 2 to 1, second; Paris, 2 to 1, third. Time, :55. Talhouet, Proceeds, and Walnut Hill also ran. Batts lost his rider.

Fifth race, steeplechase, short course—Altona, 135 pounds [C. Brown], 6 to 1, won; Helen Paxton, 137 [Hayes], 8 to 1, second; Daryl, 4 to 1, third. Time, 2:53. Allegiance, Sauber, Indian II., and Dagmar also ran.

Sixth race, 1 mile and 20 yards—Lou Woods, 104 pounds [H. Booker], 3 to 5, won; Choice, 108 [Winkfield], 10 to 1, second; Tom Kingsley, 5 to 1, third. Time, 1:43¼. King Tatius, Handcuff, and Lutes Fonso also ran.

Low Prices at Cleveland Sale.

Cleveland, O., May 14.—Fifty-nine horses were sold at the Fasig-Tipton blue ribbon sale this afternoon. The prices realized were low, the greater number of sales being under $300. The only sale that brought more than $750 was that of the team Murray and Mack, bay geldings, 1897 and 1898, by Bobbie Wilkes—first dam by Winnie R., by Cadmus' Hambletonian, to W. Long, Pittsburg, Pa., $1,050.

Ship Drake's Stable to Chicago.

Nashville, Tenn., May 14.—[Special.]—Enoch Wishard, trainer for John A. Drake, shipped the big racing stable to Chicago tonight from Cumberland park, where the horses have been located since last fall. The stable will open its campaign at Hawthorne. Savable, favorite for the American Derby, is in grand shape, as are the other horses. The stable will return to Nashville next fall to winter.

Jockey Barry Has Slight Chance.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Lawrence Barry, the steeplechase jockey who was thrown in the Knickerbocker hurdle handicap at Morris park on Wednesday, is still unconscious at the Fordham hospital. Dr. Jackson Campbell, who has charge of the case, said, while Barry is suffering from a compound fracture of the skull, there is a slight chance of his recovery.

C. A. A. AGAIN IN THE A. A. U.

Local Organization Readmitted to Membership in the Governing Athletic Body.

The Chicago Athletic association was admitted to membership in the Amateur Athletic union at a special meeting of the board of directors in the Central association A. A. U. last night at the Palmer house.

The local association was a member of the Amateur Athletic union for several years, but on Jan. 31, 1901, was suspended from membership as the result of complications arising over the suspension by the A. A. U of members of the C. A. A. football team. On Jan. 5, 1901, the suspension against the C. A. A. was lifted, but the organization refused to return to affiliation with the governing body in amateur athletics, and for some time there was considerable feeling over the matter. In the meantime the local club abandoned many of its athletic features. Gradually, however, the old differences with the A. A. U. were forgotten, and recently it was reported that the C. A. A. thought of again taking a more active part in athletics. This was confirmed by the formal application of the club for membership in the A. A. U., the application being made by J. F. Turrill, the chairman of the athletic committee.

The Milwaukee Athletic club was also admitted to membership last night.

McGrew to Stroke Harvard Crew.

Cambridge, Mass., May 14.—[Special.]—The question of stroke for the Harvard varsity crew was probably definitely decided this afternoon, when Capt. D. D. L. McGrew of Chicago went back to that position. He has been rowing at No. 4 for several weeks, Dillingham being tried out in the stern of the shell. The latter was transferred to the second boat today, and F. W. C. Foster, who has been smashing the Harvard strength records at frequent intervals, was put in at No. 4, where he rowed all last season. Capt. McGrew stroked last year's eight, and he is regarded as the best man in the university for the position.

Brill Leads the Bowlers.

Brill led in the loop tournament series, rolled last night at Mussey's alleys. Scores: Brill, 960; Luedke, 924; Wood, 922; Berlin, 829; Brunner, 878; Waller, 856.

Michigan Men on the Hospital List.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 14.—[Special.]—The Michigan baseball team is suffering from players on the hospital list. Campbell has caught the measles, Roche has a felon on his hand, and Karsten is not well yet.

Hoover Quits at Notre Dame.

Notre Dame, Ind., May 14.—[Special.]—Capt. Hoover has disagreed with the manager and has severed his baseball connections at Notre Dame.

Northwestern and Purdue Tomorrow.

Northwestern university and Purdue university will meet on the track at Sheppard field tomorrow afternoon.

MEXICAN BLEEDS IN A TRIAL SPIN.

Bursts Blood Vessel in Nose During Final Work for the Withers.

BLUES SHOWS GOOD FORM.

Farrell's Horse Wins First Start of Season—Pointed for Big Handicap.

[BY T. J. GALLAGHER.]

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Mexican's admirers and backers were shocked this morning when he bled in what was known to be his final workout for the Withers. He and his stable companion, Carbuncle, started to work a mile together, but after going a half in :50 the colt was eased back and the old gelding finished the journey alone.

When Mexican stopped he was bleeding. Tom Healy, his trainer, summoned a veterinary, who said the trouble was not likely to be serious, as it was apparently the result of the bursting of a small blood vessel in the left nostril. Nevertheless, the prevailing opinion at Morris park was the speedy son of Mirthful would not be a starter in the Withers on Saturday, and would probably be thrown out of training.

Five favorites and a second choice won today at Morris park. Two of the favorites, the celebrated Blues and the 2 year old Minotaur, carried the colors of Frank Farrell to victory. It was the first appearance for Blues this season, and he created a most favorable impression. According to Farrell the horse is being pointed for the Brooklyn handicap.

The crowd could see nothing else than Blues in the third race, and made him a favorite at 11 to 10. From the first moment the barrier was sprung there was no doubt about Blues' superiority, for he ran away from the others easily, opened up a gap of eight lengths rounding the turn, and won pulled up by four lengths in the fast time of 1:20⅘, half a second slower than Chuctanunda's track record.

Minotaur was favorite in the Vanneat selling stakes at six and a half furlongs. Minotaur broke first, and, attended by Forward, made the running to the head of the stretch. Then Forward stopped, and Minotaur looked as if he would win easily until Ingold came up with a rush and compelled Fuller to drive Farrell's colt to the wire, where he won by a head.

John W. Schorr arrived here today to look after his horses now quartered at Sheepshead bay in charge of George Walker.

STAGG'S MEN TO GET TRIMMED.

Chicago Track Men Leave for Ann Arbor Where Michigan Seems Sure of Winning.

The University of Chicago track team will leave this morning for Ann Arbor, where tomorrow afternoon will occur the dual meet between Chicago and Michigan. Contrary to his usual custom of having the men stop over night at Jackson, the site of the state prison, Coach Stagg will have them put up tonight at Battle Creek. Some of the varsity fans are wondering if there is any particular significance in this.

Michigan looks to have the better chance for a victory in tomorrow's contest. Since Maddock has worked off his condition, he is good for three firsts in the weights, and one or two of Michigan's strong men are not far behind him. Two places in the high jump belong to Michigan, Miller and Brewer being away ahead of Ferriss and Sullivan. Rebstock's :51⅘ in the quarter is better than anything that Taylor or Buckwalter has done yet this year. One of the hurdles ought to go to Stewart, Catlin taking the other.

In the distance runs, Michigan's star relay team runners will compete, and if Hall wins either the mile or the two mile it will be about all Chicago can count on. Cahill stands a good chance of winning in the half against Perry and Hall, and the Chicago men are confident that Blair can beat out Hahn in the dashes. The pole vault will be a close contest between Dvorak and Magee. Friend and Stewart are pretty well matched in the broad jump.

SCHOOL LADS TO LEAVE TODAY.

Local Athletes Ready for the State Track Meet to Be Held at Champaign.

The local delegation of high school students to the state high school track meet, which will be held at Champaign tomorrow, will leave this morning at 7:55 over the Illinois Central. Thirty-four athletes, representing eight of the local schools, and nearly 100 rooters will compose the local force, with Prof. Harry Keeler of Englewood, an old Illini baseball player, in charge.

The high school lads will arrive in Champaign in time to get lodgings and see the track meet between Illinois and Wisconsin this afternoon. The interscholastic will start tomorrow at 9:30 and last until early afternoon. The local lads expect to uphold their reputation and again carry off the honors at the state event. Hyde Park hopes to win the meet, but expects a hard fight from the down state schools, which have been doing strong work this spring. The makeup of the local teams follows:

Englewood—Morris, Workman, Levison, Badenock, Woodsworth, Briggs, Maddigan, Moran.
Hyde Park—Eckersall, Comstock, Abbott, Brunjes, Barker.
South Division—Bremner, Froom, Anderson, Olson, Peck.
Oak Park—Hulbert, Templeton, Shipley, Hannage.
North Division—Steffens, Hagerup, Rennacker.
English High—Neilson, Mackay, Jacobs, Graham.
Evanston—Barker, Jamieson, Carter, Dudley.
Chicago Manual—Follansbee.

Midway Athletic Notes.

The University of Chicago "medics" will play the first interdepartment game with the "laws" tomorrow morning at 10:15 on Marshall field.

While the varsity teams of the two colleges are playing at Champaign tomorrow afternoon, the freshman team of the University of Chicago and the freshman team from Illinois will play on Marshall field. The Chicago freshmen held a mass meeting yesterday morning to arouse class enthusiasm.

COTTON PRICES TELL OF FIGHT.

Battle of D. J. Sully and William P. Brown of New Orleans Grows Warm.

LOSE SHARE OF PROFITS.

Employes of Iron Works Strike and Co-operative System Is Abolished by Company.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, May 14.

It was another big day on the New York cotton exchange today, sales running up to 750,000 bales, and prices had a broad swing, although the fluctuations were not so wide as on Wednesday. At the opening July was 10.95 to 10.99 cents, and August 10.643 to 10.67 cents, a rise of 11 points on July and 14 on August. This was due to local covering, southern buying, and also to buying orders attributed to William P. Brown of New Orleans.

Cotton Exchange Has Another Big Day's Trading.

On the rise, however, Daniel J. Sully and the room operators, as well as the commission houses, were sellers, which caused a break to 11.80 cents for July and 10.50 cents for August.

Receipts at ports and interior towns continued large, while a certain sentimental effect was created by the announcement that 200 bales had arrived from the Bremen market, which has a stock of 300,000 bales.

On the decline buying orders appeared from New Orleans, and this stampeded the room traders, who had gone short, and prices easily rallied, ultimately reaching 11 cents for July and 10.76 cents for August. In the last half hour Sully sold some 20,000 bales of July, part of it at as high as 11 cents, and then offered the market down, offering 15,000 bales of July at 10.98 cents.

At this time Brown put in supporting orders and took 25,000 bales of July at around the top figures, buying 8,000 bales in one block. In spite of selling by Sully and the local element generally, the market wound up at near the top figures for the day, 10.97 cents for July and 10.70 cents for August. Sully denied that there has been any private settlement with the July shorts.

President Temple Gwathmey of the cotton exchange said there was no truth whatever in the report that a cotton firm is in trouble and had made a private settlement with the July shorts.

A report was current today that George W. Vanderbilt contemplates taking up his residence abroad, and desires to rent his residence in this city. Any such decision by Mr. Vanderbilt seems to have been of recent origin, since he spent a large sum within the last few months making extensive alterations in his Fifth avenue mansion.

All employés of the Hecla iron works in Williamsburg have been locked out indefinitely as a result of a strike among a number of the men. A co-operative system by which the employés have shared in the profits in proportion to the length of service and wages has also been abolished. It is said by the officials of the company that the employés have always been satisfied with the pay and hours, but walking delegates are making discord, by urging them to make unreasonable demands.

Co-operative Plan Brought to an End by Strike.

About a year ago many of the employés demanded a Saturday half holiday. The officials compromised by giving the men a 5 per cent increase in wages. Recently the demand was repeated by a number of machinists, who demanded also a fifty hour a week work schedule, the finishers to be paid at the rate of 36 cents an hour and the helpers 25 cents an hour. The company refused, and the strike was begun last Friday.

Nils Poulson, the president of the company, said: "The men cannot belong to the company and go on a strike at the same time. For that reason we have shut down our works and abolished the coöperative profit sharing system."

Announcement of the engagement of Dandridge Spotswood, head of the brokerage firm of Spotswood & Co. of this city, to Baroness Katherine von Wolf of Munich, Bavaria, was made public today after the secret had been carefully guarded for six months.

Of the gravest import alike to every business man in the country who employs others and to hundreds of thousands of union workingmen is a meeting to be held in the rooms of the Building Trades' association tomorrow night. Those employers of the various branches of the building trades who have set on foot a movement to form an organization of business men, which may become national in its scope, declare that should this action be taken they will be enabled to resist the innumerable petty annoyances to which they have been subjected by the unions. Admitting that the differences do not hinge on the question of wages or hours of labor, they assert they must in other matters conduct their affairs to please themselves. Failing this, many intimate they may be forced to retire from business until the workingmen appreciate they have gone too far.

To Fight Unions with National Association.

The national board of steam navigation has declared war on the marine engineers, who have gone on a strike, and has taken steps to prosecute them for violations of the law and to secure the revocation of their licenses in every port affected by the strike. The board will employ special counsel in every port in the United States where strike conditions prevail among the engineers, to prosecute every illegal action on the part of engineers.

The selling pressure in the iron market and the hesitation of buyers to take pig iron has resulted in a further decline in prices quoted in New York of 25 cents a ton. The decline within a week has been $1 a ton.

Quite a commotion attended the sailing of Mrs. Charles T. Yerkes, wife of the traction magnate, on the First Bismarck today. Mrs. Yerkes, who apparently was quite helpless, after much effort and by the assistance of her husband and several friends, succeeded in getting out of her carriage. Leaning heavily on a stout cane and supported by her husband and a young woman companion, Mrs. Yerkes attempted to get up the gangway. The effort cost her so much pain that she finally had to give it up, the plank being at too steep a pitch. She was conducted to a side gangway on the level of a lower deck and by that means boarded the vessel. Mr. Yerkes, when asked what ailed his wife, laughed the matter off, saying she suffered from a slight strain. He refused to give any details. It was said, however, that Mrs. Yerkes was injured in a runaway ten days ago, while another version was that she slipped on a marble staircase at her home and hurt her knee.

Mrs. Yerkes Has to Be Assisted to Board Liner.

Mrs. Richard Croker was driving through Central park today when her horse took fright and bolted. Mrs. Croker clung to the seat of the swaying vehicle until the horse was stopped by a mounted policeman.

Following the trial of an action for divorce brought against Edwin H. Tucker, an insurance agent of Brooklyn, Tucker, has brought counter-charges against his wife, and at the same time instituted a suit against William Dudley of Brooklyn, a wealthy manufacturer, whom he charges with having alienated his wife's affections. He asks $75,000 damages from Dudley, who is reputed to be a millionaire. The husband says Dudley took Mrs. Tucker to the Thousand islands last summer, and that they registered at an Alexandria bay hotel as father and daughter. He charges further that she was guilty of indiscretion with Dudley. Dudley gave Mrs. Tucker expensive presents.

Brings Counter Suit for Divorce.

All the branch houses of the western packers simultaneously this week advanced all their prices. This means an extra squeeze for the retailer, who is forced to recuperate his losses by an advance in prices to the consumer.

The secretary of the treasury sent the following telegram to the commissioner of immigration in this city today: "You will issue to the women inspectors of immigrants the following notice: 'Your name not appearing on the eligible list of the civil service commission, you cannot be reemployed without executive order. No such order having been made and your term of service having expired under your temporary appointment said services are hereby discontinued.'"

Women Immigrant Inspectors Discharged.

New charges were made today against George Edward Mills, counsel for Dr. R. C. Flower, who is on trial before Judge Fitzgerald in the criminal branch of the Supreme court, having been indicted for attempted bribery. Detective Sergt. Brindley, who was on the witness stand most of the day, testified that Mills had suggested to him they might compel the husband of Mrs. Rebecca Richman to pay $10,000 or $15,000, which they could divide. Brindley said Mills had told him he was counsel for Mrs. Hagaman de la Barre and it would be an easy matter for him to persuade her to drop the prosecution of Mrs. Richman, who had been charged by Mrs. Hagaman de la Barre with the theft of a necklace worth $50,000.

New Charges Against Dr. Flower's Counsel.

Mayor Low has stopped the preaching of mormonism in the streets of the city. All permits formerly issued to Mormon elders to preach in the streets have been revoked and no more will be issued. Several months ago a number of Mormons came to the city and obtained such permits. The elders were not known as Mormons when they obtained the permits, but a short time ago some one complained to the mayor against the preaching of mormonism in the streets. An investigation was made and the permits revoked.

Stops Street Preaching by Mormons.

The increasing cost of labor and material has added the Lehigh Valley railroad to the long list of roads that have abandoned improvement and new construction work until conditions become normal again. Orders to this effect have been issued by President E. B. Thomas of the Lehigh. The decision is a sweeping one, and includes the abandonment of all work which is not positively essential or which does not promise an immediate return.

Another Railroad Abandons Improvements.

ILLINOIS EDITORS IN SESSION.

State Press Association Meets at Cairo, Ill., and Listens to Address by Dr. J. F. Snyder.

Cairo, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—The Illinois Press association closed its annual session here today. The opening address was made by Dr. J. F. Snyder of the Illinois State Historical society on the "Relation of the Public Press to the Historical Society." A short discussion of the points brought out in Dr. Snyder's paper by Thomas Rees of the Springfield Register followed. Officers were elected as follows:

President—Charles M. Bradshaw, Patriot, Carrollton.

First vice president—J. C. Coulson, La Harper, La Harpe.

Second vice president—Eugene L. Hale, Herald, Milford.

Third vice president—Bessie M. Turner, the Citizen, Cairo.

Secretary—J. M. Page, Democrat, Jerseyville.

Treasurer—W. T. Bedford, Tribune, La Salle.

KILLED TRYING TO STOP HOLDUP

Arthur Meade of Muscatine, Ia., Goes to Rescue of Restaurant Keepers and Is Shot.

Muscatine, Ia., May 14.—An attempt to hold up Thomas McCarthy's restaurant at West Liberty early this morning resulted in the death of Arthur Meade, who attempted to assist the proprietor. When the robbers, numbering two, entered, McCarthy and his partner were compelled to hold up their hands. Meade attempted to come to their assistance and was shot and instantly killed.

Idaho Stage Is Held Up.

Boise, Idaho, May 14.—The stage running from Idaho City to Boise was held up today by a lone highwayman near the halfway house. Three passengers were robbed of all their valuables and the baggage and registered mail ripped open and rifled. It is not known how much was secured.

Rob Saloon at Helper, Utah.

Helper, Utah, May 14.—Four men entered Rooney's saloon early this morning and held up the proprietor and a number of men in the place. William Rooney, a boilermaker, was shot and slightly injured. Two thousand dollars was secured.

ACCUSED OF ASKING BRIBE.

George J. Raymond, a Boston Merchant, Names Senator Who, He Says, Approached Him.

Boston, Mass., May 14.—The charges of corruption which originally appeared in an advertisement published in a local paper over the signature of George J. Raymond, a Boston merchant, and directed against a then unnamed member of the Massacusetts senate, were repeated at the statehouse today when, before a special committee, Mr. Raymond publicly accused Senator Foster of Gloucester of having approached him with an offer to "see through" certain legislation upon the receipt of $1,000. Other witnesses will be heard.

TRAINMEN ON WAY TO DENVER.

Delegates to Brotherhood Convention Meet Here and Leave on a Special for West Tonight.

Several hundred delegates to the sixth biennial convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, which will meet in Denver Monday next, will be in Chicago today. Nearly 100 arrived here yesterday and took rooms at the Sherman house. Among those in the city are Grand Master P. H. Morrissey, Vice Grand Master T. R. Dodge, Vice Grand Master Val. Fitzpatrick, and A. E. King, Master Val. Fitzpatrick, and A. E. King, grand secretary and treasurer. They will leave for Denver with the rest of the delegates by special train over the Burlington road this evening.

WOODMEN DISCUSS NEW LAWS.

Meeting of Order in Milwaukee Devotes Most of Day to Going Over Constitution—Women's Branch Elects.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 14.—The Woodmen of the World spent today in discussing amendments to the constitution. The most important of these was one relating to monuments for departed members. It was decided to place jurisdiction over the erection of monuments with the monument committee. Supreme Guardian Mrs. Emma B. Manchester and Supreme Clerk Mrs. J. J. Kuhn and the other officers of the Woodmen Circle, auxiliary to the Woodmen of the World, were reelected. The auxiliary now has on hand $70,000.

Foresters Elect Officers.

Streator, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—Delegates to the state convention of Foresters of America concluded their business today by electing the following officers: Grand chief ranger, Byers Milner of Braidwood; grand subchief ranger, R. M. Stricklin of Murphysboro; grand treasurer, John Nicholas of Coal City; grand financial secretary, W. E. Jefferson of Streator; grand recording secretary, T. R. Jones of Pontiac.

PRESIDENT AGAIN IS MADE A LL. D.

Benjamin Ide Wheeler, for California University, Confers Degree Upon Him.

NAVY YARD IS INSPECTED

Roosevelt Concludes His Visit to San Francisco and Starts for Yosemite.

San Francisco, Cal., May 14.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt this morning took part in the dedication of the monument to the heroes of Manila, and then hurried to Berkeley, where the degree of doctor of laws was conferred upon him by the University of California. After the ceremonies there a trip was made to Oakland and the Mare Island navy yards. The day was ended here with a banquet at the University club, after which the president started for the Yosemite valley.

In perfect California weather President Roosevelt participated in the dedication of the monument erected in Union square in commemoration of the victory of the American navy at Manila. The monument consists of a high shaft of white California granite, surmounted by a bronze figure of Victory, holding in one outstretched hand a wreath and in the other a trident.

The president was escorted from the hotel to the square by all of the marines of the warships in the harbor. On the stand from which he spoke were the officers of the warships in San Francisco bay and vicinity, and the officers of the cruiser Grafton, the flagship of the British Pacific squadron.

In a few words Chairman James G. Phelan presented the monument to the city of San Francisco, and it was as briefly accepted by Mayor Schmitz on behalf of the municipality.

Glory in Manila Victory.

President Roosevelt said San Francisco should glory in commemorating the navy's victory at Manila, as it had opened the Pacific ocean to American commerce and more than any other event had contributed to give the United States a high place among the naval powers. He dwelt on the necessity of preparing ships, armament, and men for the navy. Naval battles are fought in advance and the Americans won at Manila because they had made ready to strike the blow. The necessity of improving the navy was first made apparent in 1882, and all of the warships the navy now has were built since that time. Since the last war the naval strength of the United States has rapidly been increasing and under the wise provisions of the last congress has particularly advanced.

He urged practical work at sea, particularly in marksmanship, saying:

"Remember that the shots that count in war are the ones that hit."

The president was then driven to the United States transport dock, whence the party proceeded to Berkeley.

Attends Berkeley Commencement.

The citizens of Berkeley united with the members of the faculty and students of the University of California in the welcome to the president. Long before the hour set for arrival of the special train the school children of the city, gayly festooned with flowers, assembled on either side of the street leading to the university entrance.

The president drove to the new amphitheater at the university, where the commencement exercises were held. He wore a hood and gown, in conformity with the degree of doctor of philosophy.

The program had been timed so that the presidential party arrived just before the conferring of degrees by Gov. Pardee to the members of the graduating class.

After the cheers which greeted the appearance of the president had subsided the rulers of the student body greeted the head of the nation with the Harvard yell. He gave approval by nods and smiles. President Benjamin Ide Wheeler then conferred degrees upon the 400 collegians who sat upon the stage with cap and gown.

President Receives Degree.

The president was introduced by President Wheeler, who simply said:

"Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States." Then as the chief executive, attired in a black academic robe trimmed with purple, stepped into the sunlight, President Wheeler said: "Theodore Roosevelt, by authority of the regents of the University of California, I confer upon you the degree of doctor of laws. This is the highest honor the state knows how to confer on you. Its best it gives gladly."

President Roosevelt then addressed the assemblage, eulogizing the state, its people, and the university, speaking in affectionate terms of his old time friend, President Wheeler.

At the close of the exercises the president left for Oakland, where he was driven through the principal streets, accompanied by Gov. Pardee, Senator Perkins, and the reception committee. In front of the high school the president delivered a short address.

After inspecting the navy yard the president assisted in laying the corner stone of the Y. M. C. A. auxiliary at Vallejo.

SEEKS HER HUSBAND AND SON.

Mrs. Leo Pelz Appeals to the Police and Threatens to Secure Warrant for Missing Man.

Mrs. Leo Pelz, who lives at Rees and Halsted streets, is looking for her husband and their 4 year old son, Leo Jr. The husband is a contractor. A week ago they had a quarrel, and Mrs. Pelz carried off the boy to the residence of her sister, Mrs. Herman Mutter, 106 Burling street.

On Tuesday Mrs. Pelz went to the Probate court on business concerning her mother's will, and Pelz seized the opportunity to call at the Mutter house and take the child away.

Since then the mother has been searching high and low for the missing ones. Last night she went to East Chicago avenue station, seeking a warrant for kidnaping. She was told to call again today.

MANN WATCHES THE RECOUNT.

Congressman Takes Notes at Lorimer-Durborow Contest Which He May Use in Washington.

Congressman James R. Mann, a probable member of the new congressional committee on elections, was present yesterday at the recount of ballots in the Durborow-Lorimer contest in the Sixth district. His purpose, he said, was to gain an idea of the manner of the recount, on which he may be called to pronounce later in Washington. Lorimer lost six votes during the day, leaving his plurality at 1,004 over A. C. Durborow, a net gain for Lorimer of nineteen votes to date. There remain twenty-six precincts to be counted.

OBITUARY.

WALTER J. DORE, Chicago, will be buried this morning from St. James' Roman Catholic church. Twenty-ninth street and Wabash avenue, where services will be held at 10 o'clock. Mr. Dore was stricken with pneumonia on Sunday and died on Wednesday. He was a member of the Chicago stock exchange, of the Washington Park, Midlothian, and Chicago Athletic clubs. Mr. Dore resided at 2730 Prairie avenue and is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary J. Dore, and three sisters, Mrs. Harry Olcott, Miss Clara and Miss Marian Dore.

LOUIS BLEYER of Milwaukee died there yesterday, aged 66 years. He was the first man to establish a lake marine department in a newspaper. It was through his exhaustive reports of the loss of life and property on the lakes that Prof. J. A. Lapham took up the movement in behalf of a weather signal bureau and successfully carried the matter through congress.

For the ten months ending April 30 the balance of trade shows a falling off of $225,278,238 as compared with the same period in 1901, and there is even a decrease of $76,630,806 as compared with last year. This is not due to any falling off in our foreign trade. On the contrary, the exports for the last ten months were $33,583,276 larger than for the preceding period. The sharp decline in the balance of trade is caused by the enormous advance in imports, which for the ten months were $110,204,082 greater than for the same period of the last fiscal year.

Red McGregor, a highly educated Spanish rooster, by crowing too much last night subjected his owner to a fine of $10 in a police court here today. McGregor had been trained to perform a number of unusual tricks and will crow vociferously whenever a finger is pointed at him. The rooster was produced in court today and was put through his stunt from a chair in the witness box to the great amusement of the spectators. The complaint against McGregor was that he crowed all night and that the sleep of those in the vicinity suffered. James Cole, the owner of the bird, did not want the rooster killed, and McGregor was brought to court to show what an unusual intellect he possessed. After hearing the evidence Judge Kimball remarked McGregor must have imagined during the still watches of the night that some one was pointing a finger at him and fined Mr. Cole $10. But he did not order the destruction of the trained rooster and the owner went away happy with Red McGregor under his arm.

All the society people in Washington frolicked at the country fair held on the lawn surrounding the old naval observatory this afternoon, and diplomats, both young and old, navy officers, army officers, and society men generally paid high for the pleasure of buying hemstitched handkerchiefs from Miss Roosevelt, who was a clerk in the country store, or drinking a cup of milk fresh from a tired looking old cow which stood in the midst of fashion, looking on in bewilderment, from the fair hands of a dozen fashionable milk maids. Capt. Cowles sold the chances on a silver loving cup, while Mrs. Cowles and Signora Mayor des Planches, the wife of the Italian ambassador, sold tea.

There were gay striped canopy tents with a bevy of beautifully dressed women under each, while dotted over the lawn and shaded by the great trees were dozens of little tables where refreshments were served. The broad walk running beside the ancient structure served as a midway, upon which was located the country store, presided over by Mrs. Ward Thoron as head saleswoman and general manager, with Miss Roosevelt, Mrs. Westinghouse, Miss Horstmann, and society girls as clerks. Next came the postoffice, which was located at one corner of the country store, with Miss Boardman as postmistress, clad in a checked gingham frock, red wool shawl and genuine "ole time" sunbonnet. Belles and beaus willingly paid at the rate of 50 cents apiece for mysterious letters, "just for the fun of it."

Miss Roosevelt looked pretty and fragile in a simple gown of white linen, made with a long box plaited coat, belted in, a large white hat, and a big bow of illusion under her chin. Dozens of letters were addressed to her. Beyond the postoffice was a great ice cream booth, presided over by Miss Wilson, daughter of the secretary of agriculture. Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Miss Gwynn, and Mrs. Corbin sold candy and Miss Patten and Miss Leiter, in a pink French lawn frock, embroidered in white, disposed of cakes and confections at trust prices.

Probably the greatest hit of the fair was a tintype gallery, presided over by Miss Frances Benjamin Johnson, who was assisted by one of the young diplomats, who stood outside to "drive away trade," as he put it, and who constantly cried: "It is better to be taken on tin than to be taken in." Here the Italian and French ambassadors, a number of foreign ministers, Mrs. Cortelyou, the wife of the secretary of commerce, and dozens of notables "looked pleasant" for pictures.

Countess Cassini wandered about the lawn in a picturesque white gown and a picture hat, with a large basket filled with flowers hanging from her shoulders by a ribbon, and reaped a rich harvest for the junior republic. Miss May was another flower girl who attracted lots of trade and admiration. Hugh Legare made a great deal of fun and money with his "hit the nigger in the head for 5 cents" show, while the shooting gallery next to him did a thriving business. Vincent Walsh had an attractive show of freaks under a generous tent and made much fun. One of the finest hits of the fair was a Washington belle, who, "blacked up" and wearing a regular "ole Virginny" costume, sold guesses upon her own identity for $1 each. When the fair closed she alone had the secret.

Matt Quay thinks Grover Cleveland would make a good run before the people, but would stand but a poor chance for the nomination.

"If Cleveland wants to win a democratic nomination," said the Pennsylvania boss, "he must not appear too eager or even in the light of a receptive candidate. It would be better, I think, if he should say positively he is not a candidate and then if he is wanted for a third term it would develop in the convention. It seems to me the relations of the two factions of the democratic party have been too strained for one to win who is looked upon as the leader of one of the radical wings, that is, if he engages in a fight for the nomination. It must come to him on a silver platter if he is to get it at all."

CITIZEN WANTS MILES' REPORT.

Herbert Welsh of Philadelphia Complains to War Department That He Has Been Unable to Get It.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—Secretary Root and a number of other officials in the war department today received a circular letter from Herbert Welsh of Philadelphia in reference to the report of Gen. Miles. Mr. Welsh desires that letters be addressed to the president, Secretary Root, Gen. Corbin, Judge Advocate Gen. Davis, Assistant Adjt. Gen. Hall, and Assistant Adjt. Gen. Ennis, asking them to publish the full report of Gen. Miles regarding affairs in the Philippine islands.

He suggests that they "especially request that the report of Maj. Hunter into the facts of the whipping of Filipino prisoners of war for the purpose of extracting information from them" be included in the publication. He says he has been unable to secure Gen. Miles' report from the war department, but believes it contains information that citizens should have.

In Gen. Miles' report on the alleged cruelties was also a criticism of the rice transaction in the reconcentrado camp in Batangas province. Gen. Miles in discussing this matter refers to a report he had received from the commanding general in the Philippines. This copy was not furnished with the report of Gen. Miles, and it has been charged that it was suppressed. The war department today made the copy referred to public. The main features were covered in summaries which have been published heretofore.

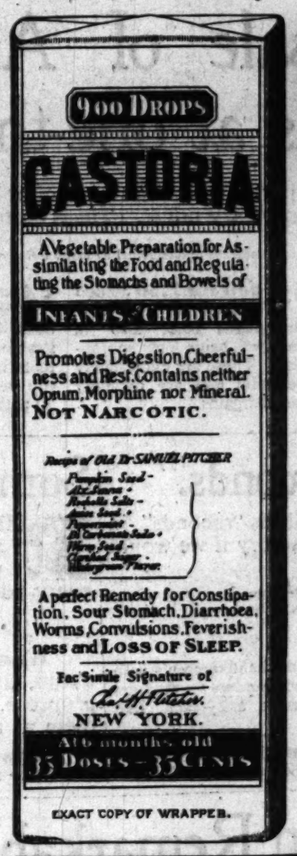

Police Chiefs End Convention.

New Orleans, La., May 14.—At the convention of chiefs of police today the convention donated $25 to the confederate reunion fund. The following officers were elected: President, Richard Sylvester, Washington, D. C.; vice president, Frank J. Casseday, Elmira, N. Y.; secretary, Harvey O. Carr, Detroit. St. Louis was selected for the next place of meeting.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves, but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and "Just-as-good" are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

Sale of handkerchief "seconds."

A BELFAST manufacturer wanted to dispose of all his "seconds" in one lot, and was willing to make the price satisfactory if we would take them off his hands at once.

The inspectors at the factory where these handkerchiefs were made were so critical that they rejected many that would usually be classed as firsts; in fact, in all of this purchase the defects are very slight, merely dropped stitches, or equally trivial matters, that do not injure them for practical use.

Women's fine all linen hand embroidered unlaundered handkerchiefs, 20c values, 11c.

Women's handkerchiefs with sheer linen or cambric centers, hemstitched borders with hand embroidering—no two alike—50c and 75c values—each, 23c and 27c.

Women's fine lace handkerchiefs with corded or rever stitched borders—they are worth double the prices we ask—each, 15c and 12½c.

500 dozen women's fine lace trimmed handkerchiefs—regular 50c values for 23c.

Summer gloves that give satisfaction.

THE gloves that won't rip or wear through the first time or two they are worn are the only kind that are satisfactory. The "Kayser" patent double tipped silk gloves are the best fabric glove made—every pair is guaranteed by the maker.

We are showing a complete line of "Kayser" gloves at popular prices, as well as a large showing of white kid gloves for summer.

Women's imported white kid gloves, made with two pretty pearl clasps, embroidered on the backs with black, tan, red, lavender, pink and primrose. These are very handsome, stylish gloves, and we are offering them at an unusually low price, 75c.

Radical reductions on Wilton rugs.

YESTERDAY'S announcement of the fact that we had reduced prices on Wilton rugs met with a remarkable response. Well-informed rug buyers recognized its bargain import and were eager to make early selections.

The stock of Wilton rugs subjected to these reductions is the largest in the city and the patterns and colorings are very choice—many of them exclusive to Mandel's.

$20—6x9 Wilton rugs, 17.50.
$30—8.3x10.6 Wilton rugs, $26.
$35—9x12 Wilton rugs, $30.
42.50—9x14 Wilton rugs, 37.50.
$45—10.6x12 Wilton rugs, $40.
52.50—10.6x13.6 Wilton rugs, $45.
$60—11.3x15 Wilton rugs, $50.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Weather today: fair. Store closes at 5:30.

Straightforward statements of fact, substantiated by the merchandise we sell, are the magnets that draw custom Mandelward. We want to do more than gain patrons—we want to deserve them. Simply to fill our aisles day by day with an ever-changing crowd would not be success. To have patrons come back again and again because they are satisfied that nowhere else can they find their wants so correctly anticipated and their interests so carefully safeguarded—this is worth while. Mistakes, of course, sometimes occur, as is inevitable in the conduct of business in which thousands of people are employed, but we right them promptly whenever they are brought to our attention. Ideals sometimes fail of realization, for we make no claim to being a perfect institution, but the purpose of this store—to sell nothing but good merchandise, to sell it at the lowest possible price, to treat all patrons alike, and all with fairness, to serve the public in the best way possible today, and learn how to serve it better tomorrow—remains firm, and is the key to the notable prestige we enjoy.

Economy basement bargains.

This great salesroom is the most satisfactory place in the city for the purchase of inexpensive merchandise. Quality, as well as low price, is strongly insisted upon and you can place absolute dependence upon any article bought here. We mention a few of the many bargains arranged for convenient selection in the basement today.

Crex mattings, 38c.

Basement.

The Crex grass mattings are without a doubt the most satisfactory and serviceable floor covering of the kind yet produced—strictly sanitary, always fresh and clean—we show an excellent line of patterns at the special price of, yard, 38c.

Silk waist patterns, $2.

One of the season's most popular dress materials—a beautiful light-weight, soft finish woolen fabric greatly in demand this year for fancy suits, as well as dresses, wrappers, etc.—100 pieces in this lot, 27 inches wide, yard, 29c.

35c perfumes, 10c.

Basement.

Another large shipment of those fine French perfumes just received, and offered today at a mere fraction of their value—a handsome assortment of leading odors that have never before sold for less than 35c per bottle, now 10c.

Embroideries, 4c.

Basement.

They're manufacturers' trial strips, but just as good for all practical purposes as though bought off the piece; and, then, the prices are only about half the regular, and the patterns are the very best—choice embroideries at 7c and 4c yard.

Sample belts, 25c.

Basement.

The manufacturer had no further use for them, so turned them over to us at about one-third their real worth—a large showing of the season's most approved ideas in white and black silk belts; also shoestring belts—50c to $1 values, 25c.

Summer corsets, 18c.

Basement.

A price that will certainly create great activity in our basement corset section today if great values count for anything—fine summer net corsets in medium and long lengths—good shapes, that will give genuine satisfaction—choice, 18c.

Women's suits, $10.

Basement.

Economical women will eagerly grasp this opportunity to procure a handsome, well-made suit at a positive saving of one-third—blouse suits made of cheviot and etamine—stylishly made and trimmed—regular $15 suits, today for $10.

Trunk for 4.50.

Basement.

If you're going to need a trunk this summer you can't do better than invest at this extremely moderate price—a full 28-inch size trunk, canvas covered and fitted with all the latest and best equipments—a bargain at double this price—4.50.

Men's $14 suits, 6.95.

Basement.

Suits that for good, general wear would be cheap at the original price—but they're broken lines, so must go, even at a loss—men's fine business suits that have sold as high as $14—to close today at the extraordinary price of 6.95.

Corset covers, 6c.

Basement.

Long or short corset covers, full French effects with round necks, prettily trimmed with laces, ribbons and beadings—also high and low plain covers—all generously made in women's sizes—rare values at 25c, 19c, and 6c.

Boys' suits, $2.

Basement.

An opportunity you can't afford to overlook—today you choose from 700 boys' all-wool sailor and double-breasted suits, in 3 to 16 year sizes—cassimeres, cheviots and tweeds that have sold at $3, $4 and $5, for $2.

Umbrellas for 95c.

Basement.

When you can get good, durable umbrellas for this price it's about time to invest, for you're bound to need them some day. Men's and women's umbrellas made of pure dye taffeta, 95c.

Negligee shirts, 55c.

Basement.

An offering in up-to-date negligee shirts that ought to interest every Chicago man who wears this comfortable garment during the warm months—new and nobby designs today at the exceptionally low price of, per shirt, 55c.

Children's hats, 75c.

Basement.

Hats that have been designed by skilled milliners, trimmed in the very latest styles with ribbons and streamers—made of rough-and-ready straw—just the hats that will please the little girls—values up to 1.25—choice for 75c.

DEATHS.

MACHINISTS—WE HAVE PLACES FOR A number of good machinists for all grades of work at full pay and in a shop with appointments and surroundings first class in every particular. We run our shop 54 hours per week, and our men have always been satisfied with their pay, surroundings, and treatment.

A number of our men quit work a short time ago under the following circumstances: We were among the first to adopt the 54 hour week in Chicago, and at the time the shorter hours were put into effect we submitted the arrangement of hours to a vote of our employes. Almost unanimously they voted for a division of the 54 hour week which provided for a Saturday half holiday. A vote was taken a second time last fall with the same result. Upon a recent demand by the Machinists' union that we run the shop nine hours each day, we offered to take a vote again and abide the preference of the majority of our men. This vote was taken and resulted in a majority favoring the Saturday half holiday. A number of our employes then quit work, although expressing themselves as entirely satisfied with their jobs. Our shop is an open shop, not discriminating for or against union or nonunion men. Apply to H. W. CALDWELL & SON COMPANY, 17th and Western-av.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.

GREAT REDUCTIONS IN PIANOS!

Over 600 pianos, including Steinway, Knabe, Mason & Hamlin, Miller, Hazelton, Krakauer, Fischer, and other great makes are exhibited side by side in Lyon & Healy's warerooms. All these different pianos are distinguished by some special features. The workmanship in each is of a superior character and every one of these pianos is of a design approved by the highest standard of public taste.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENTS THIS WEEK. We offer great inducements this week in new pianos, of modern styles, sweet tones, first class action, and fully guaranteed. Look at the instruments marked with a white tag. This signifies recent cut in price of $50 or more. There are nearly 100 of these pianos and you can form no idea of the values without a visit of inspection.

In addition to the foregoing we offer scores of bargains in used pianos. Note these:
Sohmer upright, neat case, $125.
Collard upright, very small, mahogany, $90.
Adam Schaaf upright, large, $85.
Newcombe upright, very old style, $75.
Chickering upright, rosewood, $175.
Sterling upright, oak, carved panels, $190.
Everett upright, mahogany, little used, $[illegible].
Huntington upright, rented short time, $165.
Ivers & Pond upright, nearly new, $200.
Large size Fischer, burled walnut, $225.
Knabe ebony upright, largest size, $325.
3 Steinway uprights, cabinet grands, very low.
Shoninger upright, rosewood, $165.
Large Knabe upright, rosewood case, $250.
Knabe upright, walnut case, good as new, $[illegible].
Chickering upright, in good condition, $[illegible].
New England upright, neat model, $110.
And many others.

EASY PAYMENTS—These pianos may be secured from us on very easy terms. No advance in price when paid by installments.

Buyers at a distance should write for special bargain list, and also our schedule of freight rates on pianos. We ship pianos everywhere. LYON & HEALY, Wabash-av. and Adams-st. The business of Lyon & Healy largely exceeds in volume and value that of any other musical establishment in either Europe or America.

VOSE PIANOS. The standard of piano excellence.

There is a marked difference in pianos—more of a difference between Vose pianos and other pianos than you imagine. Everything about a Vose piano is solid—substantial—enduring.

Take the carving on a Vose piano for example—it's all done by hand—out of solid wood—the kind of wood of which the case is made—it's all genuine hand carved, hand polished hardwood—no stamped or pressed designs—no soft woods stained to imitate the genuine.

And notwithstanding the fact that Vose pianos are today the standard of excellence in piano manufacture, they are not expensive pianos. There is hardly a home that cannot afford to have a piano of any kind that cannot afford to buy a Vose—for Vose value is not measured by the Vose price. Selling direct from the factory to your home reduces the cost and increases the value you get.

ONE HUNDRED SECOND HAND UPRIGHTS. Chickering, Vose, Emerson, Bauer, Ludwig, Howard, Capen, Gabler, Colby, and other standard makes—slightly shop worn—finish perfect—can't be told from new pianos—some slightly used—some exchanged—some returned from rental—tone and action perfect—every one guaranteed for five years—your choice at almost your own price and on practically your own terms—they simply must be sold, and sold now, to make room for new stock—$75, $90, $110, $125, $145. VOSE & SONS PIANO CO., 246 Wabash-av., Chicago.

PIANO POPULARITY— KIMBALL PIANOS are used and praised by hundreds of the master musicians of today, and the KIMBALL INSTRUMENTS, bought by 30,000 PEOPLE EVERY YEAR, are thus given foremost place by popular choice. By reason of this demand they are made in such numbers that the purchaser pays only the smallest cost.

In buying a KIMBALL you deal only with the maker and save the jobbers' and retailers' profits.

300 PIANOS—in tone, form, and construction the finest of the piano builder's art—are shown at our warerooms.

EASTERN MADE PIANOS, new and used, including "Hallet & Davis," "Fischer," "Emerson," "Steinway," "Baxter," "Whitney," and many others.

THE KIMBALL PIANO PLAYER, with fingers which have unlimited command over the keyboard, plays any tune on any piano. Purchase price includes FINE MUSICAL LIBRARY and library privileges not offered elsewhere.

Cash or easy payments.

JOLIET MAYOR FORCES FIGHT.

Makes Ten Appointments to Office and Insists They Shall Act Despite What Council May Do.

Joliet, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—Ten appointments were given out by Mayor Crolius today, and these he insists will continue to hold office despite any action the aldermen may take. These places are in the fire and water departments and city collector's office, the old appointees for these places having decided to quit. The mayor denied that he contemplated any change in his appointees, and declared that he would take it as a personal affront if any of those he had slated for positions should withdraw.

BANK WRECKER FOUND GUILTY.

THEATERS AND SUBSIDIES.

There is plenty of talk about new Chicago theaters, but in all the haze of projects and ambitions there is as yet no sign of that one far off divine event toward which in the opinion of many theatergoers the dramatic history of Chicago should move. There is no sign of the appearance of a stock company, where the traditions of the Comédie Française of Paris and the Burg theater of Vienna show themselves in the subordination of the players to the play, in a frequent change of bill, in the assignment of minor rôles to competent actors who have perhaps played major rôles during the previous week, and in a broadly intelligent attempt to give the patrons of the house by means of carefully selected plays a comprehensive view of the whole scope of dramatic literature.

Such a theater, of course, is an educational as well as a recreational institution. There is one reason to hope, however, that we shall not have such a theater in Chicago till we are able to make it a success in the business sense of the word. What stock companies we now have in town are not on the exceptionally high esthetic level of the Irving Place theater company, but they correspond to an actual valid demand on the part of certain sections of the public. They are not imposed on the public by people who think they know what the public ought to have. They are not exotics. They are native plants, with their roots deep down in the appreciation of their patrons. They pay, just as Shakspeare's theater paid when he first presented his plays in London.

Contrast this position with that of the endowed or subsidized theater for which we are all inclined occasionally to long. The subsidized theater does not have to depend for its success on that best ultimate judge of things, the people. It passes into the hands of some small coterie of men representing the judicious. Now, the judicious are excellent conservers of the achievements of the past. So far as producing new things is concerned they are notoriously sterile. If the greatest writers of the present day are studied it will be found that they got their training under other hands than those of the judicious. They are most of them rebels, foreigners, and interlopers. They have had to fight their way from literary outlawry to literary respectability. Their readers will be the judicious of the next generation and will in their turn discountenance the young unterrified who do violence to traditions, conventions, and canons of criticism.

It would be most desirable, therefore, if when Chicago gets its big stock company the venture should be based on popular favor rather than on subsidization, which is a little bit too much like galvanization. Of course, if we can't have the stock company without the subsidies we shall be willing to allow the subsidies to be paid. Not every good thing can be expected to be ninety-nine and three-fourths per cent pure.

"IMPROVE YOUR SERVICE."

The people who use the lines of the Union Traction company have been asking its officers for some years to put on more cable and electric cars during the rush hours. The officers have always replied that it was altogether out of the question. Judge Grosscup asked the same question a few days ago, and the officers, being subject to his jurisdiction, did not dare to give him the answer they gave the public. They told him that by economizing in a few directions they will be able to put on during the rush hours six more cable trains and twenty-five more trolley cars. The public will get a little relief from overcrowding and will feel grateful to Judge Grosscup for it. There will be no gratitude to the officers of the company, who have been convicted of telling untruths. The extra cars could have been put in service long ago if the company had not been unwilling to pay the wages of the men needed to run them.

One of the economies to be introduced is "the stoppage of free transportation except as regards policemen and firemen, who have the right by ordinance to ride free. The reform should have been made before this. One would like to know who are the persons besides aldermen who have been getting free transportation and about how many nickels they have been receiving from the company. The expense of free transportation given favored individuals is assigned by the officers of the company as one reason why Chicagoans who do pay have been given inferior service. This is an excellent illustration of the evils of the "deadhead" system. It is a system which the paying public should require all street and steam railroads to give up.

Judge Grosscup's orders to the officers of the Union Traction company are:

> Improve your service at once. Don't store any cars away in the barns while they can be earning money for the company and at the same time put the public in a better mood.

The officers have admitted that they can do a little to improve the service. If they are pushed they will admit that more can be done. Perhaps Judge Grosscup has traveled a little on the lines of the Union Traction company. If not, he should do so, and learn thereby that many improvements in service will be needed to put the public in a better mood.

THE NEW FINANCIAL BILL.

President Roosevelt said at San Francisco on Tuesday that in his judgment the next congress should take up and dispose of the pressing questions relating to banking and currency. Last week Senators Aldrich, Allison, and Spooner, all members of the finance committee, had a conference at the Virginia Hot Springs, at which they agreed on the main features of a financial measure to be considered by the next congress. It is understood that it will contain some of the provisions of the Aldrich bill, notably the one allowing other than United States bonds to be used as security for deposits of government funds.

It is said that it has not been decided yet whether the banks shall be asked to pay interest on deposits. If they are not there will be a popular protest. If they are asked to pay interest, the Chicago banks may make the same unreasonable objections they did last February. No bill requiring the banks to pay interest on government deposits will compel them to accept such deposits. No secretary of the treasury will force upon a reluctant Chicago bank one or more millions of government funds.

It is because a bank is not obliged to accept deposits that the attitude of the Chicago bankers was so unreasonable. Evidently they did not wish to pay interest on government deposits nor to permit other banks to do so. Other bankers were willing to do it, and their Chicago colleagues should have done nothing to deprive them of the opportunity. The Chicago bankers saw in the Aldrich bill only a proposition to make them pay the government 1½ per cent, or $27,750, on deposits of $1,850,000, on which they had been paying nothing, although they had been receiving from the customers to whom they loaned the money about $69,000.

If the Chicago banks object next winter to the payment of interest on government deposits they must assign another reason than the unprofitableness of deposits accepted on such terms. Surely they will not venture again to submit the figures of some blundering subordinate showing a loss. Congress will decline to believe that a bank which has $100,000 of government funds, secured by a deposit of $100,000 in 3½ per cent railroad bonds selling at par, or of 4 per cent bonds realizing 3½ per cent, will be a loser if it pay the government $1,500 a year for the use of its money. The bank loans the $100,000 to its customers at 5 per cent and makes $3,500. If it were to charge 5½ per cent, as it does sometimes, it would make a net profit of $4,000.

As the price of money advances, that of securities diminishes. Gilt edged 3½ per cent 100 year railroad gold bonds, which sold for 110 a year ago last January, are a trifle below par now. It ought to be apparent to the subtle intellect of a Chicago banker that it will not be a losing business to buy such bonds, deposit them with the government, and loan at 5 per cent the funds guaranteed by the deposit. Often it would be unnecessary for a bank to buy bonds to guarantee government deposits. It is the frequent custom of banks when there is no commercial demand for all their loanable funds to buy securities with them, so the money may earn something. The last statement of the condition of the esteemed First National shows that it had among its assets stocks, bonds, and mortgages scheduled at $7,000,000. Among the bonds there must have been some municipal or railroad securities which under the Aldrich bill would be satisfactory security for a deposit of government funds. How could the bank lose by depositing such bonds, even though it paid 1½ per cent on the government funds intrusted to it, which it would loan at 5 or 5½ per cent?

The First National has asserted that if it had to pay 1½ per cent interest on the $1,000,000 of government funds it now holds it will be obliged to relinquish the money. That will mean a small decrease of the profits of the bank, but apparently it can stand the decrease. It is prosperous. Last week its shares advanced seven points to nearly 400. But even if a clumsy juggler with figures pretends to show that it will be unable to use government deposits at a profit under the provisions of the Aldrich bill, why should that bank and other Chicago banks say that no bank in another city shall be allowed to avail itself of the provisions of the Aldrich bill if it desire to do so? "Banking is a trade, and only a trade." Apparently the Chicago bankers assume that they alone understand the trade, and that congress must enact no legislation affecting the trade which they do not approve of. Their objections to the Aldrich bill are unreasonable. Even if they should surrender the $1,800,000 of government deposits which they now hold, there are other banks in the west which would gladly accept ten times that amount under the provisions of the Aldrich bill. Besides there are banks in the east holding $60,000,000 of government money which are satisfied with the bill.

A COLD FAREWELL.

The Glass Industry (as Polonius)—I will most humbly take my leave of you.

The State of Illinois (as Hamlet)—You cannot take from me anything that I will more willingly part withal.

This is the situation resulting from the passage of the child labor bill. The glass industry says that it simply won't stay in Illinois unless children are allowed to work at night. Illinois has been obliged, therefore, to make a choice between this child eating ogre and the preservation of the moral and physical strength of its boys and girls. It has concluded to let the child eating ogre go. Children are not to work at night in Illinois hereafter.

But the new law has other merits besides its prohibition of night work. These merits are: First, it provides for a better system of registering children who have reached the age of 14 and who want to go to work; second, it reduces from 10 to 8 the number of hours of labor per day allowed to children who are more than 14 and less than 16 years of age.

By virtue of this second provision Illinois is now able to say that in at least one point its child labor laws are superior to those of any other state. In Massachusetts, which has been for years the star child labor reform state, children may still work ten hours a day and fifty-eight hours a week. In New York, under the new and improved law, they may work nine hours a day and fifty-four hours a week. Illinois alone has reached the radical position of eight hours a day and forty-eight hours a week.

We have reason to be pleased, therefore, with the child labor reform work of the recent legislature. Meanwhile other states have not been idle. Even Pennsylvania has provided that children shall not work in the breakers till they are 14, or under ground till they are 16. New York has passed five child labor bills, one of which regulates the work of newsboys. Southern states, long backwards and even retrogressive, have roused themselves. Alabama, Arkansas, North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas, and Virginia have passed child labor laws of varying degrees of adequacy.

These facts show that, as child labor is a national problem, child labor reform has become a national movement. The only parts of the United States which now have no restriction on the age at which children may begin to work are Delaware, the District of Columbia, Georgia, Arizona, New Mexico, Oklahoma, and Nevada. Child eating ogres will soon find that when they are poked out of one lair they will have to travel far before they reach another.

COMMERCIAL EXPANSION.

The chief executive speaks at different times for the party, the administration, or the people. It was as a national spokesman that he addressed the San Francisco audience on Tuesday, when he discussed the future of the Pacific. He did not say anything specially new, but he gave apt expression to the national sentiment for expansion.

Geographically the United States is so situated that it can be, commercially and politically, the controlling power in the Pacific. It rests with the nation to avail itself of its opportunities. It would be useless for President Roosevelt to ask for ships, or congress to build them to protect trade, if there were to be none to protect between the Pacific slope and the orient. When the president asserts his confidence that that trade is to come he utters a national belief. It would be fruitless to dominate the Pacific politically if the United States were not commercially superior to Russia or Japan, or any power which has an interest in the trade of the Pacific. Commercial superiority lies in furnishing the best goods at the lowest price. When Americans do that they will be masters of the trade of the countries which front on the Pacific provided the ports of those countries are not closed to them. That, of course, must be guarded against. It is to American manufacturers and merchants that one must look for the commercial conquest of the Pacific.

RULE OR RUIN.

Lorimer plans to elect republican judges by stirring up the democratic wards and leaving the republican wards alone. He does not trust the rank and file republicans—those who work for their living at something else than politics—to vote straight tickets on judicial elections. Which shows at least that he respects their intelligence. The men he is afraid will be scratched in republican wards are the ones he particularly wishes to see elected. It will hurt his prestige if they don't run well, for they are generally recognized as his candidates.

A heavy vote in republican wards will mean that all the other republican nominees will run ahead of Lorimer's protégés. A light republican vote might permit "the organization," through trading, to boost Lorimer's men ahead of the rest of the ticket.

There are half a dozen excellent candidates on the republican ticket who have a good chance for election if the independent vote comes out. Lorimer would rather keep the independent vote in at the expense of those half dozen men, trade his particular candidates ahead of the rest of the ticket, and take the small chance of getting some of his candidates through. At all events, if his men ran ahead of the ticket, even though defeated, his prestige would not suffer.

PUBLICITY may be an excellent thing, but it doesn't seem to be the cure for strikes.

IN spite of the mandate of the board of education Johnny will celebrate the fourth of July this year by shooting a few of his spare fingers off and putting out one or two of his eyes, substantially as usual.

THE HON. BIGBILL DEVERY hates to take the office of mayor of New York, but he is tired of the strain of holding back his admirers.

THE pace at which Champion Jim Jeffries is traveling now will land him at the head of a school of physical instruction before long.

THERE are some persons so peculiarly constituted as to be unable to see any reason for going into a display head and double leaded state of mind over the alleged probability that the bomb intended for the Umbria was made in Chicago.

AS TO the Hon. Bill Joel Stone, he need not be considered any longer in the list of presidential plausibilities.

JAPAN is speaking softly and carrying a big gun loaded for bear.

NOW THAT a Chicago pedant has discovered that the bard of Avon was a cheap punster, a murderer of the king's English, and as poor a speller as some of the university students of the present day, perhaps the followers of Ignatius Donnelly will quit trying to prove that Lord Bacon wrote those stupid, witless productions commonly known as the plays of Shakspeare.

DR. HILLIS might be pardoned for writing those lines entitled, "To Hades on a Brooklyn Car," if there was no other way of working off his indignation, but his giving them out for publication was inexcusable.

ALL that can be predicated of Mr. Yerkes with any certainty is that there will be something doing when he comes back to Chicago.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Almost Driven to It.

"Have you noticed that Mrs. Higginspike spends a good deal of time at her club these days?"

"Yes, but how can you blame her, when you remember what a poor stick her husband is?"

Chance of a Lifetime.

"Stop, you scoundrel! Stand where you are! Move a muscle and I'll put a hole through you!"

The burglar, surprised in the act, stood still.

"Hold up your hands!" further commanded the stern voice that spoke to him out of the darkness.

He complied.

"Now I am going to disarm you. Remember, I've got you covered with a 44-caliber revolver, and I know how to shoot."

In a few moments the intruder, relieved of a pair of shooting irons, a knife, and a slungshot, was permitted to lower his hands.

"Do as I tell you, now, no more and no less," was the next command. "Reach your hand out for that watch on the bureau, as you were doing when I caught you at it. But don't you touch it. There! Stand perfectly still till I tell you to move. . . . That will do, and I have secured an excellent flashlight picture of a burglar in action—something I have been trying to get for the last ten years. I'll not detain you any longer. You can go out the way you came. Good-by."

One.

"What is a penitentiary offense?"

"Sassin' the warden."

The Distinction.

"I don't see what right you have to turn up your antennæ at me," said the clam. "I am as good as you are."

"I deny it," said the lobster. "Anybody can be a clam, but in order to be a lobster one has to be born a lobster."

LETTER OF MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

Copyright: 1903: By the Marquise de Fontenoy.

IN view of the serious reports concerning the sanitary condition of Holyrood palace—reports of so grave a character as to cause Lord Leven, the high commissioner, to announce that under no circumstances would he give his customary receptions, banquets, and levees at the palace this year, but that they would take place instead at the Station hotel—it was certainly a courageous thing of King Edward and Queen Alexandra to hold a court at the palace in question on Tuesday last, the first function of the kind to be held there by a British sovereign since that of King George IV. more than eighty years ago.

It was all the more plucky on the part of the king, as he is far from being a well man. He has never been quite the same since his operation last year, and it has not escaped attention that throughout his recent European tour he never once showed himself on horseback at any of the reviews of troops held in his honor at Gibraltar, Malta, Rome, and Paris. At Malta he had a small rostrum with a balustrade erected for him, on which he stood alone in the center of the parade ground to review the troops and the naval brigade, and at Rome, whereas King Victor Emmanuel and all the Italian princes were mounted, King Edward remained in the carriage with Queen Helena. At Paris, too, he drove in a carriage instead of riding on horseback at the Vincennes review, and it is doubtful whether he will ever be well enough to be seen on horseback once more, a fact which does not, however, prevent him from fulfilling his multifarious duties with more than his wonted energy.

Apropos of visits to Rome, the kaiser seems to have given a good deal of offense by taking along with him to Italy a mounted escort of German cuirassiers in order to accompany his carriage when he drove to call upon the pope at the vatican. The Italians not unnaturally insist that it was an affront to their king and to their government for the kaiser to bring Prussian troopers with him to escort him in the streets of Rome, just as if Italian cavalry was not good enough for the purpose. This has been pretty generally discussed in the Italian press.

Another matter which also aroused much unfavorable comment, but which so far has not got into print, was the emperor's action in selecting as members of his suite on the occasion of his visit to Rome the tallest officers of his army, perfect giants, whose presence in the imperial entourage at Rome served, of course, to emphasize the dwarf-like stature of King Victor Emmanuel, who, though one of the most up to date, sensible, clever, and altogether admirable monarchs of the old world, is likewise the most diminutive in size, being barely five feet. He is sensitive on the subject of his brevity of physique, and the kaiser has been pretty generally denounced at Rome for a lack of tact in bringing such giants along with him.

One thing more in connection with King Edward's recent visit to Italy, and which I have not seen mentioned in the press, is the fact that an immense quantity of the royal baggage, and also a number of letter bags belonging to the king, were lost between Rome and Reggio—that is to say, on the railroad in the southern portion of Italy. Nor have they been recovered up to the present moment, in spite of all the efforts of the Italian railroad authorities and of the Italian and English police.

The baggage in question had been sent out from England in charge of a courier, to meet the king at Malta, and a gunboat had been dispatched thence to Reggio—that is to say, to the railroad terminus at the southernmost portion of the Italian peninsula—to convey the things to Malta. When, however, the train reached its destination the courier, the British consul, and the railroad authorities were horrified to discover that not only all the baggage but likewise also the letter bags had disappeared, and after twenty-four hours had been spent in frantic efforts on the part of the officials in question to ascertain what had become of the missing things, without any success, the gunboat left for Malta with the consul on board in order to explain what had happened, the courier remaining behind with the object of pursuing the search.

The latter has remained without avail, and if I mention the matter it is because so many American tourists have been robbed of their baggage in much the same manner when traveling in Italy that they may possibly derive some consolation from learning that not even crowned monarchs are safe from the depredations of Italian railroad bandits.

Princess Alice of Battenberg, whose engagement to Prince Andrew of Greece has just been announced, is the 18 year old daughter of Prince Louis of Battenberg, now a rear admiral of the British navy, and of his wife, Princess Victoria, eldest sister of the reigning grand duke of Hesse and of the czarina. Princess Alice is therefore a great-grandchild of Queen Victoria and also of that wonderfully clever privy councilor, Hauke, who, of Jewish birth though not of faith, was the chief secretary to the Grand Duke Constantine when the latter was viceroy of Poland during the reign of his younger brother, Czar Nicholas I.

Old Hauke had a son, who joined the Saxon revolutionists and fell mortally wounded on the barricades in the streets of Dresden during the revolutionary outbreak of 1848. Old Hauke's other child, a daughter, made a runaway marriage with Prince Alexander of Hesse, brother of Czarina Marie, and she was eventually created by the grand duke of Hesse princess of Battenberg. Of this union there were four sons and a daughter, the eldest being Prince Alexander, who reigned for a time over Bulgaria, and died some years ago as Count Hartenau, leaving children who bear that title. His younger brother was Prince Louis, now an admiral in the British navy. Then there was the late Prince Henry, who married Beatrice, the youngest daughter of Queen Victoria; Prince Francis Joseph, who is married to Anne of Montenegro, sister of Queen Helene of Italy; and Princess Marie, married to Count Gustave Erbach-Schonberg.

Princess Alice, owing to the fact that her father is of morganatic birth, ranks not as a royal personage but as a Hessian noblewoman. She is a beautiful girl of 18, who has made her début this spring at the court of her grandduncle, King Edward, and suffers from deafness in a pronounced form. She is, relatively speaking, portionless, and if Prince Andrew of Greece is marrying her it is because he is in love with her. In fact, the union will be in every sense of the word one of those love matches which are so rare among royal families.

It is a moot question whether by her marriage she will become a royal princess. She will be treated as such at Athens, and probably in Russia and in England, but certainly not at Vienna, Berlin, or at any of the smaller German courts, where the utmost strictness prevails with regard to the precedence accorded to princes and princesses of morganatic birth.

With regard to Prince Andrew of Greece, he is the youngest son but one of King George, is a little over 21 years of age, and learned to know his fiancée when she was living with her mother at Malta during her father's command of one of the battleships of the British Mediterranean squadron. As King George is enormously wealthy, and has an immense private fortune, he will doubtless be able to make most satisfactory provision for the young couple, who are an extremely comely pair.

THE TOP O' THE MORNIN'.

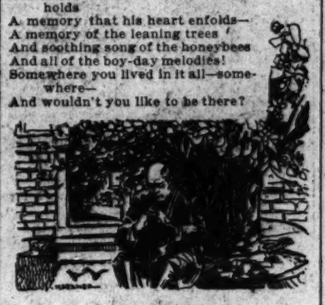

SOMEWHERE the roses are brave and red;
And apple blossoms are sweet, and spread
A wistful perfume that scents the day
And clings to zephyrs that croon away
When night comes slowly and bids them stay.
A wondrous fragrance the blossoms bear—
And wouldn't you like to be there?

Somewhere the meadows are stretching green,
As clear as jewels, and soft and clean,
With dandelions in spangled show
That nod and beckon when breezes blow.
Somewhere the meadows—— But don't you know
The tone and tang of the bracing air?
And wouldn't you like to be there?

Somewhere there reaches a country road,
With crickets chanting a twilight ode;
And bending branches to paint a shade
Where moonbeams glimmer and gleam and fade,
And will-o'-the-wisps in the distance wade.
Somewhere the fireflies flash and flare—
And wouldn't you like to be there?

Somewhere—— You know it; O, who but holds
A memory that his heart enfolds—
A memory of the leaning trees
And soothing song of the honeybees
And all of the boy-day melodies!
Somewhere you lived in it all—somewhere—
And wouldn't you like to be there?

A HOOSIER HEROINE.

"I'll never make the bed," she said,
Where Booker T. has laid his head.

The news went hissing on the wire—
The doughty maid—she got the fire.

Today on all sides we peruse
A splendid bunch of interviews,

And from the south, with cheer and curse,
Come statements that she'll get a purse.

And thus great fame the lady wins,
And her career to wealth begins,

For now that she is all the rage,
She will be featured on the stage.

Or maybe—we'll not be surprised—
Her deed will soon be dramatized.

THE COMING FOURTH.

(The Chicago school board suggests that patriotic orations and declamations be substituted for fireworks as a means of celebrating the fourth of July.)

The day will dawn serenely;
The racket will begin;
A medley of orations
Will make an awful din.
From Evanston to Austin,
From prairies to the lake
With patriotic speeches
The atmosphere will quake.

No squibs will hiss and sputter;
No bombs will rend the air;
But rocking on the breezes
Will come "The Vacant Chair."
Phil Sheridan will gallop
The highway leading down;
We'll hear of sister Frietchie
And good old Fred'ricktown.

The city will be vibrant
With "Onward!" and "Huzza!"
And arms be wildly waving
The while the air they saw.
"The Fight on Lookout Mountain,"
"The Irish Volunteer,"
And all the rest will jumble
"The Ride of Paul Revere."

O, what a day is coming!
No eyes or noses lost,
No arms or fingers missing—
But who can count the cost?
If we have naught but speeches
To celebrate the day,
The echoes will be sounding
Until next Christmas day.

WORTH SIQUEING.

In the pine woods quite near Manistique
Lives an Indian girl who's a frique.
Her figure is fat,
But comely at that,
And in temper she's gentle and mique.

A STRIKE BULLETIN.

Me ole man struck, away las' June, an' hasn't turned a lick—
He hasn't even cleaned de clay dat wuz stuck ter his pick.
He didn't like de wages dat dey chucked inter his mitt—
I guess dat's what de trouble wuz, "but anyhow, he quit.
But, say, I guess de fambly's in de bigges' kind o' luck—
De ole man's in de walkout, but me mudder hasn't struck.

Me sister Liz wuz wolkin' in a place dat sells quick lunch.
De boss, he makes some kicks, an' dat starts trouble wit' de bunch.
Dey all goes out an' won't go back—you oughter talk ter Liz—
She's makin' speeches ever'wheres about de strikin' biz.
Dat's all she does—jest chews de rag about de moneyed duck.
But still we's eatin' reg'lar, 'cause me mudder hasn't struck.

Me brudder Bill—he's strikin', too—been out sence May de first.
He says de slob dat takes his job is lookin' fer de worst.
Dey wants him back, but no, b'gee! He says dat he won't stan'
Fer wolkin' dere, unless de boss will fire some udder man.
I'm strikin', too. I hops de bells, an' wants anudder buck.
But dere at home we's eatin', 'cause me mudder hasn't struck.

Well, say! Now, on de square, it's fun ter hear me brudder Bill
An' sister Liz an' de ole man start up a-talkin' mill
About how dey've stopped wolkin' jest ter teach de udder dubs.
An' all de time me mudder keeps a hustlin' at de tubs.
I likes de ole man's backbone, but I likes me mudder's pluck—
I guess we'd all be hungry if me mudder'd gone an' struck.

DO YOU REMEMBER THAT—

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY:

The first bill for internal improvements in the United States, which had long been a source of political controversy, was passed by both houses of congress.

FIFTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Harriet Beecher Stowe, who was referred to at that time as "Uncle Tom Stowe," was received in England as guest of the duchess of Sutherland.

FORTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

The need of a pleasure drive in Chicago was pointed out by the newspapers. North Clark street being declared "horrible," Michigan avenue a "bad country road" south of Twelfth street, and the Evanston plank road "impossible to reach" from the city.

Excavations were begun for the new Wisconsin capitol, which the state is now declared to have outgrown.

Henry Clay Deane, called the chief of Iowa "copperheads," was seized by convalescent union soldiers at Keokuk and placed under guard.

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

The increasing tendency toward "government by injunction" was pointed out in Chicago, three having been granted that day for as trivial a matter as preventing the removal of a sign.

The salary of Canadian members of parliament was fixed at $7,000 yearly, and of the premier at $8,000.

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY:

Jefferson Davis, then nearly 75 years old, was reported dangerously ill at Beauvoir, Miss.; the count de Chambord, last of the French Bourbons, was dying at Triest.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY:

The world's congress of representative women opened at the new Chicago Art Institute, with Julia Ward Howe, Susan B. Anthony, and Lucy Stone in attendance.

TALES of a TENDERFOOT

"WHEN I first struck the Snake river country," said the old ranchman, "I was as green a tenderfoot as ever left the states. And the boys used to lay it all over me in them days in a way that was riling.

"One cold winter day, I remember, me and Dave Orcutt and Hank Timms was riding our ponies over to the Slawson ranch. I had only been in the country two weeks and this was my first trip out to Slawson's.

"There was a sharp wind blowing straight out of the north and the mercury was down to 10 below. We humped along pretty lively till suddenly the boys pulls up sharp at the edge of a wide crick.

"WHERE THE WATER IS SIX INCHES DEEP."

"'Great buffaloes,' says Hank Timms, 'but the Little Cimaroon is on a tear. I wouldn't try to ride across her for a thousand.'

"'We'll have to ride around to Harper's Ford,' says Dave Orcutt.

"'How far is that?' I asks.

"'Thirty-six miles and a blamed poor road all the way,' says Dave.

"'How deep's the water?' I asks.

"Too dang deep for comfort,' says Hank. 'Your clothes 'd freeze to your back in two minutes if you got 'em soaked.'

"Well, it appeared to me that here was my chance to show that I was dead game, even if I was a tenderfoot.

"'I'm going to ride across right here,' I says.

"'Don't you do it,' pleads Hank. 'You're new to the country yet, you know, and me and Dave has to look after you. You'll be foolish if you try it. Do you want your clothes froze to you?'

"'I'll take my clothes off,' I says, 'and stand up on my saddle.'

"'But the people over to the ranch'll see you if you strip that way,' says Dave.

"'I'll fix it so they won't,' I says, and with that I strips to the skin in the cold wind and puts on a long linen ulster that I had in my gunny sack. Then I ties up my clothes and hitches them around my neck, climbs up on top of the saddle, and starts down the bank.

"Say, how the wind did whistle around my bare legs! And standin' up in the saddle like I was it had a mighty good show at me. That linen duster wasn't much protection, either.

"'Go ahead if you must,' says Dave, solemnly. 'We boys'll wait here on the bank till you get across. An' remember that we warned you that you were foolish to try it that way.'

"I starts my horse into the crick. As carefully as I can I steers him across, and they ain't a blame spot in that whole stream where the water is six inches deep."

"Once I had a dorg named Bill. He was a large, sad dorg, with only one eye, and he looked as though he'd been disappointed in love in early life. The only good point about Bill was his faithfulness.

"Why, if I'd whistle anywhere, just one little whistle, Bill would quit whatever he was doing and come running up to stick his nose in my hand and ask what it was I wanted. Leave a bone, Bill would, and come to my lowest whistle. So I got some attached to Bill on account of his faithfulness, and when it come so I had to go east for three months I didn't want to leave him with only the greasers at the ranch house to look after him. Bill was so plum faithful to me that it looks like I ought to be faithful to Bill.

"My nearest neighbor in them days was old man Slason, whose ranch is fourteen miles away on the Big Snake river. I go over to see Slason and ask him if he'll take care of Bill while I'm away.

"'And let him sleep in the hall outside your bedroom door, Slason,' I says. 'Bill is the faithfulest dorg that ever lived, and he'll come to you at your slightest call. He ain't so blamed much on looks, but when it comes to being faithful and quick to answer a call they ain't no dorg to match him.'

"Slason allows he hates dorgs, but, seein' it's me, he'll take Bill in. So I bring Bill over and leave him with the old man.

"When I comes back, three months later, the first thing I does is to drive over to Slason's ranch to get Bill and bring him home. Slason is setting out on the porch of the ranch house when I rides up, and he looks sad when he sees it was me.

"'Bill's dead,' he says. 'Poor Bill! He was too blamed faithful. It was faithfulness that killed him.'

"'How's that?'

"'Mebbe you know and then again mebbe you don't know that when I sleeps I snores powerful. I fetches about ten straight awful snores, getting more and more powerful, and then I winds up that series with a little backward whistle through my nose, preparatory to beginning all over again. It's ten snores—whistle—ten snores—whistle—and so on all night long with me.

"'Well, sir, the first night after you go I turns in early and Bill—the blamed fool cuss—he curls up on that bear skin in the hall, right beside my open door.

"'Pretty soon I goes to sleep and then I starts to snore, my regular snore that I been a-using for more than thirty years regular. Then all of a sudden I wakes up. There's something cold pressing against my face. It's poor old Bill's nose. He heard the first whistle of mine and comes in to see what I wanted. I drives Bill back to the hall, being some sore on getting waked up that way, and goes back to sleep again.

"'It takes me a few minutes to get back to sleep, but as soon as I gets through my first ten snores and sounds my fine whistle, there's Bill's cold nose rubbing my forehead again to see what I wanted.

"'By morning both me and Bill is plum wore out. All day both of us is out in the corrall, and we go to bed again early. The second night I was woke up again by Bill every tenth snore, but inside of a week I got so it didn't bother me none when he come and stuck his nose in my face to see what I wanted. After that I slept right straight through it. But I noticed that Bill keeps getting leaner and leaner and weaker and weaker.

"'I feeds him up fine, but that don't seem to do a bit of good. I'm supposing all the time that Bill has got used to my whistle and knows it don't mean anything, but I'm wrong about it. I done that dog a plum injustice. All night long and every night that faithful old dorg gets up and comes in every tenth snore to see if this time I don't really wake him. You see you give him such a reputation as to faithfulness that he feels he's got to live up to it. The way I got onto him was the night he died.

"HE CREEPS OVER TO THE BED."

"'I got a bad cold in my head and I reckon that puts a little extry power onto my snorer. Anyway I whistles so loud that it wakes me up. I looks over just in time to see Bill come staggering into the room. His ribs stuck out like the slats of a chicken coop and he's so weak that he can't hardly crawl across the floor. He creeps over to the bed and tries to raise himself up to lick my hand. But he can't make it. Casting one last glance at me Bill keels over and croaks in. He's done up by lack of sleep.

"'If ever they was a martyr to faithfulness that dorg Bill was it.'"

Baptised and Spanked.

[From the Kansas City Journal.]

There was a "baptising" in the creek near Fredonia, Kas., the other day. One of the candidates was a girl of 12 years. As she went under the water she had her mouth open, and when she came up she was sputtering as half choked people will. Then she was led crying to the bank and her mother seized her and shook her and spanked her before the whole crowd. And one cannot help wondering how much of the pseudo spirit of sanctification the girl got between her choking and spanking.

IN THE SOCIETY WORLD.

CHILLY WEATHER KEEPING PEOPLE FROM COUNTRY CLUBS.

Mrs. Ford Rodman Carter Gives a Buffet Luncheon for Miss Luella Pearson—Mrs. Edmund L. Mansure Has a Large Reception — Kitchen Shower for Miss Katherine Bayley at the Residence of Miss Mary Steele, 4818 Lake Avenue.

The cold weather is spoiling the country jaunts, for scarcely any one has left town the last two days. Saturday will be the popular country club day this season, and if the weather moderates many dinners will be given tomorrow evening at the Saddle and Cycle, at Wheaton, at Lake Forest, and at the Homewood Country club, and many of the guests will remain at the clubs over Sunday.

Mrs. Ford Rodman Carter of 288 Forty-seventh street gave a buffet luncheon yesterday for Miss Luella Pearson. She was assisted in receiving by Miss Pearson and her bridemaids and Mis Vivien Weaver. There were fifty guests. In the dining room the decorations were pink.

Mrs. Edmund L. Mansure of 164 Forty-seventh street gave a large reception yesterday from 2 till 6 o'clock. There were several hundred guests, and the house was elaborately decorated with spring flowers. A music program was a special feature, Mr. Baier playing the zither in the Turkish room, where frappé was served; in another room was an orchestra. Mrs. Mansure received alone, but assisting in the different rooms were her sister, Mrs. W. G. Wisdom, Miss Grace Buttolph, Miss Cheryl Clingman, Miss Sarah Knapp, Miss Mary Lord, Miss Margaret Lord, Miss Bessie Morse, Miss Marguerite Otis, Miss Luella Pearson, Miss Laura Shedd, and Miss Vivien Weaver.

Miss Mary Steele of 4818 Lake avenue gave a kitchen shower yesterday afternoon for Miss Katherine Bayley.

Mrs. Wayne Wills of 12 Madison park gave the first of a series of luncheons yesterday. There were twenty-four guests, and the small tables were trimmed with sweet peas. The luncheon was followed by progressive euchre.

Mrs. Martin Kent Northam of 4741 Greenwood avenue will give a musical Saturday afternoon, May 23, at 3 o'clock.

The engagement is announced of Miss Evelyn Scott, daughter of Mr. Edward Padeford Scott of New York, to Mr. Clarence C. Chapman, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chapman of Highland Park. Miss Scott was formerly of Chicago and is the sister of E. Norman Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Adams of 530 Belden avenue are building a summer residence at Petersboro, N. H., and Mrs. Adams and her daughters have already gone east for the summer.

The Arbutus club will give its annual May party tomorrow evening at Illinois hall.

SON-IN-LAW WINS DAMAGE SUIT.

Samuel Sonnenberg Secures Verdict for $12,000 Against Arnold Freshman —Motion Made for New Trial.

Samuel Sonnenberg is entitled to $12,000 damages for the alleged malicious prosecution by his father-in-law, Arnold Freshman, according to the verdict of a jury in Judge Kavanagh's court yesterday. Freshman is secretary of the Audebert Wall Paper company and also a heavy stockholder in the Diamond Glue company. The defense made a motion for a new trial.

Sonnenberg, on the witness stand, said his father-in-law took a dislike to him because he could not smoke cigarets, drink champagne and attend wine suppers and still do his work.

When telling of the unhappiness of his daughter, Cecelia, who married Sonnenberg, Freshman laid his head upon his arm and sobbed, and Mrs. Freshman denied telling Sonnenberg he was a "lobster," "a dead one," or "no good."

Sonnenberg brought suit against his father-in-law for $50,000 damages. He averred that Freshman and Mrs. Freshman had tried to ruin his home by enstranging his wife, and had him arrested, charged with larceny as bailee.

POSTMEN ASK EQUAL SALARIES.

Illinois Letter Carriers Support Bill Affecting Pay in First and Second Class Cities.

Peoria, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—The Illinois letter carriers in convention today unanimously adopted resolutions asking the postmaster general to favor the bill in congress equalizing the salaries received by letter carriers in all first and second class cities.

The convention also went on record as favoring the retirement bill, which provides for the payment of a small sum by active carriers annually to be set aside for a pension for them when they shall become superannuated.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, F. H. McCann, Rockford; vice president, C. L. Farrington, Peoria; secretary, M. T. Finnan, Bloomington; treasurer, Charles Koch, Rock Island; sergeant at arms, John Hesselman, Springfield.

Oak Park was selected as the place of holding the next convention.

MISSION BOARD HEARS REPORTS

Woman's Foreign Society of Chicago Presbytery Spends $17,000 During Last Year—Officers Elected.

Nearly 200 delegates from various churches in Chicago attended the annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary society of the Chicago prebytery in the Lake View Presbyterian church yesterday. Reports showed that the society contributed to foreign missionary work last year $17,000 and was supporting nineteen missionaries.

The result of the annual election of officers was as follows:

President—Mrs. W. O. Carrier.
Vice president—Mrs. J. H. Trowbridge.
Corresponding secretary—Mrs. Edgar L. Jayne.
Recording secretary—Miss Francis P. Ripley.
Secretary young people's work—Miss Emma Koehler.
Treasurer—Miss Ida Capron.

"POPULAR GIRL" AN ELOPER.

Winner of Waukegan Voting Contest Comes to Chicago and Is Married.

Waukegan's "most popular girl"—so adjudged in a newspaper voting contest—is an eloper. On Tuesday Annie Wynn, the popular one, came to Chicago and on the next train she was followed by George A. Friesel. A license was secured and they were married. Miss Wynn is of legal age, being almost 19, but Friesel, whose age appears on the records to be 21 years, is said to be only 19. Word from Waukegan is that the parents of the young folks are not inclined to forgive.

FINDS A BABY IN A HALLWAY.

Doctor Discovers Abandoned Boy About a Week Old—Taken to St. Vincent's Infant Asylum.

An abandoned child, apparently a week old, was found yesterday noon in the hallway of 38 Harrison street by Dr. F. Baumann. The baby, which is a boy, was taken to St. Vincent's Infant asylum, where it was said that the child would live. The baby was well dressed and was lying on the floor near the door leading to the physician's office. The Harrison street police were notified, but they failed to find any clew to the parents.

SALOON LICENSE FOR ELKS.

Waukegan's Mayor Stirs Up Row by Ordering Lodge Members to Put Up $500.

The Elks' lodge room in Waukegan is just the same as a saloon. Such was the ruling yesterday of Mayor W. W. Pearce, who added to the indignation of the lodge members by declaring they must take out a $500 liquor license.

The chief of police served the mayor's ultimatum on the Rev. W. E. Toll, several lawyers, and Supt. Sells of the Waukegan wire works. When told they were saloonkepers, or the equivalent at least, these men regarded it as a jest. Anger came with the realization that Mayor Pearce was in earnest. They were in a fighting mood last night.

The mayor's action is the result of the organization of a Waukegan law and order league, which proposes to force Mayor Pearce to close the saloons. Some of the members of the league are prominent Elks, and the mayor insists that the league must help him to make the Elks pay for disposing of liquors as well as the ordinary dealers. Among Waukegan's prominent Elks are the leaders in the republican machine which failed to defeat Mayor Pearce in the recent election.

EX-STATE SENATOR CONFESSES.

Charles Schweickardt of St. Louis Tells Grand Jury All He Knows About Boodling.

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—Former State Senator Charles Schweickardt of St. Louis, who made a complete confession to Circuit Attorney Folk of his connection with boodle deals of the Fortieth general assembly, was before the grand jury two hours today. While in the jury room he was confronted by ex-Senator Fred Busche, also of St. Louis. After being examined at length, Schweickardt emerged trembling visibly and with flushed face.

GALLATIN, TENN., SORRY FOR IT.

People Denounce Attack on Negro Letter Carrier and Propose to Punish Men Engaged in It.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—A special agent of the postoffice department reports that the people of Gallatin, Tenn., are almost unanimous in denouncing the attack made by masked men on the negro rural free delivery carrier, Allwood. They are anxious to punish the guilty parties. Postmaster General Payne said today that the order suspending the route will stand.

"THIS IS MY BIRTHDAY."

BAUM—L. Frank; author and dramatist.

Mr. Baum has a quartet of favorite extravagances—the theater, good cigars, books which "nearly eat up my royalties, and I have to support a wife, you know, which is probably my greatest extravagance."

His hobby is cabinet making.

"I have about twenty-eight pieces of furniture, hand made oak pieces, which I made myself in my summer home across the lake. Among them is a grandfather's clock."

Mr. Baum's favorite game is golf.

"I'm the worst player in Chicago."

His best habit, he thinks, is his home abiding instinct. "I always spend my evenings at home unless it is to go to some entertainment, and I do all of my work at home, you know, going in the afternoon to play golf or to the club."

A story on himself which Mr. Baum tells: In Muskogee, I. T., a school teacher asked her pupils, little redskins, to vote upon the two most prominent Americans. George Washington and L. Frank Baum came out ahead. And the teacher was disgusted.

Mr. Baum regards his Santa Claus book as his best, although the "Wizard of Oz" has been the most popular.

JURY SEES WOMAN ON PARADE.

Sits in Judgment on Merits of a Sealskin Coat and Decides It's a "Bad Fit."

A jury, including a hodcarrier, a stoker, and two day laborers, sat in judgment yesterday on the merits of a sealskin coat, and later, after a careful consideration, arrived at the conclusion that the garment was a "bad fit."

Mrs. Rose T. Meyers had been sued for $305, the price of the coat, and when the case was called in Judge Kavanagh's court Mrs. Meyers donned the garment and paraded before the jury box, at the same time explaining the alleged defects of the coat.

The jury ruled that she needn't pay.

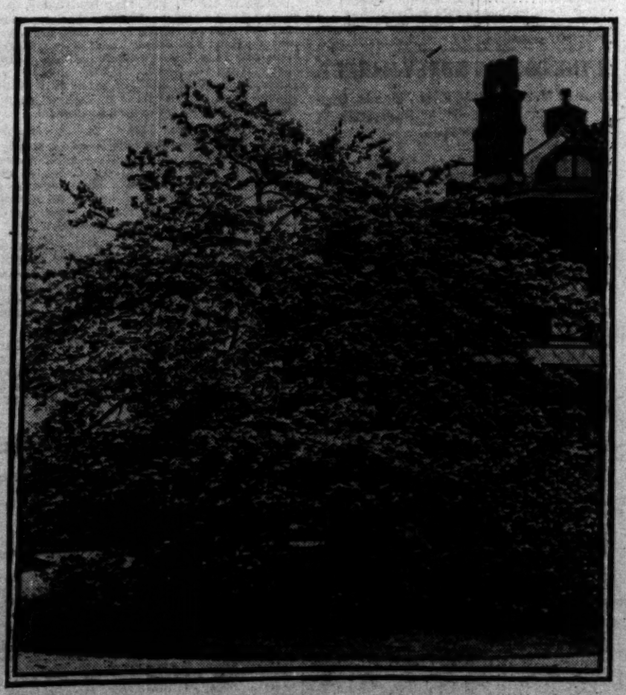

NURSES ATTACK LETTER SCHOOL

Hospital Training Declared to Be the Only Way to Acquire Qualifications for the Profession.

Correspondence schools which teach the profession of nursing the sick were severely criticised yesterday at the closing session of the Illinois State Association of Graduate Nurses in Schiller hall. Mrs. E. B. Hutchinson led the attack on these schools, and added that the only way to acquire the necessary knowledge and experience was by hospital training. At 5 o'clock the nurses were entertained at tea by the Alumnæ association of the Hahnemann hospital training school.

G. E. ADAMS' HAWTHORN TREE IN BLOSSOM.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

The hawthorn tree in the grounds of George E. Adams' residence, 530 Belden avenue, is in bloom. The tree is the show feature of the north side district, and each year neighbors await with interest the opening of the countless blossoms that hide the bare trunk and limbs. For years Mrs. Adams and her daughters have given a tea as soon as the tree was in full bloom each spring. This year, however, the old tree will not shed its blossoms to make a carpet for Mrs. Adams' friends, for the family have gone east for the summer. The unusually early departure was to superintend the finishing of Mr. Adams' new summer home at Petersboro, N. H.

AMONG THE NEW BOOKS.

THE REV. J. H. EDWARDS WRITES ON "GOD AND MUSIC."

Author Strives to Trace the Subtle Relations Between Theology and Harmony—He Follows a Line of Thought Which Will Appeal to Lovers of Music and to Those Who Seek the Deeper Meanings and Sacredness of Life.

"God and Music," as the title implies, shows the relation between theological truth and music. The author believes that in the esthetic charm of music there is so strong a semblance to matters divine as to make the relationship worthy of the most careful consideration. The line of thought which he has followed will appeal to the lovers of music as well as to those who seek the deeper meaning of life. The argument grows out of the belief that the being and disposition of God are clearly intimated and illustrated in the elements of music. Harmony is the keynote of both. This phase of theistic evidence has been exploited systematically. The present book does not attempt to cover the whole territory of theological esthetics, but is limited to that part which is found in the art and exact science of music. The author believes that the elaborate mathematics of music, the frame of rigid laws which give stability and universality to the system of sweet sounds, but are nevertheless plastic and obedient to the inspiration of the composer and the executant, indicate a mathematical mind as the origin of the acoustic universe.

To all there must have been a suggestion as there was to the ancients that in the sweetness and beauty of music there is something closely akin to the spirit of the Creator. Music with its soul stirring power and its uplifting influence indicates clearly the semblance. The use of music in the churches is the recognition of this principle.

The practical utility of music as a healing agent of many diseases, especially of the brain and nerves, is carefully treated in one chapter. The interesting collection of facts and opinions from many sources touching musical therapeutics gives a practically unknown phase of the subject.

The course of reasoning throughout is lighted up by frequent references to striking facts of science and abundant illustrations from history and the actual influence and many benefits of music. For instance, the remarkable adaptation of the common air for creation and carrying of musical sounds, the unique provision for the rarely heard "over tones" that accompany every musical note show the divine origin of music.

The book has been highly commended by leading theologians and musicians who read the advance sheets.

Dr. Edwards is a retired Brooklyn pastor, who is deeply interested in the study of the refined arts of life—and his book in its charm and scholarly qualities will find many readers and admirers. (Baker & Taylor Co.)

THE NEW AMERICA.

Another Foreigner Surveys Us and Writes a Book.

"America changes so fast," says Mr. Bryce in his "American Commonwealth," "that every few years a new crop of books is needed to describe the new face which things have put on, the new problems that have appeared, the new ideas germinating among the people, the new and unexpected developments, for evil as well as for good, of which her established institutions have been found capable." Mr. Beckles Willson evidently considers the time ripe for his observations on "The New America: A Study of the Imperial Republic" (E. P. Dutton & Co.) He aims to point out broadly some of the new conditions and tendencies which appear to him to prevail in the external and domestic politics, the commerce, the society, the literature of the United States of America. Mr. Willson presents his conclusions upon such subjects as the growth of presidential power; expansion and imperialism; the new constitution and laws; the new diplomacy, commerce, shipping, immigration, politics, and literature; the Monroe policy; the army; trusts and combines; education and science; progress and character.

All these topics and others he treats intelligently and interestingly, with a knowledge gained by some years' residence in this country, and from a point of view utterly and ineradically alien. The note of patronage, and, worse, the note of wrong and undiscriminating praise, is far too much in evidence. "For the first time in her history," he says, "America shows a united front to the world, which it were disingenuous for us not to acknowledge. . . . Briefly, it may be said that the states have been a century in labor and have put forth a nation. . . . America's accents, though brusque and untrained, are beginning to be heard respectfully in the concert of nations. . . . After a long period of backwoods seclusion, of introspection—of quarantine, shall we say?—America emerges more tolerant and, to us, more tolerable. The rough edges are being worn from her character. Fifty years ago she spurned the cup as an unholy thing, but now she drinks deep of the draft of Europe, and gives the old lands that flattery which is the sincerest of all flattery, and promises us—the other nations of the earth—a boon companionship."

The book is well written and suggestive in more ways than the author intended it to be, though it gives little matter which either the imperialists or anti-imperialists—and, through them, the public—have overlooked.

COLEMAN'S SOCIAL ETHICS.

A Helpful Contribution to the Larger Thought of the Time.

"Social Ethics," by Prof. James M. Coleman of Geneva college (the Baker & Taylor company), is a book written from a frankly and distinctly Christian point of view. There is no lack of social studies, says the author, but there is room for a book, he thinks, which treats social phenomena from this point of view and yet gives adequate place to the conclusions of science and philosophy. What is wanted, he says, is a Christian cosmic philosophy; and this, in part, is what he has aimed to outline.

The conception of the state and the relation which it bears to social institutions follows the lines indicated by Prof. John Dewey. A too close adherence to the biological analogies is too materialistic to offer any just explanation. The subject of social study is the social mind; the will which controls in social affairs is the social will; and it is this fact which makes the social organism so much more than the animal organism in which Mr. Spencer seeks the explanation of society. The parts of the animal body are inanimate; the elements of the state are individual spirits. It is the social spirit that makes a state. The state is thus a moral personality. What we have to examine is not social tissue but the social mind.

In the elucidation and application of his idea—which is done with remarkable conciseness and cogency of reasoning and felicity of statement—the author goes on to speak of social institutions, church and state, state and the individual social mind, social conscience, social forces, sovereignty of the state, law, authority, the social confession of Christ, and what constitutes a Christian state.

The book as a whole is a distinctly helpful contribution to the larger, wiser thought of the time.

THE LAW OF LIKENESS.

By David Bates. Longmans, Green & Co.

This work abounds in evidences of considerable learning, a high minded and earnest search for the truth, and of a mind which, breaking away from its earlier doctrinal convictions, appears to have suffered from an extreme reaction.

A child of many prayers, he says, he was early converted, and not long after began to preach. For some reason, however, he presently found himself not suited to the ministry. There were certain points in the traditional creed from which his mind revolted. Compelled to give up the hope of going out as a missionary, he accepted an offer to go as a clerk for a trading company on the west coast of Africa. His account of what he saw there of missionary life and of the life of the natives is decidedly interesting. He found it a capital school for himself.

"It is an education," said Drummond in his "Tropical Africa," "to see this sight—an education in the meaning and history of man; to have been here is to have lived before Menes. It is to have watched the dawn of evolution. It is to have the great problems of life, of anthropology, of ethnology, and even of theology, brought home to the imagination in the most new and startling light." The author of this book believes this to have been true in his own case. The result was that though he seemed to have lost his "creed," he did not lose his religion. In fact, he professes to have found it; to have found it along the painful path of the evolutionary history. He finds it in "The Law of Likeness." "I see that behind all the worshipful faith of the past—behind all the formal requirement and symbolism and moral teaching of the religions; behind all human aspiration and human institutions—there was but one living truth; that of our likeness of spirit to God, which is all-sufficient for our hope and guidance, and which, with but our apprehension of it quickened and enlarged, should illuminate our way in the time to come, as a sun that has no setting."

To believe that we are verily the sons of God is thus made the prime and the final creed. Mr. Bates in this thoughtful volume has traveled a long road and at any rate has emphasized one of the greatest of truths.

TALES OF THE PACIFIC.

"The Strange Adventures of James Shervinton," by Louis Becke.

"The Strange Adventures of James Shervinton" is the title given by Louis Becke to his book of short stories on the South Sea islands. There are stories of the faithful native servants, of adventurous traders, and piratical seamen—stories that give the reader an unembellished account of life among the barbaric people who inhabit the islands of the Pacific, and which do not encourage the most enthusiastic seeker of excitement to follow his fortune there.

Life in these islands becomes an uncanny existence, with the animal passions of avarice and hatred rampant. It needs the pen of a strong writer to depict it realistically and decently at the same time, and, while the picturesque tales of Stevenson contain enough of that author's inimitable style to justify his writing of whatever people he might choose, it is to be doubted if these "Strange Tales" are a near enough approach to literature to justify their offensiveness. (J. B. Lippincott company, Philadelphia.)

Stephen Bonsal's Narrow Escape.

Stephen Bonsal, war correspondent and author, has just returned from the scene of the Venezuelan troubles, carrying a memento in the shape of a sinister red scar on his forehead, the result of a blow which nearly cost him his life. Walking in a street of Caracas with his wife recently, he was attacked from behind and wounded in the forehead by a machete. Mr. Bonsal sank unconscious to the street and the murderer fled. It was one of those close calls to which war correspondents are continually liable. Mr. Bonsal entered this dangerous branch of journalism at the age of 21, going first to the Bulgarian-Servian war. He was a student at Heidelberg at the time, a "Corps man," and not disinclined to a fight. After many years' experience, however, Mr. Bonsal says he is an advocate of peace, as he "never yet saw a war that really settled anything." Besides his work as war correspondent Mr. Bonsal is the author of several books, among them "Morocco as It Is," a volume which makes it easier to understand the recent complications in that country, and "The Real Condition of Cuba Today," both of which the Harpers publish.

BULLED ON FRENCH NEWS.

WHEAT ADVANCES ON CLAIMS OF CROP DAMAGE ABROAD.

Paris Market Up Sharply and Local Bears, After Vain Efforts to Break July, Cover on a Rising Market—Country Selling Corn Freely, but Eastern Demand Urgent and Cash Prices Firm—Oats Steady—Provisions Inclined to Be Easy.

Unfavorable crop news from France and a sharp advance in the Paris market were the main influences which brought about a fair rally in wheat late in the session. The market had stubbornly resisted for several days the attempts of local bears to break it below 72c for July, and their discouragement and consequent covering was a factor in the advance which was started, however, by liberal buying by local professionals for long account.

There was a break of ½c early in July and September on easy English cables, fine weather in this country, and a dip of 1½c in May, which was taken to indicate that the Armour deal was well over, but after the drop to 76⅝c the May rallied on open Armour buying, closing at 78c, a loss of ¼c, while the deferred futures held firm in spite of the weakness in May and finally advanced ⅛-⅜c, closing at about top prices. The July range was from 72c sellers to 72⅜c, the close at 72⅜c sellers. The September discount widened the merest trifle, the range from 69½c to 70¼c, and the close at 70¼c sellers. The advance in the Paris market was 1⅝c on spot wheat and ½c on deferred deliveries.

There were Paris advices commenting on the small stocks there, and a Broomhall cable announcing reports to the minister of agriculture from many departments, which were of a pessimistic character, almost indicating a disastrous failure and likely to make the importation of considerable quantities of wheat necessary.

Sentiment Still Bearish.

The French news was received with comparative indifference at first. Bearish sentiment in the pit was strong, and the northwest markets, whose firmness has been a bull factor for some days, were inclined to be easy. Minneapolis stocks, however, showed a heavy decrease for five days, 1,150,000 bu, and the flour demand was said to be excellent. There were reports from New York that 250,000 bu Chicago No. 1 northern had been sold for export. This was presumably part of the wheat shipped east by Armour, but the sales were not positively confirmed. The seaboard furnished additional sales of 200,000 bu.

The Price Current called the condition of wheat "barely maintained," but the deterioration prospective rather than positive. California still lacks rain. Clearances were 319,000 bu. Primary receipts were 316,000 bu, compared with 173,000 bu last year, the increase mainly from private warehouses in Chicago, which turned out 71 cars of contract grade. Northwest receipts were about the same as last year. Liverpool closed ⅛c higher to ⅛d lower, London unchanged to ⅛d lower, and Antwerp ⅝c lower.

There was local selling of July and September wheat early and a fair general commission demand by Harris-Gates, Gifford, Brosseau, White, and others. The buying which started the advance was led by Pringle, who took 1,000,000 bu or more of July and September, while Champlin, Tuttle, Dunn, and Trego-Montgomery were also buyers. There was selling on the advance by Kidston and in a moderate way by Armour.

July Corn a Shade Lower.

Prospects of warmer weather and of rains in Illinois and Indiana, where dry weather has delayed planting, indications of free selling by the country to arrive, and some liquidation by holders cost the corn market a fractional decline of ⅛-¼c on July and September, the July closing at 45c. There was a sharp shipping demand, however, which, with a firm cash market, closed the May unchanged at 45c on a level with July. Purchases in Illinois were liberal, but reports from the country were that bids were the highest they have been on that crop, 39@40c on the farms, and that there was a sharp demand from the south.

The Price Current said planting was still backward, but a large acreage expected. Cash sales were about 200,000 bu and would have been larger, but bids of ⅛c over May or July for No. 3 corn brought out no offers. Receipts were 236 cars with 11 contract and only 185 estimated for today. Primary receipts were 344,000 bu, compared with 142,000 bu last year. Clearances were 210,000 bu and export sales at the seaboard 96,000 bu. There was selling by Merritt, Counselman, McReynolds, Bennett, and Fowler, and buying by Pringle and Harris-Gates. Liverpool futures were unchanged.

Oats Prices Hold.

There was a little yielding in oats at one time on rain in southern Illinois and the forecast for showers and warmer weather in this state and Indiana. But the support was good enough to close the deferred deliveries about steady to ⅛c higher, while May, on scattered covering, closed ⅝c higher at 33⅝c. The Price Current's comment was considered bullish, calling the conditions improved for the week, but the crop uneven and backward. Receipts continue light, only 120 cars inspected in, with 14 standard from all sources, and only 85 estimated for today. The cash market was firm and the shipping demand improved, with sale of 150,000 bu. Clearances were 15,000 bu. Howe was a continued buyer of both July and September.

Provisions Generally Easier.

There was an easier tone in the provision list, all deliveries of product losing ground as compared with Wednesday's prices. Pork closed 7½c off on the September, though holding up on the May and July; lard lost 5c on all months, while ribs gained 2½c on May and July, though losing 5c on the September. Liverpool was unchanged on lard and hams and 6d higher on bacon. Houses with English connections sold lard quite freely. On the easy spots local packers gave the market a little support, though in a general way trade was dull and spiritless. Hog receipts were 23,000, with 16,000 estimated today. Western hogs were 71,700, against 68,700 last year. Yards prices were 5c off. The day's shipments of cured meats were 1,587,500 lbs, against 1,698,000 lbs a year ago, and of lard 1,253,000 lbs, as compared with 711,400 lbs last year.

Rye was slow at altogether unchanged prices, 50c asked for May and 50c bid for July. Receipts were 5 cars; no withdrawals from store.

Barley continued steady and unchanged, former prices being fully sustained and in some cases added to. Screenings were wanted when good, but dull when common. There were 21 cars inspected in. Screenings, country lots, were quotable at 24@35c for poor to good, at 36@38c for choice, and city at 39@40c. Poor barley, feed or mixing, quotable at 38@41c. Malting low grade quotable at 42@47c; fair to good, 50@54c; choice to fancy, 55@56c.

Restricted offerings and a slightly improved demand made timothy seed firmer and about 10c higher, May being quoted at $3.60. Clover remained unchanged at $12.50 for contract.

Former quotations prevailed in flaxseed, all market conditions being remarkably dull. No. 1 northwestern was $1.15, southwestern and May $1.11, July $1.13½ bid. There were 5 cars here, 15 at Minneapolis, and 7 at Duluth.

Trade Gossip on 'Change.

Claims of damage to the French wheat crop furnished most of the inspiration for the moderate advance in this market yesterday. Early there came from Washington the following report, received by the state department from Consul Tourgee at Bordeaux: "Cereals and forage plants throughout southwest France are seriously injured; clover is cut badly and hay crop will be short. Same is said to be true of wheat, rye, and possibly oats." A later cable from Broomhall said: "It is reported that a number of the ministry of agriculture of France states the crop advices received are not reassuring, and that wheat is seriously compromised. In many departments most reports are of a pessimistic character, almost indicating disastrous failure. There are fears that France must import considerable quantities of wheat. The millers' association says the crop is backward, but prospects are becoming more favorable. They reduce their estimate and place the probable yield as 16,000,000 bu below that of 1902."

It looked for a few minutes in the wheat pit as though Armour was ready to let the May price take care of itself. There was a break of 1½c to 76⅝c on moderate offerings. Valentine bid the market up to 78c, however, probably purchasing as much as was sold by commission houses on the earlier break.

"I am not violently bullish on wheat," said President R. G. Chandler, "but in view of the small stocks everywhere in the country and the premiums being paid for cash wheat the deferred deliveries seem to be worth current prices. Stocks at Minneapolis, which has the only large accumulation, are small for their needs and are decreasing rapidly. The milling demand there is good and the flour ouput large, the recent reduction in freight rates having brought an improvement in business. While the prospect is for a large crop, European advices are of a tenor to indicate that all the wheat this country will raise will be needed, and any accidents between now and harvest will, of course, be in favor of the bull. The speculative dullness, however, and the disposition to sell wheat on the calendar may be against any material advance now."

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 25 cars; corn, 135 cars; oats, 85 cars; hogs, 16,000.

It looked yesterday as though the shipping demand for corn was becoming more urgent than the slow receipts of the corn which the country has recently been selling for June and July shipment could supply. There was a sharp eastern demand both for domestic and export use, and premiums over May and July were bid for No. 3 corn without soliciting offers. The shipping business amounted to about 200,000 bu, but a good deal more seemed to be wanted.

New German Duty.

Advices from a well informed grain dealer of Berlin, under date of April 30, give some interesting information in regard to the additional duty on wheat and corn, the date when they are to go into effect, and their probable influence on imports. It seems that while the general expectation is that the duty will go on Jan. 1, 1904, it is quite likely it may not be applied before Jan. 1, 1905. The present duty on wheat is 35 marks per 1,000 kilograms, and it will be raised to 55 marks per 1,000 kilograms. "As to future imports of foreign hard wheats, we think the higher duty will make no difference whatever in their magnitude. American and other hard wheats are not imported, because we, ourselves, do not raise sufficient wheat for our own requirements, but because millers cannot do without them, and Germany produces soft red wheat only. It is a question of quality, as flour will not rise and keep sufficiently if manufactured from home grown wheat only. Millers must have it, no matter what the duty, and therefore imports will certainly not suffer. Of course, whenever the date of the higher duty is fixed by his majesty the Emperor William II., and ample notice will be given of the termination of the existing commercial treaties with the different and most favored nations, a large business will be done directly, and especially during the last few months before the duty goes into effect. Of course, during these months all the mills will fill up, and every importer, dealer, and economizing housewife will do likewise. It is probable the duty will go into effect at a certain hour and that it will not apply to any wheat unloaded in German harbors, but will apply to any grain still in vessels. On the other hand, some in the trade think it will apply to foreign wheat in warehouses not actually owned by millers. The duty on corn will be raised from 15 marks to 40 marks per 1,000 kilograms, and we are afraid the imports will suffer in consequence, because it is imported on account of its cheapness in comparison to our home grown feed, unless you raise a bumper crop and can sell at lower prices."

"It looks like stealing money," said Frank Dunn early in the session, "to buy July wheat around 72c. The trade has been trying to break it under that price for several days without success, and the light stocks everywhere and the big cash premiums make it look like an inviting investment. The dullness of trade is the only thing against an advance."

A cable from Broomhall announced that a cargo of Armour corn had been adjudged contract by the arbitration committee at Liverpool, but that the receivers had appealed from the decision. The Armour people here had received no notice of the dispute and were not informed even as to the amount of corn involved.

There were some complaints from Kansas of serious damage to wheat in sections by Hessian fly, and a Nebraska man, who was here yesterday, whose facilities for getting accurate information are good, says that after a week of perfect weather in that state the wheat crop generally looks thin and poor.

A Berlin message to Harris-Gates of May 2 says: "Just returned from a trip through southern Russia. Stocks of wheat there are large and the crop prospects are favorable after the timely rains on the rivers Don and Dnieper."

Broomhall's Argentine agent estimated shipments of wheat to Europe this week at 2,000,000 bu, compared with 2,400,000 bu the previous week and 621,000 bu the same week a year ago. He estimated the corn shipments at 800,000 bu.

The Schwabacher estimate on provision stocks this week includes 18,000 brls of pork, 17,000 tcs of lard, and 10,000,000 lbs of ribs. This is a slight decrease on lard and pork and a moderate increase in ribs.

Van Dusen Harrington writes Harris-Gates that flaxseeding in the northwest has been generally stopped on account of rainy weather. The acreage is expected to be reduced about 25 per cent.

The Cincinnati Price Current in its weekly crop summary says: "Moderate shifting in the wheat promise. Condition on the whole barely maintained during the week. The extent of the deterioration mostly indefinite and prospective rather than positive. Corn planting is still backward, but a large acreage is expected. Oats improved, but uneven and backward."

The Northwestern Miller says: "Seeding in the northwest has been completed a week earlier than usual, and under good weather conditions, although there is need of rain in North Dakota and western Canada. Reports as to the winter wheat crop in Missouri and Illinois indicate that considerable damage has been done by Hessian fly. In the Ohio valley conditions seem to favor an excellent crop, even though reports of damage have been circulated by prophets with axes to grind."

ADVANCE IN TOOL STOCK.

PAYMENT OF THE DEFERRED DIVIDEND IS ANTICIPATED.

Arbitration Committee Ready to Make Report—Withdrawal of Trust Companies from New York Clearing House Thus Far Means the Leaving Free of $11,000,000 Which Otherwise Would Be Locked Up as Reserve—Local Bank Stocks Firm.

Chicago directors of the Pneumatic Tool company left yesterday for New York to attend a meeting of the board today, when the question of the payment of the deferred dividend of 2 per cent will come up, as well as the settlement of the factional differences in the board. Pneumatic Tool stock advanced yesterday to 70, a gain of 6 points over the previous day's close.

The arbitration committee, of which John A. Lynch, Charles H. Wacker, and W. J. Chalmers are members, will submit a report to the board today, and are practically ready to recommend the terms of settlement. The movement in the stock would indicate that a favorable issue is expected. As to the payment of dividend, that will depend on the report of the arbitration committee being satisfactory. In case it is, the distribution on the stock will be ordered. Unfortunately, the action of the board in deferring the dividend was not correctly announced at the time, the statement being that it had been passed. It was deferred, however, because the board wished to know who was entitled to receive the dividend on a large amount of the stock, said to be $1,000,000. Until that point was determined by the arbitration committee it was deemed the part of wisdom not to pay the dividend.

Trust Company Withdrawal.

The exodus of trust companies from the New York clearing house association has grown to important proportions. The Morton Trust company is the last to make announcement that checks and drafts on the company should be presented for payment at its office. It will retire from the association on May 20.

Altogether six concerns have signified their intention of withdrawing. They carry total deposits of $227,500,000. The clearing house rule requires that trust companies clearing through it shall after June 1 carry 5 per cent cash reserve against their deposits. As the total deposits of the trust companies was approximately $400,000,000 the companies would be required to lock up $20,000,000 in their vaults. With the withdrawal, therefore, of six concerns, the amount of cash which they would have been required to keep, $11,364,705, will not now be taken out of circulation. To that extent the New York money market presumably is helped.

Union Trust company, which was the first to withdraw, carried practically a 5 per cent cash reserve. The other concerns, however, have carried but a nominal amount in their own vaults, having their reserve deposited with national banks. The six withdrawing institutions, their deposits, the reserve which they would have been required to carry, and the cash which they actually had on hand on Dec. 31, 1902, follows:

	Deposits.	Required reserve.	Cash on hand.
Union Trust Co.	$ 52,837,516	$ 2,641,875	$2,087,457

Dividends Declared.

Directors of the Quaker Oats and American Cereal company have declared the usual quarterly dividends of 1½ per cent on the preferred shares of the former and 3 per cent on the latter stock, payable on May 30. Books close on May 20 and open on May 31.

The American railway company has declared the usual quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent, payable on June 15. Books close on May 29 and reopen on June 15.

Copper Notes.

The annual meeting of the Parrot Silver and Copper company will be held at Butte, Mont., on June 2. Transfer books close on May 16 and reopen on June 16.

It is reported that the Amalgamated Copper interests are gradually securing control of the Greene Consolidated, and that Harriman and General Electric holdings have been increased during the last two months. It is also said the General Electric interests are supporting A. B. Lewis, the Majestic Copper man, who has just organized the $10,000,000 Royal Gold and Copper Mining company at Salt Lake City. The company expects to turn out copper for less than 5c a pound.

The London correspondent of the Boston News Bureau sends the following: "The possibilities of the return of bouyancy to the consuming trade for copper has kept operators in the speculative market constantly on the alert. The evening up of the remnants of the heavy bull account of the last bull movement on the part of a few leading houses, in the face of the premature attempts in other quarters to proceed with fresh speculative purchases in anticipation of another upward general movement, has caused much uncertainty in the outlook. The purchases for certain American interests have been executed quietly for some time past, and should the warrants thus acquired be lifted a sharp rally may ensue. Meanwhile, bears have covered freely."

Investors' Manual for 1903.

The "Investors' Manual" for 1903, published by the Economist Publishing company, has been received. The work has been enlarged and made more valuable. It may be accepted as an authority on Chicago corporations and their securities. But the book is of much broader scope, and contains statistics of about 500 corporations. The railroads of the United States are treated on a liberal scale, and all facts and statistics ordinarily would be required by the reader are contained in the book. Tables of highest and lowest prices of stocks are a feature.

Among the Local Banks.

Strength in a number of local bank stocks continued yesterday. National Bank of the Republic sold at 165. Continental National scored a further advance, selling at 184. First National was irregular, being quoted at 397½ to 400. A few days ago a lot sold at 400, and yesterday fifty shares were offered at 397½. Bankers' National was 186½.

While there were suggestions that the First National might be considering the Bankers' National the reason for the advance in the stock of the First can be accounted for by the institution's earnings. They are extraordinarily large, and should they so continue throughout the year a further increase in the capital stock and surplus might reasonably be expected.

Deposits of the Hamilton National are reported to be approximately $700,000. This is a good gain since the opening of the institution.

The savings banks are beginning to wonder when the numerous strikes will lead to a reduction in savings deposits. One of the principal savings institutions does not find any shrinkage as yet. On the contrary, its savings accounts are still growing. But with long continued strikes and consequent demands on the treasuries of the several unions it is deemed inevitable that the private savings accounts of the striking members of the unions will be drawn on. Should this happen to any great extent in Chicago it would materially influence the local money market.

With money easier in New York than in Chicago, and with the stock market not calling for margins, exchange on New York is still advancing, and yesterday reached 30 cents premium. One bank is understood to have bid up the rate in its effort to increase its New York balances and thus employ some idle funds now on hand. But the feature of the market is that there are no offerings, a situation which would argue that Chicago banks have their New York balances pretty well drawn down.

Missouri Pacific-St. Paul.

One of the local commission houses, King, Hodenpyl & Co., issued yesterday a letter comparing Missouri Pacific and St. Paul and advancing reasons for the desirability of exchanging through the market St. Paul common for Missouri Pacific. The figuring, in part, follows:

"St. Paul pays 7 per cent, and at 160 yields 4.37. Missouri Pacific pays 5 per cent, and at 112 yields 4.46. One hundred shares of St. Paul at 160 realizes $16,000; 150 shares of Missouri Pacific at 112 would cost $16,800.

"The dividend return on 100 St. Paul shares amounts to $700 a year, while at the present rate on Missouri Pacific 150 shares of that stock would return $750, or a yield of 4.44, and there are substantial reasons for believing that the rate may be advanced to 6 per cent in July, in which case the yield would be about 5.35. The next dividend on St. Paul will not be paid until about Oct. 23, while Missouri Pacific makes another disbursement about July 20, clearly a gain of three months in net income. The Missouri Pacific will handle an enormous traffic next year in connection with the world's fair at St. Louis, whereas the St. Paul will reap almost no benefit directly. The possibilities in the way of future development seem to us to be much greater for Missouri Pacific than St. Paul."

General Financial News.

It is announced that the directors of the Monon have changed the dates for the declaration of dividends from October and April to December and June. The fact that the regular preferred dividend was not declared in April caused some wonder. The reason given for the change is that the interest on the joint 4s of Southern and Louisville and Nashville that were issued to take up the stocks of Monon is payable in January and July, and for convenience the dividends that will supply funds to pay this interest are declared at such time that the treasury will receive the dividends and pay the coupons as they mature with but a short interval between the transactions.

The Westinghouse people have brought forward a system of mutiple unit control for street railroads which is of the electro-pneumatic type. The General Electric people thought they had the only perfect system of such multiple control. Now the Westinghouse company has added pneumatic devices which are considered to be an improvement on the Sprague system, which the General Electric owns. The Westinghouse improvement consists in arranging within one compact structure the electro-pneumatic devices to operate simple forms of electric switches which include a safety circuit, breaking device, and automatic means for preventing the application of too great an electric force to the motor.

The annual meeting of the Safety Car Heating and Lighting company was held yesterday in Jersey City and the old board of directors reëlected.

It is reported that the Colorado Fuel and Iron company will engage in the manufacture of steel farm wagons on a large scale.

More Gold Exports.

It was announced in New York yesterday that two banks there would take out $500,000 gold each from the subtreasury for shipment to Argentina on Saturday.

Chicago Stocks.

American Can preferred sold off to 46 yesterday in sympathy apparently with the New York market. The shares were moderately active.

Chicago Title and Trust scored a 1 point advance, closing at 103. Biscuit common was lower on the strike situation. The market fears the strike will become general, and while the company will be able to pay its dividends out of its surplus if needs be still it will begin losing money from the time its plants are closed down.

West Chicago stock did a little better than on the previous day. It closed at 66. The total transactions, however, were only 125 shares. Northwestern "L" bonds continued to sell at 89. West Chicago Consolidated 5s were a little firmer at 89.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

Movement of Cattle, Hogs, Sheep, and Lambs, with the Range of Prices and Comparisons.

It was the dullest day in several weeks in every branch of the live stock trade here yesterday, there being a suspicion that killers were generally afraid of the attitude in industrial circles and were not wanting to take on large supplies in the face of the numerous strikes. Receipts were 9,000 cattle, 21,000 hogs, and 9,000 sheep. Prices were generally lower all along the line, cattle being quoted 10@25c lower for the week, hogs 5@10c lower than on Wednesday, and sheep generally 10@15c lower than recent prices.

The following is a statement of the movement of live stock at the Chicago stockyards for the period indicated, with comparative figures:

Cattle.

The cattle trade was extremely dull for every description of offerings from thin stockers to the best beeves here. There was a small export inquiry for good fat handy weight cattle, and the limited offerings of these kinds sold fairly steady with Wednesday, but the same kinds of cattle could not be unloaded to the local trade except at concessions of around 10c compared with Wednesday prices, or 10c to 25c lower than opening prices of the week. The best cattle here, a load of prime Angus steers weighing slightly above 1,300 lbs, sold at $5.50, but there was nothing between this and $5.25, with only a few sales at $5.00 or better. The cow trade was as dull as steers, with prices weak to 10c lower and a decidedly spreading tendency noted in the range of prices. Stocker trade continues dull as a rule, but with a few high bred lightweight feeders selling as high as they have any time. Calves a shade stronger. Quotations:

Hogs.

Trade in the hoghouse opened slow on another slump of 5c to 10c, and while the supply was fairly bought at the decline the close was weak and could not be construed as indicating any stronger finish for the closing days of the week. The decline sets prices current 25c to 30c lower than at the beginning of the week. Receipts were liberal west, quality fair, both of which indicate that the country is in a selling mood, and continued liberal receipts may be looked for in the face of a declining market. The top sale at $6.85 was the same as Wednesday, but the principal droves, both for packing and shipping account, showed the decline already noted, $6.42 to $6.48, against $6.51 to $6.55 yesterday for the same droves. Sheep.

Sheep were dull with most prices 10c to 15c lower and a clearance hard to make at the decline. Top price for prime clipped wethers was $5.50, although the price is only nominal, there being nothing here good enough to sell at that figure. Prime clipped lambs sold at $7.15; Colorado wool lambs at $7.50, against $7.65 earlier in the week for the same kind of lambs. Choice spring lambs sold at $5.75. Quotations:

IN THE FOREIGN MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, and Securities in London, Paris, and Berlin.

LONDON, May 14.—There was a plethora of money in the market today and a fair demand prevailed in connection with the stock exchange pay day. The monetary position will be normal until the heavy borrowings from the Bank of England are liquidated.

On the stock exchange prices opened firm, but business was quiet. Operators were hopeful of an increase of business with the new account. There was a further advance of one-eighth in the price of silver today in response to more favorable Indian advices.

The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes:

STOCK SELLING KEEPS UP.

LARGE BLOCKS ARE OFFERED IN GENUINE LIQUIDATION.

Hope That Market Had Been Sold Out Proves Unfounded and Prices Drop Throughout the Day—St. Paul Weakest in Active Issues—Bankers Do Not Attempt to Keep Up Figures, Being Inclined to Let Them Fall to Attractive Prices for Investors.

[BY A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.]

NEW YORK, May 14.—[Special.]—When prices began to sag today in the early trading it was the common talk in the street that no stocks were coming out and that the market had been "sold to a standstill." It was said that because the selling had been all for the short account the shorts were to be badly squeezed.

Later, when prices declined still further, it was said that the bears were again hammering prices and that there was no liquidation whatever. The tenor of the talk all changed in the last hour, when large blocks of stock, clearly representing liquidation, came out in St. Paul, Union Pacific, Rock Island, Reading, and Central, and in many others.

In the active issues the weakest feature was St. Paul, which sold within three-quarters of the low price recorded for it in the extreme weakness some weeks ago. The decline had a disquieting effect in the street and served to impress the significance of the published utterances of a leading Standard Oil official, who held that there can be no hope of a better market with the Sherman law in force, and so long as it is in the power of one man, the president, to attack corporations as he saw fit.

It has been an open secret for some time that all the larger banking interests are inclined to let prices fall to a level attractive enough to induce outside investment.

Two reasons are offered for the decline in Reading during the day. One was that there might be some truth in the report that proceedings are to be begun in Washington against the coal combination, and the other that President Baer's statement that he hoped within two years a dividend might be paid on the second preferred held out little hope for the common stockholders for some time, inasmuch as a dividend on common will not come until after one on the second preferred. Wall street speculators say two years is too long a time.

The biggest drop of the day was in Chicago and Northwestern preferred, in which 100 shares sold down 23 points to 210. The last previous sale was at 235, March 15, a 2 per cent dividend having come off in the interim. The last four sales of this stock have marked a break of 50 points on 400 shares sold.

A story told on the floor during the day was that an effort had been made to liquidate a block of Southern railway common stock, but the market would not take the stock, and accordingly part of the order was withdrawn in the hope that a better market may present itself. Gossips had it that the selling was for the so-called inside accounts and was in order to protect other holdings.

IN NEW YORK MONEY MARKET.

General Tendency of Cash, Bonds, Railway Shares, and Other Securities in Wall Street.

NEW YORK, May 14.—The board room traders started to bid up prices and demonstrated to their own satisfaction that stock was for sale at the higher level. So they gave up the attempt to lift the market.

The bond market was quite broad, but irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,550,000. United States 2s coupon advanced ⅛ per cent on the last call.

TANGLE OF TEAMS SEEN EVERY DAY IN SOUTH WATER STREET.

Commission merchants complain that since Patrolman Peckham was fined for making a peddler move on the police are afraid to use necessary energy in controlling traffic in congested South Water street.

TEAMS OVERRUN A STREET

ON VERGE OF AN OUTBREAK IN CROWDED DISTRICT.

Commission Men and Peddlers Have Trouble, and Since Policeman Peckham Was Fined Five Days' Pay Patrolmen Are Afraid to Use Much Vigor in Maintaining Order—Confusion the Worst from 9 to 11 O'Clock in the Morning.

South Water street is on the verge of an outbreak of hostilities between the peddlers and the commission men. The congestion in the morning has reached such a stage that traffic is seriously impeded, while hourly collisions are the rule.

As a result of the most serious fracas of late Patrolman L. O. Peckham was fined five days' pay by the police trial board and transferred from the street to another part of the city. Peckham was attempting to maintain order at Dearborn and South Water streets, and in so doing ordered H. Kauffman, a peddler, to move his wagon away from the frontage of M. J. Power & Co.

Kauffman resisted and was arrested, but when brought up in police court was discharged. Charges were then preferred against Peckham, the peddler swearing that he had been struck by the policeman. Employés of Power & Co. and of other commission houses testified to the contrary, but inasmuch as Kauffman had been discharged in court the trial board decided to punish the policeman. Kauffman immediately sued Peckham for damages, alleging the disappearance of his wagon load of bananas while he was under arrest.

Policemen Afraid to Act.

The consequence of these events is that the remaining policemen in South Water street are afraid to assert their authority beyond weak oral commands, and things are going from bad to worse. Mr. Power is so indignant over the treatment of the policeman that he has directed his attorney, Manton Maverick, to defend Peckham in the damage suit.

The confusion in the street is at its worst from 9 to 11 a. m. Then there is a solid double row of wagons backed up to commission houses and extending all the way from State street to Market. Between the rows is a narrow lane, in which vehicles can scarcely pass each other. What with the hundreds of express wagons arriving and departing with towering loads of provisions, and what with the pulling and hauling and backing about of horses and the attempts of the Dearborn street trolley cars to make their way through the press, the corner policemen have their hands full.

Peddlers' Wagons in the Way.

The principal trouble is caused by the peddlers, who back their wagons up to any frontage they elect and then go away for an hour or two collecting a load. The commission men declare that their frontages should be reserved to their customers and they frequently direct the police to clear out the peddlers' carts. This was the cause of the Kauffman incident.

"This perversion of police discipline has had a bad effect on the street," said one commission man. "The patrolmen have been frightened by the fate of Peckham, and now they are afraid to call their souls their own. Instead of holding these bungling truckers down with a firm hand, as they used to do, the police are now inclined to let them go and allow the street to take care of itself. One can't blame them, of course, if a fine is the reward for discharge of duty."

Patrolman P. J. Collins, who has stood six years at the Dearborn street crossing, said: "We have a pretty hard time keeping order. The carters are inclined to quarrel and try to take up the whole street and then get abusive when reprimanded. If we haven't the authority to take wagons away from fronts where they have no right to stand we might as well give up our business here. It sort of staggers a person to see how Peckham got it, and we don't know just where we stand. I want to do my duty, but I don't want to be fined for it."

BIG LOSS IN STOCK DEAL.

BAD JUDGMENT COSTS NEW YORK FIRM $115,000.

Memorable Inflation of Northern Pacific Has an Echo in a Finding by Which Eastern Traders Are Required to Pay for the Inexperience of One of Their Attaches—Chicago Man Wins His Point Before Certification Committee.

Failure to exercise good judgment in the execution of a stock market order May 9, 1901, has just cost Ashwell & Co., brokers of New York City, $115,000.

On the morning of May 9, the day when Northern Pacific stock soared from $170 a share to $1,000, Ashwell & Co. received an order from their Chicago correspondent, Milmine, Bodman & Co., to buy 200 shares of Northern Pacific stock for cash. The New York firm had a young broker on the floor of the exchange, and the stock went up so fast that his excitement disturbed his judgment to such an extent that the stock advanced 430 points before he bought the first 100 shares. While he was thinking about what he ought to pay for the remaining hundred the stock went to $1,000 a share, and at that price he bought his 100 shares, thus completing his order to purchase 200 shares.

At the top price, $1,000, only 300 shares were sold, and Ashwell & Co. had the distinction of getting in at the top and of paying therefor $115,000.

Story of the Deal.

The transaction originated like this: A. S. White of A. S. White & Co., exporters, Chicago, was short 200 shares of Northern Pacific stock at about 155. He traded through Milmine, Bodman & Co. of Chicago, who in turn had Ashwell & Co. of New York to execute their orders and clear their trades.

On May 8 Northern Pacific stock showed symptoms of going higher, and the reports were out that the shares had been cornered. Mr. White concluded it was time to buy in the stock which he didn't have, but had sold at, say, 155 a share. He gave the order to cover to Milmine, Bodman & Co., who transmitted it to the New York firm. The order was in the office of the latter concern before the opening of the stock market on May 9. When the ticker started that morning the opening price for Northern Pacific was 170 a share and the eastern firm did not execute the buying order until 11:17 a. m., consuming one hour and seventeen minutes in buying the 200 shares of stock.

When the execution was reported to the Chicago house, Milmine, Bodman & Co. rendered a bill to Mr. White for $117,000. He demurred, saying that his order had been poorly executed and that he shouldn't be held responsible. Instead of being willing to pay the difference he asserted that Milmine, Bodman & Co. should pay him the margins he had up with the firm on the stock. He asked for about $8,000.

Matter Is Arbitrated.

The matter was submitted to the arbitration committee of the New York stock exchange last Tuesday. Milmine, Bodman & Co. refused to stand the loss, since they had given the order to their eastern correspondent before the market opened.

The arbitration committee called in twenty-five or thirty witnesses, members of the exchange, who were on the floor on May 9. They testified that the stock was offered at various prices, and that the order should have been executed under 300. The arbitration committee decided that a price of 225 for the 200 shares should have been paid instead of 600 and 1,000.

The committee also adjudged that Mr. White should pay Milmine, Bodman & Co. $2,914, representing the reasonable amount of loss which he should have sustained in a properly executed order.

Ashwell & Co. lost, in round figures, $115,000. The arbitration committee had the matter under consideration six and a half hours.

HESSIAN FLY ENDANGERS GRAIN

Examination of Samples in Kansas Causes Belief That Fully 75 Per Cent of Wheat Crop Is in Danger.

McPherson, Kas., May 14.—[Special.]—There is much anxiety among grain men at the condition of wheat. It has been found that the Hessian fly exists here to an alarming extent. From the samples of wheat brought in this morning it was found that all grain is infested with from one to eighteen flies. Many of the stalks are already broken in two. One grain firm estimates that fully 75 per cent of the crop is in danger. All volunteer wheat seems to be completely infested without exception. The samples examined today were from the most promising fields of the regularly planted grain. Some of the farmers report that their fields are alive with the pest.

GROCERS START NEW WARFARE.

Milwaukee Association Resolves Not to Handle Goods Sold or Demonstrated in Department Stores.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 14.—The grocers of this city have started a war against manufacturers who allow their goods to be sold or demonstrated in department stores. Henry W. Schwab, president of the Milwaukee Retail Grocers' association, says the action is the beginning of an open warfare against the department stores of the country that enter into competition with the retail grocers by conducting grocery departments.

TRADERS NEARING A TRUCE

POSSIBLE SETTLEMENT OF WAR OVER QUOTATIONS.

New Administration of the Open Board Said to Be in Harmony with the Officials of the Regular Board and There Are Indications That the Long Standing Controversy Is on the Point of Amicable Adjustment—What Peace Pact Would Mean.

Indications around the board of trade point to an early settlement of the quotation war which a few months ago disrupted the amicable relations between the regular and the open board, and to a resumption of the regular quotation service to the latter institution.

Plans looking to these ends have been under consideration in a quiet way for several weeks, and it is said have been considerably furthered by the election last Tuesday of Austin A. Howard to the presidency of the open board, to suceed C. Q. Albertson, under whose administration the break between the two associations occurred.

It was stated yesterday that the open board officials had notified the Western Union Telegraph company of its intention to cease its quotation service, which for two months has been distributed indiscriminately to the bucket shops of the country. This, however, was denied by Supt. Tubbs of the Western Union company, who said:

"The open board has no contract of any kind with us and no 'notice' is necessary. The quotations it furnishes go out as regular commercial messages. We are not in any fight between the two associations, and do business with both of them. As common carriers we cannot do anything else."

The fact that the open board has been closely allied with bucket shop interests has been something of a thorn in the flesh of the officials of the regular board, who, of course, welcome any plan which will keep quotations out of bucket shop hands, and it is understood will coöperate with the new administration of the open board in any plan which will tend to wipe out an element which it has been fighting for years.

The recent campaign of President-elect Howard of the open board was made almost entirely on anti-bucket shop lines.

The bucket shops when using the quotations of the open board have not sent any business to the open board. Their trades are all made in their own offices, and the majority of the members of the open board, it is said, think it more to their advantage to renew friendly relations with the big board than to keep up the bucket shop connection.

As applying to the controversy, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday decided that Judge Kohlsaat was right in perpetually enjoining George T. Sullivan from taking quotations from the telegraph companies connected with the Chicago board of trade.

Clothing House Is Bankrupt.

After a voluntary confession of insolvency yesterday, the business of William H. and Sidney W. Sutton, clothing dealers, was placed in charge of the American Trust and Savings bank, as receiver. Thirty-six thousand dollars' worth of stock is scheduled and the petitioners place their liabilities at $49,721. The assets are given at $58,645, much of which is in outstanding accounts. The house is at 246-250 Market street.

Burns Fatal to a Child.

Agnes Bradley, 5 years old, died yesterday morning from burns sustained Wednesday afternoon. The child's clothing became ignited while it was playing in front of the family residence at 3324 Charlton street. Matches are blamed.

CHICAGO REAL ESTATE DEALS.

T. R. Lyons Buys Land at Allport and Eighteenth Streets for $79,000—Other Sales Recorded.

Thomas R. Lyon has bought the property owned by John Dusek and others at the southeast corner of Allport and Eighteenth streets, 124x100 feet, with brick improvements, for $79,000.

The Seaverns Elevator company has conveyed to Clara I. Seaverns the property in Michigan avenue, 236 feet north of Thirty-ninth street, west front, 61x132 feet, for $30,000, with incumbrance of $15,000.

Richard B. Bentz has bought from L. Meadows forty acres of land at the southeast corner of Foster and North Forty-fourth avenues for $21,000.

In connection with the settlement of the estate of John R. Wilson there was filed for record yesterday a statement by Caroline F. Wilson of Brookline, Mass., to Louisa F. Ware, made Nov. 19, 1898, to the effect she had conveyed to Mr. Wilson her leasehold interest in the premises 159-161 Dearborn street, school board property, in consideration of an annual payment to her by Mr. Wilson of $4,000 during her lifetime and at her death of $25,000 to Mrs. Ware. The ground was leased to Mrs. Wilson in 1880 for a term of 105 years at an annual rental of $7,980 until 1905 and of $8,379 for the remainder of the term. The improvement, comprising a part of the Saratoga hotel, was valued by the board of review for 1902 at $72,000.

There was also filed for record a conveyance of the premises 434 North State street, 22½x130¾ feet, by Louisa F. Wilson to John R. Wilson for $15,000. The deed was executed Jan. 3, 1896.

INSURANCE WORK IN 1902.

NATIONAL BOARD OF FIRE UNDERWRITERS IN SESSION.

Annual Address of President Beath Shows That Last Year 145 Companies Wrote Policies Aggregating $22,592,612,556—Premiums Received $185,494,632—Losses Paid $97,950,790—Expenses $66,286,513—Net Results Show Profit of 4 Per Cent.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—Representatives of the big insurance companies doing business in this country today held their annual meeting, and tonight at Delmonico's held their annual dinner, this being the thirty-seventh annual meeting of the national board of fire underwriters. President Robert B. Beath of Philadelphia delivered his annual address. He said:

"The number of fire insurance companies reporting to the New York insurance department for the year 1902 was 145, one less than reported for the previous year, and seventeen less than for 1899.

"The amount of fire insurance covered by these 145 companies was $22,592,612,556. The premiums received for the same were $185,494,632. The losses paid amounted to $97,950,790, and the expenses were $66,286,513. After charging off increased reinsurance reserve, and other claims for which the companies became liable, the business of the year shows an underwriting profit of about 4 per cent.

"The widely commented upon increase in rates effected during the year, known as a 25 per cent advance, actually produced an average increase of only 9.13 cents or 8.7 per cent advance. It applied mainly to long considered underrated classes of improvement risks, so the increase simply turned the underwriting account from one of unbroken loss for a period extending over five years to one of small profit for 1902. It placed the average rate only about 4 cents on $100 higher than the rates of 1894, the decline in rates dating from that year."

At the suggestion of the executive committee a resolution was passed to the effect that it is not wise to make any expenditures for the passage or defeating of any measures pending before legislative bodies.

NEW MANAGER IN CHARGE FOR UNITED UNDERWRITERS.

C. B. Gilbert, Formerly of the Lancashire, Assumes Direction of Agency—Illinois Insurance Department Report

C. B. Gilbert, formerly western manager of the Lancashire, yesterday assumed the management of the United Underwriters' agency of Chicago. This is an organization backed by the German Fire of Indiana, the National of Allegheny, and the Farmers and Merchants' of Lincoln, and it has built up a good business in the year it has been in operation. At present it confines its operations to Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Ohio, and expects to increase its writings there, and later on to enter other states.

The Illinois insurance department yesterday sent out advance sheets from its forthcoming annual statement. It is shown that the legal reserve life companies wrote $177,434,632 in Illinois last year, and at the first of the year had $704,372,229 in force. The premiums collected were $23,973,742, and the losses paid $7,249,118. The assessment life companies wrote $11,242,550 last year and collected $783,921. The casualty companies took in $3,528,917 and paid out $1,583,828 in losses. The fire companies wrote $1,523,361,320, on which they received premiums of $17,492,686, and paid losses of $8,715,653. The insurance companies have $175,910,807 at risk in the congested district of Chicago, between the lake, river, and Harrison street.

The Illinois insurance department yesterday filed in the Circuit court the bill it has been preparing for several months against the foreign and limited liability Lloyds. It charges that the defendant organizations have not complied with the laws relating to insurance organizations, and are usurping corporate functions by issuing limited liability policies. An injunction is asked against the companies.

The defendant concerns are:

At Lloyds of New York City.
The Associated Underwriters at South and North American Lloyds.
The Allied Underwriters at New York and Chicago Lloyds.
The Atlantic Underwriters of New York City.
At New York Central Lloyds.
At the Mercantile Lloyds of the City of New York.
Tennant's Fire Underwriters of Chicago.
Interstate Lloyds of Chicago.
Northwestern Lloyds of Chicago.
National Fire Lloyds of Chicago.
Metropolitan Lloyds of Chicago.
Underwriters at Union Lloyds of Chicago.
The New York and New England Underwriters at Lloyds of New York City.
Trust Fund Policy of the New York and New England Underwriters.

John J. Twomey, for twenty-one years associated with the general agency of the Travelers' Insurance company, resigned his office with that concern yesterday and today will take charge as general agent of the offices of the Union Casualty and Surety company of St. Louis, with headquarters at 180 La Salle street.

GENERAL NEWS OF RAILWAYS.

Gould System Plans to Reach Baltimore by the Wheeling and Lake Erie Extension.

President Joseph Ramsey Jr. of the Wabash has announced that the Gould system expected to reach Baltimore by the Wheeling and Lake Erie extension. He states that it has been decided to push the Wheeling and Lake Erie, of which he is the president, eastward from Pittsburg to Baltimore without delay. The route originally planned was an extension of the Wheeling and Lake Erie southward to a connection with the Little Kanawha road, in West Virginia, which was to be extended to meet the West Virginia Central, but it was announced a week ago that work on the Little Kanawha extension had been partly suspended and that it probably would be two years before the route could be opened to traffic.

The extension from Pittsburg to the seaboard at Baltimore will give a much shorter route than that by way of the Little Kanawha. The first stretch, from Pittsburg to Bellington, W. Va., 110 miles, will be new construction. The West Virginia Central, now controlled by the Gould interests, extends from Bellington to Cumberland, Md. Between Cumberland and Cherry Run, W. Va., is a gap of sixty miles, but the right of way has been obtained, and the line is now being surveyed. From Cherry Run to Baltimore the tracks of the Western Maryland railroad will be used. With the completion of this extension the Gould railroad system will extend from Baltimore to Salt Lake City, and if the report is true that the Gould interests are about to acquire an interest in Senator W. A. Clark's San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake railroad, the Goulds will control an unbroken line across the continent.

'Frisco-Rock Island Plans.

B. F. Yoakum, president of the St. Louis and San Francisco, has returned to St. Louis from New York, where he has been for the last month completing the 'Frisco-Rock Island deal. When asked if there would be any changes in the 'Frisco management Mr. Yoakum said that none is contemplated at present. He said the relations between the Rock Island and 'Frisco were harmonious, and those conditions he thought would continue. He intimated that the two systems would continue under separate management and that the Rock Island had no intention of establishing general offices in St. Louis.

General Traffic Notes.

The St. Louis, Iron Mountain and Southern yesterday filed with the interstate commerce commission an answer to the complaint of the Central Yellow Pine association, involving charges of rebates on account of tap line logging constructions. The road's answer is a denial.

E. C. Nettals has been appointed division freight and passenger agent of the Milwaukee and St. Paul, in charge of the Des Moines division, with offices at Des Moines, Ia.

BODY OF AGATHA REICHLIN REVEALS MANY BRUISES.

Remains Are Exhumed by Coroner and Police at Elyria, O.—Brother Threatens Suit for Desecration of Grave.

Elyria, O., May 14.—[Special.]—The body of Agatha Reichlin, the sister of the Lorain priest who was murdered mysteriously, was exhumed at St. Mary's cemetery this morning in the presence of Coroner French and two detectives.

A bruise under the right eye, marks on the wrist and neck of the murdered woman indicated that a struggle had taken place and that she might have been choked before she died. None of these marks was referred to in the report of Dr. S. S. Cox at the inquest.

Following the investigation Coroner French said that the discoveries might not amount to anything, and that it was hard to determine how much figure they would cut in the case. He held that they warranted the exhuming of the body.

After the examination the remains were again interred and the party returned to Lorain.

Casimir Reichlin expressed great indignation over the action of the authorities in exhuming the body of his sister. He declared that they had desecrated the grave and threatened those responsible with a civil suit for damages.

Mayor King of Lorain reports that his mail is filled with threatening letters. One of these received today declared that his days are numbered and he will be soon done away with, because of his continued activity in the case.

TWO KILLED, MANY HURT IN EXPRESS TRAIN WRECK.

Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Cars Leave Track When Rails Spread—Engiher Sticks to Post and Dies.

Washington Courthouse, O., May 14.—The Cincinnati and Pittsburg express on the Midland division of the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern was wrecked five miles east of here this morning, and two persons were killed. All the passengers were badly shaken up and some sustained serious injuries.

The accident was caused by the rails spreading. The train was running at about forty-five miles an hour when it left the track. Engineer May remained at his post and applied the air brakes, giving up his life to save his passengers.

The engine rolled down a small embankment. The cars left the track, but none was overturned.

Many Injured in Arkansas.

Hot Springs, Ark., May 14.—The outbound passenger train on the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf railroad, which left here at 9 o'clock this morning, jumped the track on a fifteen foot embankment about a mile east of this city, wrecking all of the cars except the sleeper and carrying an iron bridge down into Gulpha creek. The fireman was killed, the engineer fatally hurt, and at least twenty other persons were injured, several seriously. Several delegates to the state convention of the Junior Order of American Mechanics were passengers and many of them sustained injuries.

CHANCE FOR INSOLVENT BANKS.

James H. Eckels Says They May Regain Their Prestige and Become Profitable Institutions.

"An insolvent bank not only can regain its lost prestige, but may become a most profitable institution by careful management," said James H. Eckels, former controller of the currency, while addressing the Men's club of the Fourth Presbyterian church last night.

"During the four years I was at Washington," continued Mr. Eckels, "165 national banks failed. One hundred and fifteen of these were afterwards reopened, and 100 became successful. Witness the Third National bank of this city. Huntington W. Jackson was appointed receiver, and under his management the creditors were paid in full and the stock became worth $300 a share."

Mr. Eckels explained in detail the national banking act, passed at the close of the civil war to afford a market for bonds issued during the war. It was not a success, he said, until by arbitrarily imposing a tax of 10 per cent on state bank notes the government placed them out of commission and gave an impetus to the organization of national banks.

GIVES SUBSIDY FOR DRY DOCKS.

Canadian Commons Adopts Resolution to Aid Commerce on Lakes, Atlantic and Pacific Coasts.

Ottawa, Ont., May 14.—[Special.]—For the purpose of equipping the lakes and the Atlantic and Pacific coasts with dry docks capable of accommodating the heaviest steamships, the government today offered a resolution in the commons authorizing the payment of subsidies to approved undertakings of this sort. These will not exceed 3 per cent of the cost of the work during twenty years from the time of completion and acceptance. No such subsidy is to exceed $30,000 a year. The motion was carried. The first two docks to be undertaken under this resolution, it is understood, will be at Collingswood and St. John's, N. B.

LORENZ CRITICISM IS DROPPED.

Congress of American Physicians Adjourns Without Praise or Censure for the Vienna Surgeon.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—The congress of American physicians and surgeons practically concluded its work today. The Orthopedic association adjourned without further reference to Dr. Lorenz. Dr. E. H. Bradford of Boston was expected to offer resolutions thanking the Vienna surgeon for visiting the United States and demonstrating his methods. The fear that such resolution might induce criticism from members of the association who do not approve of the Lorenz methods induced the Boston physician to abandon his purpose.

MARTYRS' ARCH IS DEDICATED.

Ceremonies at Oberlin in Commemoration of the Thirteen Missionaries Killed in China in 1900.

Oberlin, O., May 14.—The memorial arch erected to the memory of the thirteen missionaries of the American board of foreign missions, who suffered martyrdom in China in 1900, was dedicated here today. The Rev. Judson Smith, D. D., of Boston, secretary of the American board, presided. The dedicatory address was delivered by the Rev. Frank S. Pitch, D. D., of Buffalo.

WIPING OUT NORTH "LEVEE."

Inspector Campbell Says His District Will Be Under Control Within Two Weeks.

The north side "levee," according to Inspector Campbell, will be eliminated within the next two weeks. In the last week Detectives Berwick and Stift have arrested more than seventy-five women, most of whom have been fined by Justice Gibbons. The fines ranged from $15 to $25.
